Ambulances Rush to Scene; Fleeing Man Seized by CHP

By a Times Correspondent

SAN BERNARDINO—At least one person was killed and 25 injured when a Los Angeles-bound Continental Trailways bus overturned during a collision here today.

All available ambulances in San Bernardino were rushed to the crash on the Barstow Freeway (Highway 395) under the Highland Ave. underpass.

First reports from California Highway Patrol officers said the bus apparently struck the car and skidded over on its side. Officers said an occupant of the car fled the scene on foot but was caught several blocks away.

The bus was due in Los Angeles from New York at 7 a.m. It had made a brief stop at the Melrose Hotel in Barstow at 3 a.m.

Company officials did not immediately know how many passengers were aboard the big, double-decker bus.

Attendants at San Bernardino County General Hospital said, "We are treating about 15 people—some are badly hurt."

Bus Driver C. R. Burnell said he saw a car starting to make a U-turn ahead of him and swerved to avoid hitting it. But the bus struck the car, he said, and turned over.

Six of the injured passengers were military personnel and were taken to Norton Air Force Base Hospital.

Airman 3/C John Hunt, sitting directly behind the bus driver, told news reporters he and another passenger, Ronaldo Cruz, 21, of San Fernando, helped some of the injured off the bus.

"Some were pretty badly beaten," said Hunt.

Castro Denounces Own Leaders, Cites Errors, Abuse; Hints Purge

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Prime Minister Castro this morning denounced leaders of his revolution for creating chaos and declared that wholesale changes must be made.

"The revolution needs to revise all the revolutionary nuclei and all the political apparatus of the revolution to do away with the errors and abuses and to gain good performance," he said.

Castro named no names in his slashing condemnation of the errors of his regime.

But he said there "are people who have created chaos in the organisms of the state with their mania for putting and taking and their abuse of authority.

"The political apparatus is the backbone of the revolution. It is there that we have to take the most care, where we have to have the greatest vigilance so there will be no scoundrels nor persons taking advantage.

'This is the most fundamental and important task of the revolution."

Castro pointed the finger at those "who think they are more revolutionary than anybody and have the right to mistreat and humiliate others.

He singled out for specific criticism the committees set up to guard against counter-revolution.

"At times the revolutionary defense committees have committed injustices and we have had complaints about this," he said.

"We have to increase public vigilance against errors and injustices," he declared. "No one has the right to commit injustices and he who does so is an enemy of the revolution."

Many Members

The defense committees have members in every block, according to reports from refugees in the United States, and have no hesitation about entering homes to check up on what they consider suspicious activity.

Castro, addressing a graduating class of instructors who will teach former domestic servants, called for more efficency and revolutionary spirit in Cuba.

Floating Objects Renew Hope in Airliner Search

GUAM (UPI)—U.S. naval search planes today sighted five partially submerged objects in an area of the sea where a Flying Tiger Line plane is believed to have gone down with 107 aboard. The objects could not be identified immediately.

A Navy spokesman said a plane attached to Early Warning Squadron 1 made the find while flying a search pattern 750 miles west of Guam.

The spokesman said the pilot of the plane, and other planes that flew over the objects, could not identify them. He said they reported no sign of any life.

Destroyer on Move

The radar picket escort destroyer USS Brister was ordered to the spot to investigate. It was expected to reach there about mid-afternoon today.

(At Clark Air Forc Base in the Philippines, an Air Force spokesman said a search plane had sighted what at first was thought to be wreckage, but two other planes identified it as driftwood. This appeared to be a different sighting than the one the Navy reported.)

A Sky Warrior plane of Heavy Photographic Squadron 61 took pictures of the partially submerged objects and was flying back here with them for evaluation.

Plane Circles

Officials of the Joint Rescue Co-ordination Center said seach units would "maintain maximum effort" in the search area pending definite identification of the objects.

A KC-97 plane was circling the spot awaiting the arrival of the Brister and two Air Force SC-54 Rescue Masters of the 79th Air-Sea Rescue Squadron were con-

Drivers Reject MTA Contract; Hearing Slated

BY HARRY BERNSTEIN
Times Labor Editor

Metropolitan Transit Authority drivers early today rejected a new labor contract recommended for their acceptance by union leaders.

But a court order by Superior Judge Kenneth N. Chantry prevents a strike at least until March 26.

The vote was 877 to 342 against accepting the contract.

As soon as the results were revealed, a sealed envelope from Judge Chantry was opened. It contained the temporary strike ban.

Shouts Against Pact

After the March 26 hearing, another court order could delay a streetcar and bus tie-up until May 1 or 2, which will be 60 days after the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen presented MTA with its statement of intention to terminate the current contract.

Israeli Troops Invade Syria; Casualties Heavy

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israeli and Syrian forces clashed in a bitter night air-land battle on the eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee Friday night and today, inflicting heavy casualties in the gravest outbreak in two years.

Each side claimed a victory in the running frontier battle which involved tanks and artillery as well as the Syrian and Israeli air forces.

An Israeli army spokesman claimed 14 Syrians, including a company commander, were killed as Israeli forces launched a hit-run invasion of Syria, knocking out gun positions. He placed Israeli troop losses at five dead and six seriously wounded. The Israeli force also captured a large amount of Syrian arms and ammunition, the spokesman said.

Accounts Differ

A Syrian army spokesman said in Damascus that only one Syrian was killed and five wounded in the battle along the tense frontier. He claimed the Israelis suffered greater losses, adding that they lost four tanks and eight other vehicles.

"Five busses and five ambulances were seen carrying Israeli casualties from the battlefield," the Arab spokesman said.

He labeled the clash a "treacherous Israeli aggression" against Syrian outposts on the eastern shore.

The Israeli spokesman said the attack was supported by bombers which struck at Syrian troops dug in north of the Israeli settlement of Nukev.

The Syrians replied with a heavy artillery barrage on the Jewish collective settlement of Ein Gev, south of Nukev.

The Israeli planes struck, the Israeli spokesman said, only after the Syrians ignored a U.N. observer's cease-fire order and Syrian aircraft penetrated Israeli air space over the Jordan Valley. He also accused the Syrians of "repeated attacks on Israeli fishermen and accompanying police boats."

A Syrian army spokesman said in Damascus that Syrian troops had battled two Israeli gunboats on the Sea of Galilee for two straight days.

He claimed that the Israeli boats had "violated the demilitarized water zone on Galilee Sea and opened automatic and mortar gunfire on the unarmed Arab village of Douga" on the eastern shore. Syrian gunfire finally drove the Israeli boats back, he said, and one Arab girl was wounded in the clash.

Protested to U.N.

The Israeli spokesman said that after two Israeli policemen were wounded by Syrian fire March 8, Israel proposed that patrol boats manned by U.N. observers be operated on the eastern part of the sea. At the time Israel also fired off a protest to the Mixed Armistice Headquarters in Jerusalem and to acting U.N. Secretary-General U Thant.

The spokesman accused Syrians of making two more attacks Thursday and Friday. He charged that Syrians have been interfering for the past 10 years with Israeli fishing on the Sea of Galilee, which is within Israeli territory.

Castro Denounces Own Leaders, Hints at Purge

Charges Errors, Abuses

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Prime Minister Castro this morning denounced leaders of his revolution for creating chaos and declared that wholesale changes must be made.

"The revolution needs to revise all the revolutionary nuclei and all the political apparatus of the revolution to do away with the errors and abuses and to gain good performance," he said.

Castro named no names in his slashing condemnation of the errors of his regime.

Authority Abused

But he said there "are people who have created chaos in the organisms of the state with their mania for putting and taking and their abuse of authority.

"The political apparatus is the backbone of the revolution. It is there that we have to take the most care, where we have to have the greatest vigilance so there will be no scoundrels nor persons taking advantage.

He singled out for specific criticism the committees set up to guard against counter-revolution.

Khrushchev Boasts of Killer Rocket

Claims Missile Is Invulnerable; Can Hit From Anywhere

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev claimed Friday that the Soviet Union has created a new global rocket which is invulnerable to anti-missile weapons and can attack the United States from any direction.

The new rocket, he said, outdates the United States' elaborate radar and warning systems intended to protect it from missiles aimed over the North Pole.

He also announced the launching of a new Sputnik but the official news agency, Tass, indicated it was an unmanned vehicle though it did not specifically say so.

He 'Electioneers'

The two announcements were made before several thousand people who came to cheer Khrushchev in his unopposed election campaign in a Moscow district for the Supreme Soviet (parliament). The election is Sunday.

In his Kremlin speech Khrushchev declared:

"We will never agree" to the international inspection system proposed by the United States at the 17-nation disarmament conference in Geneva.

The Soviet Union will carry out a new series of nuclear tests if President Kennedy goes on with his plan to conduct atmospheric tests in the mid-Pacific in late April.

GIANT U.S. ROCKET SCORES IN FIRST TEST

CAPE CANAVERAL (AP)—America's mightiest war rocket, the blockbuster Titan 2, successfully flew more than 5,000 miles on its maiden test flight Friday and bolstered this nation's military and space potential.

The missile was powered by revolutionary new liquid propellants which emitted a rose-colored glow of hot gases instead of the tail of bright flame familiar to most rockets.

The towering 103-ft. vehicle was topped by the largest warhead ever carried by a U.S. rocket. The three-ton nose cone was packed with flight-recording instruments in place of the nuclear charge which would be flown in combat.

With the engines of its two stages pouring out more than half a million pounds of thrust, the 150-ton Air Force projectile blasted away from the Cape and streaked unerringly to a bull's-eye in the South Atlantic Ocean at a speed of more than 15,000 m.p.h.

Storm Curbs Search for Lost Airliner

CLARK AIR FORCE BASE, Philippines (UPI) — Thunderstorms in the western Pacific today hampered a massive air-sea search for a missing American airliner with 107 persons aboard.

Hope was running out for the four-engine plane, a Lockheed Super Constellation of the Flying Tiger airline which vanished without a trace en route to embattled South Viet-Nam with 93 specially-trained U.S. Army Rangers.

But an aerial sweep continued for some sign of the American soldiers, three South Viet-Namese soldiers and crew of 11 — including four women — aboard the charter flight.

Seventeen of the passengers and crew were from California.

No Actual Evidence

(He emphasized there was no actual evidence of sabotage as yet, but noted that the missing plane and another Flying Tiger Constellation which crashed in Alaska Thursday both had taken off originally from Travis AFB, Cal., and both were headed for the Orient. The Alaskan crash killed one man.)

The missing airliner took off from Guam at 10:45 p.m. Thursday (4:56 a.m. PST) for Clark Air Force Base

Crush Revolt, Army in Guatemala Ordered

President Calls for All-Out Effort as Rebellion Appears to Gain Support

GUATEMALA CITY (AP)—President Miguel Ydigoras' conservative government Friday night ordered an all-out army drive to smash a bloody, four-day-old revolt that appeared to be gaining fresh support.

Anti-government opposition mounted over violent measures used to end the student-sparked disorders.

Five radio station personnel were reported shot to death following an uncensored broadcast in this riot-torn capital.

Informants estimated that 20 persons — many of them students — have been killed and more than 200 wounded since the revolt erupted Tuesday.

An estimated 250 persons were arrested.

Curfew Imposed

Following a new wave of street clashes, the army seized control of the city under Ydigoras' orders and announced it is prepared to take extreme measures to restore order. Heavily armed patrols were stationed at key points and an 8 p.m.-5 a.m. curfew was imposed.

The government claims the uprising was engineered by Cuban-style Castroites and Communists.

Aided by Strikes

This was denied by the University Students Assn., which launched the demonstrations as a protest against what it called fraudulent elections of last December.

(Fidel Castro's Havana radio hailed the insurgents, declaring: "We salute our beloved brothers of Guatemala

Ship Walkout Ordered on West Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A West Coast shipping strike was ordered Friday.

A group of San Francisco and Los Angeles fresh fruit exporters telegraphed President Kennedy asking him to intervene.

Sailors were ordered off ships and onto the docks at 5 p.m. Friday from Honolulu to New York to picket ships of the Pacific Maritime Assn., whose members operate 140 vessels.

Panel Broken Up

A three-member federal conciliation panel was broken up after trying since Feb. 27 to bring shipowners and the three unions together on money. They were reported $6 million apart on a three-year contract.

Fourteen ships, including three liners with 1,200 passengers, were tied up in San Francisco Bay. Air lines set aside blocks of seats to carry steamship passengers to Honolulu and were ready to add extra flights.

3rd in 10 Months

The strike is the third maritime tieup in 10 months to hit the Pacific Coast, previously idled by a nationwide walkout and a deck officers strike against PMA.

It was cancellation of the liner President Wilson's voyage to the Orient that brought the request to President Kennedy to intervene. She carried $50,000 worth of fruit consigned to the Ori-

MTA Drivers May Reject New Contract

Times Labor Editor

Metropolitan Transit Authority drivers were reportedly voting overwhelmingly late Friday against the new labor contract recommended for their acceptance by union leaders.

Final results, however, will not be announced until after the secret ballots are counted by the state Conciliation Service early today.

A quick strike by the 2,700 drivers is not anticipated since both union and MTA representatives said they expect Superior Judge Kenneth N. Chantry to issue a temporary strike ban order.

The final court order could delay the threatened strike until May 1 or May 2, which will be 60 days after the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen presented MTA with an unequivocal statement of its intention to terminate the current contract.

Shouts Against Pact

The immediate court order banning a walkout would be based on MTA's argument that the union failed to give the proper 60-day advance notice of its strike plans.

Voting was conducted at a series of three meetings Friday.

Angry shouts of opposition to the proposed contract were heard from union members at all three meetings.

Won't Repeat Move

A strike originally slated for 12:01 a.m. Thursday was averted when union leaders negotiated a tentative agreement subject to the membership ratification vote.

When the drivers rejected contract proposals in 1960, union officers exercised their authority to sign the pact anyway.

But a union spokesman said the move will not be repeated this time.

Last week, the BRT members voted against an earlier

U.S. Copters Lead Attack in Viet-Nam

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. Army helicopters carrying South Viet-Namese government soldiers led a successful attack on Communist guerrillas near the Cambodian border Thursday, military sources said Friday.

The Viet-Cong guerrillas lost 45 killed and 65 captured, the sources reported. Viet-Namese air force fighter-bombers accounted for most of the dead with a strafing attack on guerrillas fleeing from an attacked village.

The South Viet-Namese soldiers killed five Viet-Cong and captured 65 while flushing other Communists out into the open where the South Viet-Namese planes swooped in low and riddled them with machinegun fire.

Western Test Ban Plan Out of Date, Reds Say

Negotiator Claims Russia Has Detected Every U.S. Nuclear Blast Since 1958

BY DON SHANNON, Times Foreign News Service

GENEVA—The Soviet Union Friday claimed to have detected every U.S. nuclear test since 1958 and advanced this as evidence that on-the-spot inspection demanded by the West for any test ban agreement is "out of date."

Semyon Tsarapkin, Soviet negotiator in the three-power test ban talks which began here Oct. 30, 1958, made the statement at a news conference. He also asserted that U.S. scientists have "checked and published" every Russian test.

Tsarapkin said he called the press gathering to "correct" the U.S. and British announcement Thursday of his flat rejection of two western compromise offers added to the Anglo-American draft treaty of last April.

Proposals Dismissed

The compromises — one to include all underground tests in the ban rather than exempting low-yield explosions for a three-year period, the other to cut the number of inspections on Soviet soil — were "rejected out of hand" — by Tsarapkin, U.S. officials reported.

The Soviet ambassador dismissed the western proposals as "not serious" in view of technological progress since 1958 which should enable any nation to detect tests without inspection. He charged that the United States is using the issue as an excuse to justify tests which President Kennedy has ordered late next month

Russians Start Night Flights in Berlin Lanes

BERLIN (UPI)—The Russians sent military planes into the allied air corridors at night for the first time Friday night in a dangerous new harassment of western military and commercial flights. No incidents occurred.

The Russians also announced they were sending four more flights through the air corridors today at the same altitudes used by western commercial planes and at the same time, but airline officials said these flights presented no great danger.

The United States, Britain and France sent their own military transport planes up at the same time the Russians did Friday night to demonstrate allied determination to hold on to their rights in the air corridors and said they would do the same today.

Thursday the Soviet harassment took the form of day flights, less dangerous because the allied pilots can see approaching aircraft.

International Airport Busiest in United States

Statistics from the Federal Aviation Agency confirmed Friday that the Los Angeles International Airport is the busiest in the nation.

This also could mean that it's the most active airport in in the world. But figures on arrivals and departures from foreign airfields are not available.

The Los Angeles airport leaped into first place in 1961 after being seventh in 1960, according to FAA reports.

In the landings and take-off statistics, the airport here had 324,993. This put it ahead of the second place landing field, Chicago's O'Hare Airport, which had 318,526 planes in and out for the year.

Surprisingly, the Van Nuys Airport was eighth in the nation with 281,336 aircraft operations—and all on one runway.

Furthermore, the Van Nuys field was No. 1 in the category of what the FAA calls "general aviation" (private and corporate aircraft), with 143,717 such planes using its facilities.

Behind Los Angeles and Chicago's O'Hare Airport in business were Miami, Fla. (310,731); Washington, D.C. (297,082); New York City's Idlewild Airport (290,134); Tampa (289,605); Phoenix (288,587), and then Van Nuys with its 281,336.

In 1960, when the Los Angeles airport ran seventh, Chicago's Midway Airport was first and Washington, D.C.,'s field was second.

Light Rain Falls Over Southland

A weekend of cloudy skies and occasional rain started late Friday with several sections reporting showers.

U.S. forecasters warned that Southern California could expect heavier showers today. Gusty winds today and Sunday and snow above 3,500 ft. were also predicted.

Russia Operating Nuclear Subs in Two Oceans, Navy Expert Believes

BY MARVIN MILES
Space-Aviation Editor

It is safe to assume that Russia now has nuclear submarines operating in both oceans, America's leading authority on anti-submarine warfare said here Friday.

He warned that the United States still has a "long way to go" to find an answer for the mounting undersea threat.

Vice Adm. J. S. Thach, commander, Anti-Submarine Warfare Force, Pacific Fleet, told newsmen at the Beverly Hilton that the Soviet subs are missile-armed and added that Russia also is refitting older submarines to launch missiles, both ballistic and aerodynamic.

He doesn't feel that the Reds can as yet launch missiles from underwater, as can the U.S. Polaris type, but stressed that surface launch of short range, atomic warhead missiles poses a threat with a warning time that can only be measured in seconds.

Adm. Thach stressed the revolution in tactics and security problems caused by the marriage of the nuclear submarine and the ballistic missile and noted that the speed of the nuclear sub alone makes it 44 times as hard to find as a conventional sub, to say nothing of other factors that compound the problem.

And while America's Polaris poses an extremely difficult problem for Russian defense planners, Soviet nuclears create similar problems for U.S. defense.

The only answer, according to Adm. Thach—who admits he is impatient in view of the immensity of the threat—is resolute and radical research, "multi-pronged approaches and not a bargain basement approach.

"There is no magic black

TOP O' THE mornin'. (You didn't expect us to say simply "Hello" on St. Patrick's Day, did you?)

The only thing new we have to add to the observance of the day is that we got a card from Dian Manners and Johnny Clark, the ASCAPers, containing the words and music to a new Irish ballad called "Hit Me With A Dime, Missus Ryan."

It is published in green, festooned with shamrocks and tells the story of a sweet old character who hits Missus Ryan for a dime for a wee nip.

What is it that associates the Irish instantly with wee nips? (Silly boy!)

BY THE WAY, the Irish have done a lot for literature, politics, sports—all sorts of things. They are full of no end of accomplishments and possibilities.

They have also done a lot for coffee. By re-enforcing it and giving it a halo of whipped cream. It's called Irish coffee, and begorrah you wouldn't know coffee could taste so good.

Talk about "wake-up flavor!" Irish coffee can make a dead party swing in a matter of minutes. Naturally, it takes that certain lyrical ingredient, and that's available at the Fmrs. Mkt. Wine Shop. But it isn't wine.

One thing about the Irish, they lilt.

What this does to us is remind us that we have to change our winter foliage to spring. You may have to wait a while to see if yours will bloom, but we just visit Sawyer's Garden Shop.

This way you only need a plastic green thumb, 'cause all Sawyer's foliage is fake. Realistic enough to water instead of dust, but fake.

That means indestructible, non-wilting, non-allergic—and beautiful. Plastic flowers have become an art in themselves and Sawyer's, still reveling in a new shop at THE FARMERS MARKET, 3rd & Fairfax, is headquarters for the prettiest.

By bulk we mean for the moment "wholesale." And we use the word in reference to home financing that is available everywhere.

There's a lot of mass financing and refinancing available for the home builder and home buyer today, and it sounds very attractive. Some of it may be, but we're inclined to look just slightly askance at wholesale money.

We have an idea that the kind of people who buy homes are the kind who appreciate something more than being processed by the numbers. We have a hunch they prefer to deal on a personal basis so they can talk over their particular problem.

Saturn Booster Project Stays in California

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration decided Friday against shifting the site of a Saturn rocket booster project from California to Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., an NASA spokesman reported.

The project involves development of a second-stage booster for an advanced Saturn rocket. North American Aviation Corp. won the Saturn contract last year.

The NASA spokesman said space agency officials had considered altering the contract to shift the assembly site from California to the Florida base.

Delay Seen

But he said "after thorough consideration" the idea was vetoed. The spokesman said NASA decided against it because it would have delayed the project by several months and increased the cost by several million dollars.

North American will build new facilities in California to handle the project, the NASA spokesman said. Tentative plans are for construction of the plant at Seal Beach, Cal., he said.

Inglewood Legislator Quizzed in Bomb Scare

Charles E. Chapel Taken Off Sacramento Airliner After 'Joking' About Explosives

Assemblyman Charles E Chapel (R-Inglewood) was whisked off an airliner in Sacramento Thursday night and held for questioning after remarking he had nitroglycerine and a revolver in his briefcase.

He said he made the remark in jest to a traveling companion but that the stewardess overheard it and summoned an official, who escorted Chapel off the United Air Lines plane.

It happened shortly before take-off.

The flight, bound for Los Angeles with 51 passengers aboard, was held up 53 minutes while Chapel tried to straighten out the matter with airline officials and Sacramento police.

'Comedy of Errors'

Chapel called it a "comedy of errors" and added the only thing he's guilty of is "having a sense of humor."

Any airline bomb hoax is a federal offense. Asst. U.S. Atty. Robert E. Woodward in Sacramento said Friday the FBI is looking into the matter.

Chapel said that his remark was "kind of unfortunate."

"But those airline people got hysterical about it. If they had a sense of humor there would have been nothing to it.

"They've had a few bomb scares and the least little thing sets them on fire, I guess," he said.

Chapel held a press conference at the Press Club here later in an attempt to clarify what happened aboard the plane.

He said he made the remark after stewardess Judy Churchill had requested all passengers to remove briefcases and other luggage from the racks above the seats.

As soon as he realized she had overheard him he said: "I quickly informed her that I was kidding. I told her I realized what the laws are."

Hurt Reputation

He said after he was escorted into a room in the airport for questioning, no one would accept the responsibility for his detention but he was warned he would be stopped if he tried to leave.

He said he feels the incident has been so widely publicized that it has hurt his reputation and caused his wife mental anguish.

M'NAMARA DECISION BINDING ON AIR FORCE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Air Force Zuckert indicated Friday the Air Force is accepting Secretary of Defense McNamara's decision against any immediate broadening of the B-70 bomber program.

"He makes his decision and that is binding upon us," Zuckert said in a statement.

The Air Force secretary spoke after McNamara made a bid Thursday for public support in his fight against spending $320 million more on the controversial ultra-high speed plane.

"In accordance with the way in which we operate, the Air Force has made representations to the secretary of defense for the best program we can develop," Zuckert said.

"When we go before the Congress we state what our recommendations are and give our opinions when they are sought."

Under questioning from congressional committees, Zuckert and Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, have made strong arguments for a broader B-70 program than the Kennedy administration feels is justified.

Social Figure Posts Bond for Indicted Reds

NEW YORK (UPI)—U.S. Communist leaders Gus Hall and Benjamin Davis Jr. were released on $5,000 bail each Friday when a socially prominent New Yorker posted $10,000 in U.S. Treasury bonds.

U.S. Commissioner Earl Bishopp ruled that the bonds offered by 58-year-old Lement Upham Harris were acceptable as bail. Hall and Davis were arrested Thursday on indictments charging them with failing to register the party as a subversive organization.

Harris, member of a social register Wall Street family, said he got the bonds from Mrs. Lydia Gibson Minor of Croton-on-Hudson, N.Y., who told him to use them "if an occasion should arise where people had to be bailed."

Under oath, Harris said he had been a friend of the two men for years but refused to say whether he was a member of the Communist Party. Harris, who said he was an insurance agent, has been a witness before congressional committees investigating communism.

Israel Tells of Destroying Syrian Post

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—The Israeli army announced today that one of its units attacked and destroyed Syrian military positions on the eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee late Friday night.

After the attack, the Syrians opened up with artillery on the Jewish collective settlement in Ein Gev, south of Nukev, the spokesman said.

Korea Still Won't Let Rhee Return

SEOUL (AP) — The South Korean military government today refused ex-President Syngman Rhee permission to return to his homeland. A government spokesman said that despite an apology to the Korean people issued by Rhee in Honolulu, he would not be welcome at this time.

Rhee had issued a formal apology and said he would leave today for his homeland. He was deposed in April, 1960, after student revolts toppled his 12-year government. He then fled to exile in Honolulu.

Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller Wins Divorce in Nevada

By a Times Correspondent

RENO — Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller Friday divorced the New York governor. Her complaint charged mental cruelty.

New York law allows divorce only on grounds of adultery.

Mrs. Rockefeller arrived from a guest ranch where she put in the required six weeks' residency for a Nevada divorce.

The hearing took a little less than six minutes, although Mrs. Rockefeller was in the courtroom and judge's chambers for 24 minutes.

In her complaint, Mrs. Rockefeller stated that during their 31-year marriage "the defendant treated the plaintiff with extreme cruelty, entirely mental in character, which caused the plaintiff great unhappiness and injured her general health."

This is the common phraseology in the complaint in a Nevada divorce.

Agreement on a property settlement was reached Nov. 17.

At the request of Mrs. Rockefeller, the transcript of the testimony at the hearing was sealed, and the hearing itself was private.

Congressmen in Cuba to Check Guantanamo

Increased Military Activity Outside of U.S. Naval Base Sends House Committee There

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A congressional subcommittee has started an on-the-spot check of increased Cuban military activity outside the gates of the American naval base on Guantanamo Bay, it was learned Friday.

Six members of the House inter-American affairs subcommittee flew to the Guantanamo Naval Base Thursday night. They planned to spend most of two days there.

Troop Movements

Rep. Armistead I. Selden (D-Ala.), chairman of the subcommittee, said, "It is apparent that the Communist operation in Cuba has entered a new phase.

"Along with this development," he added, "there have been persistent reports of troop movements and increased Cuban military capability in the vicinity outside the U.S. naval installation at Guantanamo Bay.

"Reports from Cuba in recent weeks indicate a steadily deteriorating internal and political situation," Selden said. "The Communist functionaries have now moved boldly and openly into key positions in the Castro government."

Stevenson Denies New Invasion Planned

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) U.S. Ambasador Stevenson Friday denied—"for the 11th time"—charges by Russia "and its new satellite, Cuba," that the United States has plans for a new invasion of Fidel Castro's island country.

"We shall not compete with the technique of the big lie," he told the United Nations Security Council.

The 11-nation council adjourned until Tuesday without taking action on Cuba's demand for an international court review of the legality of the Organization of American States' expulsion of the Castro regime.

Won't Supply Red Projects, Aid Chief Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Foreign Aid Chief Fowler Hamilton told House investigators Friday he would employ every possible means to prevent the use of American supplies in Communist aid projects.

Hamilton testified before a House operations subcommittee which is looking into a charge that U.S. cement and asphalt and an American bulldozer were used to build a hospital in Cambodia sponsored by the Soviet Union.

Former foreign aid auditor Jerry M. Jackis made the charge Thursday.

Subcommittee chairman Porter Hardy (D-Va.) told Hamilton "absolutely nothing was done to stop this and Mr. Jackis was told to let it alone."

U.S. Scientists to Beam Red Light at Moon

WASHINGTON (AP) — American scientists are planning soon to beam a powerful red light at the moon, hoping it will be reflected back to earth.

Although theoretically the beam would be strong enough to be visible for 20 million miles, the scientists say little of the experiment will actually be seen.

People living near the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor — where the experiment will be conducted—may see the beam as a "spectacular red needle" in the sky. But they will have to look sharp, for the light will dart out in pulses of a fraction of a second.

The hope is, said physicist Peter A. Franken of the university tsaff, that some of the beam can be bounced off one of the moon's highly reflective craters — making a round trip between the earth and moon in 2½ seconds.

WITNESSES CREMATION

First Lady Visits Holy City of India

UDAIPUR, India (AP)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy saw a cremation at Banaras Friday and watched hundreds of pilgrims—along with stray water buffalo — bathing in the murky green waters of the Ganges River at that city, which Hindus consider the gateway to heaven.

Priests rang temple bells in her honor and burned sandalwood, flowers and teak that smothered odors of the cremation ghats. Laundry stretched on the stone-terraced steps and sands along the river's banks.

Sheltered From Sun

Sheltered from the hot sun under a white, gold-fringed umbrella held by a servant uniformed in crimson and gold, Mrs. Kennedy made a six-mile, 65-minute cruise on the muddy Ganges in a 40-ft. motor launch supplied by the Maharaja of Banaras.

Thousands of Indians watched and acclaimed her.

It was the high point in a day of sight-seeing which brought Mrs. Kennedy at dusk to Udaipur and the most enthusiastic, if not the largest, reception of her five-day-old goodwill tour.

More than half the 100,000 people of this colorful white-washed town of West India, 350 miles southwest of New Delhi, turned out to welcome her. She plans a quiet weekend here as the guest of the Maharana Shri Bhagwat Singhji, a desert prince who is the local equivalent of a maharaja.

Thousands of Indians, held behind bamboo railings, cheered as she walked down steps carpeted in purple to the maharaja's launch.

"Mrs. Kennedy zindabad (hail)," they shouted.

Army Deserter Helped Russia, U.S. Charges

Soldier Accused of Giving Red Agents Data on Nuclear, Guided Missile Systems

KANSAS CITY, Kan (UPI) — The federal government charged a U.S. Army deserter Friday with passing restricted information about the nation's nuclear and guided missile systems to Russian agents.

The soldier, Pfc. George John Gessner, 25, who had worked in the missile program for almost seven years, was named in a warrant filed here charging violation of the Atomic Energy Act.

Serving Sentence

U.S. Atty. Newell George said Gessner is in custody at the U.S. Army disciplinary barracks at nearby Ft. Leavenworth, where he is serving a one-year term for desertion. He is scheduled to be released Monday, George said, and will be taken before U.S. Judge Arthur Stanley in Topeka. He said he will recommend that there be no bail.

The warrant charged Gessner with passing the military information to Communist agents at the Russian embassy in Mexico City after deserting the Army Dec. 7, 1960, at Ft. Bliss, Tex., the U.S. Army Guided Missile Center.

FBI Investigation

During the three months he was stationed at Ft. Bliss, Gessner was assigned as a nuclear weapons maintenance specialist with the 61st Ordnance Group. In such duties, the warrant said, he worked with the Nike, Hercules and Corporal guided missiles and the Honest John rocket. All are capable of carrying nuclear warheads.

The warrant, based on an investigation by the Department of the Army and the FBI, said Gessner had passed the information to "an agent of the Soviet Socialist Republic" between Dec. 19, 1960, and Jan. 13, 1961, with "intent to injure the United States and to secure an advantage for the said Soviet Socialist Republic."

who are covering themselves with glory fighting for their democratic rights and national liberation.")

The students, demanding Ydigoras' resignation and dissolution of congress, have won support through strikes by railway workers, bank employees and a large number of farm and business workers.

A growing number of professional groups, including doctors, lawyers and educators, also have denounced the government for alleged police brutality.

While police have been battling demonstrators in Guatemala City, the army has been trying to run down two small guerrilla groups operating in the northern and northeastern parts of the country.

Rebel Manifesto

One band is headed by Carlos Paz Tejada, former defense minister, who issued a manifesto earlier in the week urging the people to overthrow Ydigoras.

Informants said the other insurgent band is composed mainly of former army officers calling their group the 13th of November movement. An uprising by rebellious officers Nov. 13, 1960, was smashed by Ydigoras.

The reported shooting of the radio station personnel occurred during a police raid.

Dr. Timothy Crocker of the University of California Medical Center received a one-year grant of $7,000 to continue research in cell physiology and virology.

The General Tumor Registry at the UC Medical Center was awarded $8,216 for follow-up research of cancer patients.

MTA DRIVERS VOTE

MTA offer by a 3-to-1 margin.

The latest proposal provided for a $13 monthly contribution by MTA per member for health and welfare benefits instead of the previous offer of $12. Present payments are $9.49 monthly.

The pact also provided for 22 cents in wage hikes spread over a 27-month period — the same offer already accepted by MTA mechanics and clerical employees.

Loud applause came, to the surprise of most observers, when BRT Chairman Don Sheets warned that if the collective bargaining process failed, the state Legislature may put MTA employees under civil service.

Typical comments heard at the stormy sessions included:

"Almost everybody in the country has lunch breaks, why not us?"

The union sought but failed to get a lunch break for drivers working more than five hours continuously.

"Garbage collectors for the city get sick leave. How come you couldn't get it for us, Sheets?"

MTA's board of directors will meet 11:30 a.m. Monday to fix a date for public hearings of probable increases in fares.

The basic 25-cent single fare is expected to remain the same but tokens are expected to go from the present 2 for 45 cents to 2 for 50 cents, with a 1-cent hike in the present 1-cent zone change rate.

MTA Manager Denies Barring Safety Agents

Cone Bass, general manager of the Metropolitan Transit Authority, angrily denied Friday that he had refused safety inspectors from the State Public Utilities Commission access to the authority's equipment.

He issued the denial in response to a PUC press release which asserted that he had turned down a request by commission engineers to permit safety inspections on grounds the commission's jurisdiction did not extend to this phase of MTA's operations.

Willing to Comply

Bass said the authority would comply with all provisions of a PUC order regarding equipment specifications "not because we are required to by law but because it is in our opinion good business to do so for the protection of our passengers, employees and equipment."

The dispute grew out of an announcement by the PUC ordering an investigation into the operations and safety practices of the MTA as a prelude to a legal test of a section of the MTA Act.

A WILTED ROSE

The Past Catches Up With Itinerant Clown

BY ART BERMAN

Poor old Cymbol Pathetique, the elegant harlequin clown, was quietly watering the flower in his buttonhole Friday afternoon when his world of happy sadness turned to plain misery.

Cymbol, who roams around the country entertaining children in hospitals and institutions, was standing at Fairfax Ave. and Wilshire Blvd. and "relying on the generosity of my fellow men to help support my mission in life."

"I suppose," said Cymbol, lifting his top hat to show a chalk-white scalp, "you could say I was begging."

'A Humble Clown'

That's exactly what Officer Al Hogan thought when he happened on the scene.

"And what have we here?" said Officer Hogan. "And on the eve of St. Paddy's Day, too!"

"Just a humble clown, sir," said Cymbol, who is also known as Larry Evers, 42. "I'm soliciting money for charity."

"So it seems," said Officer Hogan. " 'Tis sad, but that's illegal, and I shall have to check your record."

In a few minutes, Officer Hogan learned that Cymbol was a wanted man — he had left town last year without posting bail on a jay-walking ticket.

So down to the Wilshire Division station house it was, with Officer Hogan escorting the clown, and Cymbol waving a wilting rose and collapsing cane.

Cymbol posted $25 bail and put on a brief show for a handful of policemen and prisoners before going free.

The clown said he used to be a Broadway dancer and then became a Trappist monk. But neither profession worked out well, so he decided to combine his love of performing and religion.

'Elegant but Stupid'

The result was Cymbol, "a classic but slap-stick clown who begs so he can entertain children," he said.

"I bring the kids what they don't have — joy and laughter, life and happiness. I'm elegant but stupid, and they love my failures.

"They say, 'Oh, there's someone as miserable as I am.'

"So true, so true," said Cymbol, and his rose wilted almost completely.

Ex-Nazi Gets Life for Killing of Jews

STUTTGART, West Germany (Reuters) — Former Nazi SS Elite Corps officer Felix Landau was sentenced to hard labor in prison for life by a court here Friday for the wartime murder of 21 Jews in the Ukraine.

The prosecution said Landau, 51, who was in charge of forced labor at Drohobycz, ordered the shooting of 20 Jews in 1941 because another group of Jews failed to report for work.

Judge Gives Want Ad Killer Death Sentence

RIVERSIDE (UPI) Lawrence Aken Jackson, 34, of South Gate, Friday was sentenced to death for the want ad murder of unemployed secretary Doris Keyes, 51, last Sept. 15.

Superior Court Judge Russell S. Waite sentenced Jackson to the death penalty chosen by the jury Feb. 26. Jackson was convicted of first degree murder by the jury four days earlier.

Mrs. Keyes had placed a situations wanted ad in a Los Angeles newspaper. Jackson was accused of calling her through the ad, taking her to a lonely canyon near Banning, assaulting her and then murdering her.

Jury Acquits Gene Autry

Cowboy singer Gene Autry Friday was found not guilty of drunk driving.

A jury of six men and six women, which heard two and one-half days of testimony, deliberated an hour and a half before returning the verdict in the Van Nuys Municipal Court of Judge Donald M. Redwine.

Autry was arrested Dec. 6 at Sunshine Terrace and Laurel Canyon Blvd., Studio City.

State's Lightest Murder Sentence, 150 Days, Changed to Life Term

The lightest sentence ever given a man convicted of first degree murder in California — 150 days in jail — was voided Friday when Superior Judge Frederick W. Mahl Jr. imposed a term of life in prison on Ignacio Guerrero, 40.

Judge Mahl sent prosecutors scurrying to their law books last Nov. 29 when he placed Guerrero on probation.

The District Attorney's office took the matter to the District Court of Appeal, which ordered Judge Mahl to sentence Guerrero to either the death penalty or life in prison. The State Supreme Court this week agreed with the appellate court's decision by refusing to review the case.

Judge Mahl, prior to ordering Guerrero to prison, denied motions by Nick N. Mrakich, the defendant's attorney, to reduce the charge to second degree murder and to allow Guerrero to withdraw his plea.

Guerrero had pleaded guilty to the July 14, 1961, slaying of Maximo Bustillos, 37, a man who had dated Mrs. Guerrero two years prior to the shooting.

10 Americans Hurt in Italian Bus Collision

ROME (AP) — A bus carrying 40 American tourists collided with a truck south of here Friday and 10 of the Americans were injured, three of them seriously.

The Americans were on their way from Rome to Naples to take a boat to the Isle of Capri.

One of the most seriously injured was Mrs. Sylvia Fisher Green, 51, of Long Island, who suffered fractures of both legs, a brain concussion and severe shock.

Four others who were given first aid treatment and released were Mrs. Green's husband, Harry, 55; Mrs. Mildred Concannon, 54, of Rochester, N.Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Godson of Snyder, N.Y.

Bette Davis Must Answer Suit on Child

Divorced from actor Gary Merrill in Maine nearly two years ago, actress Bette Davis was ordered Friday to answer Merrill's petition for child visitation rights filed in Santa Monica Superior Court.

Commissioner Erich Auerbach gave John Schenck, counsel for Miss Davis, 20 days to reply after ruling that a private contract rather than the divorce governed the issue.

Miss Davis filed suit in Santa Monica court last December claiming Merrill was $1,450 in arrears on payments for support of their three children. Merrill, of 66 Malibu Colony, told her he would pay the money if permitted to see his children.

the trouble with our sport coats

Are we getting too big?

This week we have 91 different kinds of sport coats on our racks. Absolutely ridiculous. What other store in America could show you half that many?

Tough on our customers, actually. How can a guy decide which jacket he likes best when there are 91 patterns to pick from? Not only that, but each pattern is in a choice of one to six colors. Imagine.

If you are a Dorman's customer, or are considering the possibility, here's a tip. Practice up on your will power before you come in. Buy the third sport coat you are shown, regardless of what it is.

Don't let our salesman slyly tempt you into buying more sport coats than you really need by dangling the whole heart-thumping selection before your eyes.

But then, pity our salesman, also. In other stores, after you have bought the coat, the salesman only has to put about five coats back on the rack. At Dorman's, our men could go mad by May. Selling is fun around here. But you don't know how monotonous it can be picking up 91 coats after each customer leaves.

There we go burdening you with our troubles again. We got off the subject. We were just trying to warn you. Unless you've been here before, you've never been in a store like this. You mustn't let our stuff turn your head or you're sunk. You'll spend too much money.

That's why we're not going to list more than 30 or so of our 91 different sport coats in today's advertisement.

We want you to get used to Dorman's gradually.

the soft sell

Quite a few advertising men buy their clothing at Dorman's.

They claim there are two kinds of advertising. Hard sell. Soft sell.

Maybe so. We always thought there were two kinds too. The kind that communicates. The kind that doesn't.

We sling an awful lot of words at you. But we do try to communicate.

We like you to know that we never run specials. We never change prices, up or down. We get along nicely without exclamation points, which is unusual for a price cutter, you've got to admit. We don't take ourselves too seriously. We have to sell four times as many suits as any other store, because we take half the normal profit, and that is not a mistake in arithmetic.

So which kind of ad do you prefer? The kind that goes POW!!! (with 3 exclamation points), or the kind that goes ps-s-st?

Whether you're a natural shoulder ad man, or a one-button doctor, or a single/double breasted stock broker, or just a plain 3-button banker, if you're the type that reads our ads and then does something about it, you're the type we like.

Have you been to Dorman's yet? This is the only invitation we will offer you today.

State High Court Asked to Overrule Files Order

Mosk Acts to Prevent Secret Documents From Being Returned to San Diego

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Atty. Gen. Mosk asked the State Supreme Court Friday to set aside a San Diego County Superior Court order that secret files recently removed from the National Guard armory there be returned to San Diego.

The files, reportedly containing information on subversive activity, were seized on order of Maj. Gen. Roderick Hill, California adjutant general.

Maj. Gen. George W. Fisher, retired National Guard officer, sued for their return saying they belong to the San Diego Research Library.

Judge William A. Glenn on March 9 ordered the files placed in custody of the court clerk pending determination of Gen. Fisher's suit.

The News-Call Bulletin is co-owned by Scripps-Howard Newspapers and the Hearst Publishing Co., Inc.

Educators Back June Bond Vote, Brown Says

Claims Support of Administrators and Teachers Groups for Issue in Primary

Times Sacramento Bureau

SACRAMENTO—Two education groups endorse submitting a $200 million school bond issue to the voters on the June 5 primary election ballot, Gov. Brown declared Friday.

The governor said the California Teachers Assn. and the building aid committee of the California Assn. of School Administrators both support his plan to do this.

The Republican caucus of the Assembly and Senate GOP members have urged all $820 million in proposed bond issues, including the schools item, be held up until the Nov. 6 general election.

Deceit Charged

They, and former Vice President Nixon, who is opposing Brown for re-election, have charged the incumbent governor is trying to "deceive" the people by splitting four issues between two elections.

The administration also wants to submit $270 million in related capital, improvement bonds in June, leaving $350 million for veterans housing loans and recreation for the fall election.

Brown said the stand taken by the CTA and the CASA committee is "nonpartisan" in the fight between the Democrats and the Republicans over the timing of the bond issues.

Presents Reason

"I am releasing this information at this time because the people of this state are entitled to know how leaders in education feel about the merits of this case," he said.

The Democrats claim a delay in the June vote for the $470 million means a slowing up in distribution of aid to local school districts and completion of construction for several state college and university facilities.

GOP leaders insist this will not happen because ample bond funds are already available to last until November.

Farm Problems Super-Partisan, Nixon Asserts

California's agricultural problems are "super-partisan" and should be handled by citizen groups and experts rather than "political retreads and freeloaders on the patronage gravy train," Richard Nixon said Friday.

Addressing combined Exchange Clubs at the National Orange Show in San Bernardino, the candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination said "the real problems of California agriculture will not be solved by creating some new super-grade bureaucrats."

The former Vice President also declared "the most destructive of all the contributions that the extremists are making to political debate and public discussion these days is their insidious practice of choosing up sides." He stated:

"They specialize in dividing the American people against themselves. And this goes double in spades for the left wing politicians who pitch their appeal to a whole catalog of so-called 'special interests' — labor against management, farms against factories, cities against small towns."

Brazil to Get Grain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department announced Friday it will provide Brazil with $58.6 million worth of surplus grain under the food-for-peace program.

Dolwig Backs Red Party Ban

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Sen. Richard J. Dolwig, a candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general, Friday signed a petition for a proposed constitutional amendment to outlaw the Communist Party.

The Redwood City legislator said the measure would give California the strongest and most effective anti-subversive law in the nation.

Shell Warns on State Government Spending

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California's population is expanding faster than its economy but is trailing far behind increasing costs of state government, Assemblyman Shell told the Commonwealth Club Friday.

The candidate for Republican nomination for governor said the trends pose a threat of "fiscal disaster" to the state.

Tracing what he called "unbridled government growth and expense" since 1945, Shell said the population has increased 109%, the number of state employees 226% and the state expenses 813%.

Breaking it down to an individual basis on money, Shell noted per capita income increased 83.9% in the period compared to a 204.8% increase in tax collections and a 919% increase in per capita state debt.

"We cannot continue this course of unbridled government growth and expense—under Democrats or Republicans — without suffering fiscal disaster," Shell said. "During the past three years, the Brown administration has accelerated that pace."

Amendment to End Poll Tax Asked by President

Letter Addressed to Senator Made Public During Battle Over Vote Qualifications

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, in a letter made public Friday, said adoption of a constitutional amendment abolishing the poll tax "would constitute an important contribution to good government."

"It would encourage wider voter participation in the elections for President, Vice President, members of the U.S. Senate and members of the House of Representatives," he said.

Sent to Sen. Holland

The President's letter was addressed to Sen. Holland (D-Fla.) and was made public by the Senate in the midst of a Senate battle over an anti-poll tax amendment.

"I share your conviction that the right to vote in federal elections should not be denied or abridged because of failure to pay a poll tax or to meet a property qualification," Mr. Kennedy write Holland.

There are five states — Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia — that require voters to pay poll taxes.

Democratic Leader Mansfield of Montana said he saw no prospect of a Senate vote on the proposed constitutional amendment before next week.

Some senators contend that payment of poll taxes, as prerequisite to voting in federal elections, could be abolished by a simple statute; that a constitutional amendment is unnecessary.

Sen. Keating (R-N.Y.) expressed this view in a Senate speech Friday, but said he would vote for the constitutional amendment if an effort to substitute a simple statute is defeated.

Action Pledged

Mansfield has pledged to move sometime next month for action on the second civil rights measure asked by Mr. Kennedy—a bill to declare that anyone with a sixth grade education may not be barred through a literacy test from voting in federal elections.

Southern senators are set to wage an all-out fight against the bill.

Senate Group Restores Customs Officer Fund

Times Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The Senate Appropriations Committee Friday restored approximately one-half of the funds cut by the House from legislation authorizing additional customs officers to combat narcotics smuggling.

The Los Angeles area would stand to get an estimated eight to 10 new customs enforcement officers if Congress sustains the committee's action.

The funds were added to a $5.5 billion appropriation bill to run the Treasury and Post Office Departments for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Tells Urgent Need

The Kennedy administration had requested funds for 210 customs enforcement officers to augment policing of the nation's waterfronts. The House, however, provided funds for only 25 additional officers.

In urging restoration of the money cut, Sen. Engle (D-Cal.) said there was an urgent need for a larger customs enforcement force to combat narcotics smuggling. The Senate committee responded by restoring funds to finance an additional 100 officers.

Engle's office estimated eight to 10 of the new officers would be assigned to the Los Angeles waterfront, should the money bill remain intact.

There also would be an assigned to the California increase in the customs force Mexico border.

U.S., Mexico to Take Up Mexicali Salt Problem

Kennedy and Lopez Mateos Order Experts to Find Cure for Vexing Water Condition

Times Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy and Mexican President Lopez Mateos Friday jointly ordered their water and soil experts to find an immediate solution to the vexing salinity problem in Lower California.

The two Presidents instructed their representatives on the International Boundary and Water Commission to propose corrective measures within 45 days.

"It is urgent to find a mutually satisfactory solution to the salinity problem," they stated in messages released simultaneously in Washington and Mexico City.

Farmers Protest

Since last October, farmers in the 400,000-acre Mexicali Valley have been protesting to the United States that water flowing onto their land out of the Colorado River is too salty to be used for agricultural purposes.

Col. L. H. Hewitt, the United States representative on the commission, and David Herrera, Mexico's spokesman, have been conferring on the matter since the issue was first raised, but they have not previously had the benefit of outside engineering help.

Mr. Kennedy and Lopez Mateos ordered them Friday, however, to hire qualified water and soil scientists to survey areas in both countries that affect or are affected by the salt water problem.

Most Effective Way

This would be "the most effective way" for the two commission members to find a solution to the matter, said the two Presidents.

Mr. Kennedy and Lopez Mateos declared: "The objective of the two governments is, without prejudice to the legal rights of either country, to agree upon and actually put into operation remedial measures within the shortest possible period."

Although the two Presidents recommended that a report be made to the commissioners within 45 days, government spokesmen said they expect a plan to be submitted directly to Washington before the end of April.

For further details on the salinity problem, see Science Writer George Getze's three-part series beginning in Sunday's Times.

No Surplus Water Left in Colorado, Aide Says

Any new projects authorized on the Colorado River would take up virtually all the mainstream's available remaining supply, a longtime water engineer said Friday.

Raymond Matthew, retiring chief engineer of the Colorado River Board of California, told a Chamber of Commerce meeting that 40 years of records taken at Lee's Ferry show an average annual flow of 14 million acre-feet.

Matthew, speaking before a meeting of the chamber's Water and Power Committee, said the requirements of existing projects and those already authorized amount to 13.3 million acre-feet.

"If pending projects in New Mexico and Colorado are approved, they will take virtually all the remaining uncommitted water," he declared.

State Water Project Cost Rise Seen

SACRAMENTO (AP) — William E. Warne, state director of water resources, Friday said the present estimated cost of the California Water Project—$1.76 billion—will "rise as time goes by."

Warne told the State Water Commission cost estimates will increase as final plans are completed and construction costs determined.

He added that financing was given a tremendous boost recently when Long Beach voters repealed a city ordinance which had prohibited new oil drilling in tidelands.

With half of the revenue from the tideland oil going to the State Water Fund, Warne said, the state's share could total as much as $1 billion.

Accord Reported Near on Algeria Cease-fire

EVIAN, France (UPI) — A French official said Friday the French and Algerian representatives negotiating an end to the Algerian war are only hours away from agreement.

"Our reports indicate that it is only a question of hours — although perhaps many hours," information minister Christian de la Malene said in Paris of the chances for a cease-fire.

Many officials at the talks in this French town near the Swiss border said agreement could be reached by noon today. They predicted that President de Gaulle would proclaim the end of the seven-year war in a nationwide television and radio broadcast tonight.

Conference sources disclosed, however, that progress slowed sharply in Friday's two sessions, after the major accomplishments of the previous day.

Thursday's nine-hour session resulted in virtually complete agreement on arrangements for the 9,000-man Algerian rebel army after the armistice.

Sources close to the French delegation said geographical distribution of the rebel units has been arranged. Previously, the French had insisted that the rebels be confined to certain areas and be dependent on French troops for supplies and food.

Moslem sources said the agreement means the rebel troops will remain largely on the territory they now occupy.

Editors Given Lunch

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy invited about 25 Michigan editors and publishers for lunch at the White House Friday.

Bazooka Terror Shot Misses Algiers Car

ALGIERS (UPI) — A terrorist fired a bazooka shell at an armored car guarding the French administration building in Algiers Friday night. No one was injured.

Police said the shot apparently was fired from across the "forum" square at one of a dozen gendarmerie armored cars in front of the building. It missed the car and chipped a chunk from a cement pillar in front of the building.

Throughout Algeria Friday terrorist violence took a toll of at least 18 dead and 21 wounded, raising the casualties since Jan. 1 to 1,704 killed and 3,405 wounded.

Algiers was hit by a wave of strikes. Bus personnel, taxi drivers, gasoline station attendants, lawyers and professors left their jobs.

ALL FURS NATURAL MINK AND EXACTLY AS REPRESENTED, SEVEN-DAY MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE.

MINK SALE: Two for the price of one!

Yes, you read it right. Buy one mink stole, cape, jacket or coat and get another of equal value absolutely free! No muskrat, seal, sable, Persian lamb—or bull. Just mink. Mink by the rackful in every couturier style and color from natural ranch to Jasmine* white.

Business is bad.

The weather has been killing me. All that rain. My regular business has been so bad I'm overstocked to the point that I must reduce my inventory. I haven't got enough hanging space to take care of the minks I have already and more are coming in every day. Ergo, hence and Q. E. D.—my biggest sale in history! Buy one mink and pick out another to go along with it.

One sale—two customers.

Mothers, grab your daughters. Nieces, bring your aunts. Wives, bring your sisters-in-law. Buy one fabulous mink stole. Get the other one absolutely free. Each of you take one. Split the cost. You have to win. I'm the only loser.

No dealers, please.

Fellows, stay away. This is strictly for the public. It won't—it can't—last forever. Frankly, once we raise the cash we need and make room for new arrivals, the party's over. But while it lasts, it's a smasheroo!

Guaranteed bargains.

I'm so sure that nobody—no other furrier, no department store, no discount house—can better my prices for mink that you get seven days to run all over town trying to beat my two-for-one deal. If you can, I merrily return your money while parading up and down in my mink-trimmed sandwich boards.

Slash, crash, smash!

Today is sale day. Tomorrow, too. Two minks for the price of one! Ole'.

Buy one mink—get another free!

How can I do it?

1. PURCHASING POWER: Because I sell nothing but mink, I buy nothing but mink. But how I buy 'em! By the carload. In fact, my agreement with my suppliers is that I take in huge quantities of the latest mink stoles, capes, jackets and coats no matter how bad business conditions are. I must sell hundreds of minks every month to keep my doors open. Last month was awful, so I have to catch up in March.

2. SELECTION: My middle name — Eddie "Selection" Gevirtz. You never have to settle for second choice. Exactly what you want is exactly what I've got. Bigger selection means fewer lost sales. Fewer lost sales means I sell more mink. The more mink I sell, the lower the prices go.

3. LOW OVERHEAD: Don't get me wrong, I've got the finest salon in town. No pipe racks here. Mink deserves nothing but the best when it comes to atmosphere and that's what I give it. Our selling costs are rock-bottom because we sell more mink than anyone else. Simple, isn't it?

SERVICE FOR A QUEEN (or a king, if your husband's doing the buying).

1. Kind and courteous sales help, yours truly included.
2. Small deposit reserves any mink in our stock.
3. Two long years to pay.
4. Free repairs for five years.
5. Free storage for five years.
6. I'll handle your insurance for you if you have no agent.

WARNS ON SUBS—Vice Adm. J. S. Thach, commander, Anti-Submarine Warfare Force, Pacific Fleet, at Beverly Hilton press conference at which he warned Russians may be using nuclear submarines.

box, no panacea that will do the trick," he emphasized, "and there are no breakthroughs in the forseeable future. There is no glamor involved and it is difficult to get money.

"But in view of the fantastic destruction that can be delivered by the nuclear submarine, we must get on with a comprehensive program in colleges and private research laboratories as well as government labs and the organized industrial ability already in action."

Areas of Study

The ASW expert stressed, too, that projects should include not only the sonic area of detecting enemy subs, but all possible areas of investigation — photography, infrared, radar, satellite scanning, magnetics, hydrodynamics, human engineering, wake scrutiny.

"You name it," he said, "and we need it."

Slayton Starts Training Orbit Shot Successor

Astronaut Admits He's Disappointed but He Still Holds Hopes for Future Flight

BY ROBERT THOMPSON, Times Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Astronaut Donald Slayton put aside his personal disappointment Friday and began assisting the man chosen to replace him on America's second orbital flight—Navy Lt. M. Scott Carpenter.

But, Slayton, who was removed from the next Project Mercury shot, because of a heart condition, retained hope that he eventually will make a space flight.

"I'm damned disappointed; let's face it," declared Slayton at a press conference called by the National Aeronautics and Space Agency.

Still Hopeful

He indicated, however, that he still sees a chance to make a space flight because his heart condition has not interfered with his rigorous life or his performance of duty.

When the erratic heart action comes upon him once every two weeks or so, said Slayton, he usually gets rid of it "by running two or three miles."

3-Orbit Flight

Turning away from his personal letdown, Slayton the 38-year-old Air Force major, looking tanned and healthy, said the most immediate task before him is to "bring Scott Carpenter up to date on the capsule."

The 36-year-old Carpenter was designated Thursday to be the nation's second man in orbit after doctors discovered a recurrence of a heart defect that Slayton has had since 1959.

Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, associate director of NASA, explained to newsmen that the decision to substitute Carpenter for Slayton pertained only to the three-orbit flight expected to be launched in May.

He said NASA has not made a decision on the possibility of Slayton making a future flight.

Referring to Slayton's heart condition as "his little defect," Dryden declared: "All of us have similar things wrong in our bodies."

Stays in Program

He stressed that the robust Slayton—know as "Deke"—will continue in the Project Mercury program and will play a "very important part" in Carpenter's mission.

Although NASA discovered Slayton's heart problem nearly three years ago, Dryden said, the astronaut was kept in the space program because "we had assurance from the medical people that this would not interfere" with his work.

The decision to remove Slayton from the next flight was made after an examination of the astronaut by an Air Force medical board. The decision was confirmed by a civilian board of consultants.

QUEBEC CITY (UPI) — Legislators have been known to exchange heated words, but two members of the Quebec Legislature are planning to exchange shots in a duel.

'I SHOULD BE DEAD'—Mrs. Wayne Simpson, who spent 40 terror-filled minutes in an electrically charged bathtub, shows the sunlamp that tumbled into the tub when she pulled the drain plug. (AP) Wirephoto

LAMP FALLS IN BATHTUB

Electricity Paralyzes Woman 40 Minutes

PESHASTIN, Wash. (AP) — A Peshastin housewife who survived 40 fear-filled minutes in an electrically charged bathtub confounded doctors who concurred in Mrs. Wayne Simpson's assessment:

"Why I'm not dead I'll never know."

Mrs. Simpson was alone Tuesday in her farm home and taking a bath. When she pulled the plug, an aluminum sun lamp on the wall above fell into the water.

The electrical charge stiffened Mrs. Simpson immediately, throwing her legs erect against the far wall. She lay that way until her husband returned home 40 minutes later, discovered her plight and turned off the power.

Mrs. Simpson explained later they had fastened the lamp to the wall because she likes to take sunbaths while bathing.

"I reached down and pulled out the plug so the water could drain out," she said. "Then the clamps let lose and the lamp fell into the water with me—a tub full of water. All heck broke loose. I just stiffened. I was sitting there one minute and the next minute my feet were against the wall.

"It just froze me solid. I couldn't move a finger. I can remember even my eyes were stiff. I couldn't get my eyes open. I was just lying there stiff as a board. The power was just surging through me. I could just feel the electricity going through me. I was quivering with power going through me."

Roy M. Cohn Subpoenaed in Bribery Case

NEW YORK (AP)—Roy M. Cohn, director and attorney for the strike-bound 5th Avenue Coach Lines, has been subpoenaed to appear as a witness next Thursday before a federal grand jury investigating possible conspiracy and bribery of a witness or judge.

Details of the case were not disclosed immediately. However, a spokesman for Cohn said it involved "an inquiry into the activities of one of Mr. Cohn's clients. To Mr. Cohn's knowledge he is only a technical witness."

Cohn was reported out of the city and unavailable for direct comment.

Cohn was a prominent figure in the televised Army-McCarthy hearings in 1954. He served as counsel to the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Suit Over Drug Wins $334,000

REDDING (AP)—An award of $334,046 was made by a Superior Court jury Thursday night to a Palo Alto woman who sued a drug company and a physician for $750,000.

Mrs. Carney Love, 42, charged her face was permanently disfigured, scarred and discolored, and that she grew a beard after taking an antibiotic, chloromycetin.

The jury returned the judgment against Parke-Davis & Co. and Dr. John Wolf, Redding physician.

Mrs. Love said Dr. Wolf prescribed chloromycetin to treat a jaw infection. Soon after taking the drug, she testified, she developed aplastic anemia, a sometimes fatal blood disorder. She said she required 60 transfusions and suffered damage to bone marrow, internal organs and the bloodstream.

Hormone injections needed to combat the disease caused her to grow a beard and produced "terrible acne," the complaint stated.

RUSSIA BOASTS OF KILLER ROCKET

"spare no time or efforts to persuade" the West to accept its solution, but such a solution cannot be endlessly delayed.

Khrushchev gave no details of the stage of development of the global rocket, which he called a new weapon.

He made the announcement in connection with his view on disarmament, declaring Americans no longer are immune from the consequences of war and it would take "a lunatic to trigger off war against" Communist countries.

Announces Rocket

"Our scientists and engineers have created a new intercontinental rocket which they call global," he said. "This rocket is invulnerable to anti-missile weapons."

Khrushchev said "United States' brass" had erected a system of radar detection and warning against missiles across the North Pole, but "the new global rockets can fly around the world in any direction and strike a blow at any set target."

The U.S. detection and warning facilities have lost their importance because "rockets can fly to United States territory from quite a different direction," he said, adding:

"As the people say, 'you expect him through the door and he comes through the window.'"

American U-2 spy planes had flown over the area from which it was believed Russia would launch rockets over the North Pole in order to calculate a defense, Khrushchev said. He went on:

"But now, even if we admit they were right in their calculations, these American militarists, we can shoot from those positions not only towards the North Pole but in the opposite direction."

Khrushchev said the precision of calculations that permit the new rocket to hit its target was established by the flights of Vostok 1 and Vostok 2, the two manned Soviet space ships which orbited the earth.

Military Spaceship

His description might indicate that the Russians have militarized this type of space ship, which in circling the earth crosses over the United States from almost all directions and which can be brought down by signals from Soviet ground control stations.

Khrushchev's announcement of the new Sputnik to the crowd jammed in the Kremlin's new Congress Hall came as casually as if he were saying it was time for lunch.

A scientist, Alexander Yshlinsky, was speaking and had just said "we are launching cosmic rockets" when Khrushchev interrupted:

"One was launched today at 3 o'clock and it is already in orbit." He did not say whether he meant morning or afternoon, or whether it was manned or unmanned.

Later Tass indicated the new space ship was unmanned by saying the new earth satellite "carries scientific instrumentation, a radio telemetric system and transmitters."

"A series of artificial earth satellites will be launched from different cosmodromes of the Soviet Union in the course of 1962," the agency added.

(At Cambridge, Mass., Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory scientists reported a coded radio signal has been picked up which apparently is that of the new Russian sputnik.

(They said the fact that a coded signal was being transmitted, rather than a voice signal, indicated that the vehicle had no man aboard.)

The British Broadcasting Corp. said its listening station at Tatsfiel in England twice picked up signals from the satellite during the day.

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union would spare no effort to make the Geneva disarmament conference a success but declared the system of controls proposed by the United States would be nothing but an espionage service.

He contended a "national" inspection system — each country reporting on the level of armaments without outside interference — was sufficient because scientific instruments can detect nuclear tests anywhere in the world. The West is not telling the truth, he declared, when it insists present devices will not detect all explosions.

U.S. Undisturbed by Red Rocket Rattling

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev's rocket-rattling left Washington unshaken Friday. Experts figured the Soviet Premier was talking mainly for the Geneva disarmament negotiators.

U.S. government agencies declined public comment while awaiting the text of Khrushchev's Kremlin speech.

Meanwhile, from news accounts, it appeared plain to them that the Russian Premier had ordered the latest Soviet satellite timed for maximum political impact.

A widely held presumption was that Khrushchev wanted to use his satellite demonstration, coupled with his talk of a global military rocket, to put pressure on the western negotiators at the 17-nation disarmament talks just started in Geneva.

A-TEST SPOTTING

if no agreement is reached here.

Replying to Tsarapkin's statement, a U.S. official commented:

"It appears that Mr. Tsarapkin has given a flat answer to the question of whether there can be a test ban treaty with any inspection or verification inside the Soviet Union. Since there is no need at this stage to take any answer as necessarily the last word, the U.S. proposal will remain open."

The U.S. statement indicated that despite apparent Soviet refusal to negotiate, there is a prospect that new orders may come from Moscow, and U.S.-Soviet contacts will continue — probably between Secretary of State Rusk and Foreign Minister Gromyko.

No U.S. Comment

U.S. officials declined to comment on Premier Khrushchev's Friday speech on foreign policy, however, in which he repeated the familiar Soviet denunciation of "foreign espionage systems" established by international inspection.

Western officials, including Brazilian Foreign Minister San Thiago Dantas, in addressing the 17-nation disarmament conference Friday, reaffirmed the need for inspection to control either a test ban or a general disarmament treaty. These officials pointed out that even the most modern methods can confuse an earthquake with an explosion unless a spot check is possible.

They also pointed out that explosions in space or underwater can be verified only by a world-wide network of control stations.

Quake Shock Cited

Tsarapkin, reminded by a reporter that an earthquake four days earlier was misidentified as the Soviet 50-megation blast of last fall by a Swedish seismographic station, said such a mistake could not happen if large number of stations were operating. He asserted that signing of a test ban treaty would keep all nations from violating it.

The Soviet negotiator said that in the Kennedy-Macmillan offer of last Sept. 3 the "two statesmen proposed to come to agreement to prohibit tests in the atmosphere with national controls." But U.S. spokesmen pointed out later that the offer did not cover space, underground or underwater tests, and was made in anticipation of concluding a general treaty.

Reply Brings Laughs

When a newsman asked Tsarapkin why the offer was not accepted, laughter broke out as he answered:

"Because at that time they tried to hamper our tests."

In other replies, the Soviet official said:

France must be included in any test agreement because she has nuclear capability but reports that Communist China may be joining the nuclear club are a "presumption."

The Soviet Union accepted international controls at the outset of the 1958 test ban conference simply because the United States insisted. International controls are acceptable to the Soviet Union only if the West signs a total disarmament treaty proposed by the Soviet Union last Nov. 28 which would establish international inspection in its third and final stage.

Within the 17-nation conference Friday, a suggestion by Indian Defense Minister Menon offered hope of speeding the group's work. Informal meetings of delegates will begin Monday afternoon to develop points of agreement while formal morning meetings will continue to hear opening statements by delegation leaders.

Missing Plane Strikes Close to Families Here

Ex-Stewardess Numbered Among Friends Entire Crew of Flying Tiger Constellation

Fate's incomprehensible ways have spared Mrs. Inger Mitchell a personal tragedy but left her with a loss that struck hauntingly close to home.

Mrs. Mitchell, 28, of 2502 E 68th St., North Long Beach, is a former airline stewardess. She numbered among her friends the entire crew of the Flying Tiger Line Constellation missing somewhere between Guam and Manila.

One of them, stewardess Barbara Wamsley of Santa Barbara, was once a roommate.

Word that the big plane was missing reached her Thursday when she returned home from her job at a travel agency. It was the second numbing shock in one day.

Before she left for work that morning, Flying Tiger's chief pilot, Capt. Gene Taylor, had called.

One Crewman Killed

He said her husband, Thomas M. Mitchell Jr., 41, had just survived the crash of a Flying Tiger Super Constellation cargo plane in Adak, Alaska. One of the crewmen was killed but Mitchell, the plane's first officer, and five others escaped.

Sharing her anxiety in the Southland were the families of three of the crewmen on the Manila-bound plane — co-pilot Robert Wish, 48, of Hidden Hills; flight engineer George Nau, 38, of Pacoima, and navigator Grady Burt Jr., 35, of Baldwin Park.

Wish's wife, Ludmilla, and their two teen-age daughters waited in seclusion for further word of his fate. A neighbor answered the phone in their home at 5337 Jed Smith Rd. and said they were unable to talk.

Wish had been with Flying Tigers since Jan. 26, 1951.

Mrs. Annie Nau learned from a friend Thursday afternoon that the plane was lost. She decided to keep the news from their four children — Rosie, 14; Michael, 13; Cathy, 10, and Ginny, 8 —until the crash was confirmed.

But Michael heard about it from a newscast on his homemade radio set and told his sisters. The family secluded itself in their home at 9549 Amboy Ave., hopeful that the next report would be good.

Navigator Burt was with the company only two months. Before that he had flown with Great Lakes and Admiral Airlines.

First to Hear

The first to hear that he was missing was the second youngest of his five children, Eric, 7, who heard it on the radio.

Eric told his mother, Lorrie, 32, and the other youngsters — Buddy, 12 David, 11; Tommy, 10, and Connie Elizabeth, 6.

Buddy went to school Friday, a transistor radio close to his ear. The others clustered around their mother and friends in the family home at 3732 N Maine Ave., and waited . . .

AREA OF PLANE SEARCH—Cross locates point in Pacific about 270 miles west of Guam where last word was heard from plane with 107 persons aboard. (AP) Wirephoto map and last was heard from by radio an hour and 22 minutes later when it was 300 miles west of Guam and 1,200 miles from the Philippines. Its gas supply ran out at 8:22 a.m. Friday (2:52 p.m. PST Thursday).

MISSING AIRLINER

Second Worst Disaster

If the missing plane's passengers and crew are lost, the disaster will be the second worst of the series of plane accidents that have plagued international aviation this month. Nearly 350 persons have been killed in the plane accidents that began when 95 died during the crash of an American Airlines Boeing 707 at take-off in New York March 1.

Even in the early morning darkness today the search went on in the faint hope of sighting a flare from a life raft, but plane after plane returned to the search headquarters here to report that nothing had been found.

One plane sighted something in the daylight hours of the search Friday but a closer inspection disclosed that the object was only an abandoned native canoe.

(In Washington, Army Secretary Stahr said a maximum search effort was being made and there is still hope those aboard were safe. He said the search involved 12 large Air Force planes as well as a fleet of Navy planes and ships.)

Among Searchers

One of the searchers was Maj. John G. Davis of 27724 Saddle Rd., Rolling Hills, Cal., who flew over the doomed plane's route for nine hours and 35 minutes in the personal plane of the commander of the 15th U.S. Air Force. He held out little hope of finding survivors.

"A man usually can last only 24 hours even in those warm waters," he said.

Another searcher, Lt. Col. Norman R. Cook, of Fresno, Cal., told on his return to the base here how 16 crewmen and volunteers had flown for more than nine hours—and found nothing.

"We didn't see a thing on the water," Col. Cook said. "We were flying in concert with two other C-54's from Clark. Over the water we made contact with a Navy flight of six jets from Sangley Point (naval air station in the Philippines).

Weather Closes In

"We flew through beautiful weather until we were about 300 miles east of the Philippines. Then the weather deteriorated with monsoon-like conditions with low ceiling and some rainfall. We had to pull down to 1,000 ft. and at times were much lower than that to remain under the clouds."

The flight that apparently ended somewhere in the vastness of the Pacific started at Travis Air Force Base near San Francisco. It stopped at Honolulu, Wake Island and Guam. The destination was Saigon, where the troops were to relieve other GIs who have been among an estimated 4,000 American troops helping train Viet-Namese troops in the fight against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

Long Beach Warships Take Part in Search

Five minesweepers based at Long Beach were part of the emergency task force searching for the missing plane.

GI MISSING ON FLIGHT STUDIED FOR MINISTRY

Pvt. Larry D. Canon, 19, of Chino, Cal., listed among the 107 persons missing on the Flying Tigers flight to South Viet-Nam, had been studying for the ministry at Los Angeles Pacific College before joining the Army last June.

His mother, Mrs. Eda Canon, of 409 Lugo St., Chino, said he had attended the local college for one year before enlisting for three years June 29.

"He was working his way through school but couldn't find enough work so decided to try the Army for a while," Mrs. Canon said. Her husband, George, presently is unemployed.

Mrs. Canon said her son had telephoned her Tuesday night from Travis Air Force Base near San Francisco and that she had received a post card Thursday mailed from Honolulu the day before.

The youth also has a sister, Minta Beth, 15, and a brother, Alan, 6.

Mother of U.S. Spaceman Feted

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—The silver-haired, quiet-smiling woman who has been almost a month of honors heaped upon her son drew the spotlight herself Friday.

Mrs. John H. Glenn Sr., of New Concord, mother of astronaut John H. Glenn, was named Ohio mother of 1962 and a candidate for American Mother of the Year.

Mrs. Glenn, 65, will be honored offically April 14, at a luncheon given by the Ohio committee of the American Mothers' Committee, Inc.

Inquiries Set on Two Flying Tiger Crashes

Unusual Coincidence Hinted in Loss of Planes Carrying Aid to Viet-Nam

Investigations by federal agencies and the Flying Tiger airline will be made to determine if sabotage was involved in the disappearance of one plane in the Pacific and the crash of another in the Aleutians.

Both Flying Tiger planes were taking American military personnel and secret military cargo from Travis Air Force Base near San Francisco to help Communist-threatened South Viet-Nam.

A spokesman for the Burbank airline said there were striking coincidences and unexplained circumstances in the ill-fated flights.

Trained Fighters

One plane, carrying 107 persons, mostly trained jungle troops, vanished between Guam and Manila.

The other, with classified military cargo, crashed and burned in the Aleutians, killing one man.

The possibility that the missing plane was hijacked was discounted by Flying Tiger officials.

"After all, there were 93 U.S. Rangers on the plane, all highly trained military men," the spokesman said.

Could Be Accident

Flying Tiger officials said the Alaskan crash might be accidental because the plane undershot the runway while making a ground-controlled instrument approach in poor visibility. Only investigation will explain why the plane came in too low, the airline said.

Hal Kolp, head of flight operations for the line, said an investigating team including Flying Tiger personnel, Civil Aeronautics Board, Federal Aviation and military officials probably will meet in Burbank today.

It will go through all operational and maintenance records of the aircraft.

Investigator on Way

At the same time, Ed Fahey, an investigator employed by the airlines, is en route to Wake Island from Cold Bay, Alaska, to confer with Duncan R. Shand, FAA inspecting co-ordinator.

The identical four-engine Lockheed 1049-A Super Constellations both left TAFB at 9:45 p.m. PST on Wednesday. Both were bound for Saigon on flights for the Defense Department.

Both mysteriously hit trouble a few hours later, although they were on different routes.

Radio Failure Puzzle

Flying Tiger officials were puzzled by failure to receive any radio distress signal from the missing plane, which was flying at 18,000 ft. in relatively good weather when last heard from after leaving Guam.

"The first thing an over-ocean captain does when he has trouble is to grab his microphone and give his position so he'll stand a chance of rescue," an airline spokesman said.

"At 18,000 ft., he would normally have had ample time to do this if he was physically able."

He noted that before the recent crash of a plane flying at 5,000 ft., the pilot radioed distress signals successfully.

Plenty of Fuel Aboard

The missing craft, he said, had enough fuel aboard to fly to the China coast.

Records on the missing plane show that over the last two years it has been "an exceptionally clean plane in the sense that there has been very little trouble," the spokesman said.

The pilot was a senior captain with the line for 12 years and had much experience flying over both the Pacific and Atlantic.

"If anything had gone wrong, it is inconceivable that if he'd had a chance to report by radio he would not have done so," the airline said.

SOUTHLAND PARISH

BY DAN L. THRAPP

Sure, and today is the day of good St. Patrick and it is time to report that Great Britain has replaced America as the country to which most Irish emigrate these days.

But that doesn't stop today from being a jointly owned Irish-American holiday.

Cardinal McIntyre — a good Irish name, that—will preside at a 10 a.m. Mass at St. Vibiana's Cathedral, the Rev. John V. Sheridan will preach, and then will come innumerable social events.

Evolution is so widely accepted today that one tends to forget that there are people who doubt it, but there are, as Dr. Robert E. Terwilliger discovered following a television show.

He had remarked that it is generally accepted that God created man through evolution. The reaction caused him to comment briefly on it last Sunday at the adult class meeting at St. James Episcopal Church, where he is rector.

"I have never known any priest of the Episcopal Church who did not believe in evolution," he said, "though this may come as a surprise in Los Angeles, where Fundamentalism still is strong.

"In the Old Testament we have the story of Adam and Eve. This story, when it was written, was undoubtedly believed by the people to be the truth, in accord with the science of that time. But it was not written to be a scientific story, but a religious story.

"Genesis goes on to tell in a wonderful and profound way why we are in trouble with God. It is a pattern story. Not until recently was any serious research done into the origin of man.

"Darwin's publication caused a furor in many churches—almost none of it in Anglican or American Episcopal Churches . . .

"The Book of Genesis understood that God had created man in one particular way. The modern scientist shows us that God created us in a different way. I would not be disturbed to find that I came from a lower animal, or from dust.

"It makes us realize far more profoundly the work and marvel of God's creatures."

When we speak of creation, said Dr. Terwilliger, we leave out an important element—time. Was everything created within time, or is time created, too?

If within time, God is within time, and thus we have more than one Supreme Being, else who created time? If God created time, when did He create it?

"We think of time as being created—past, present and future," said the rector. "The past does not

Ordination Set for Orthodox Deacon Sunday

An ordination rite will feature pontifical liturgy services at 11 a.m. Sunday marking Orthodox Sunday and the first Sunday in Lent at the Saint Sophia Greek Orthodox Cathedral, 1324 S. Normandie Ave.

The bishop will be assisted by the Very Rev. Photius A. Pentikis of San Diego and the Rev. A. Homer Demopulos of the cathedral. Mr. Chronopoulos will become associate pastor of a Salt Lake City church.

He was born in New Hampshire and came to California 12 years ago.

At 7:30 p.m. Bishop Demetrios will preside at vesper services with 13 clergymen from Greek, Russian, Rumanian, Antiochian and Serbian Orthodox churches participating. A litany will commemorate Orthodox Sunday, marking restoration of the holy ikons to the Eastern Orthodox Church.

An hour-long ritual will be chanted in English, Greek, Slavonic, Rumanian and Arabic. Also taking part will be a Byzantine Choir of mixed voices. The Very Rev. Paul W. Romley of the St. Nicholas Antiochian Orthodox Church will preach.

13 Quit Teen Gangs, Join Youth Clubs

Thirteen former teen gang members from the central Los Angeles area met with business leaders at the Statler Hilton Friday to explain that they had joined youth clubs sponsored by Youth for Christ.

About eight gangs are still active in the area, according to Chaplain Paul E. Arthur, but scores are being weaned away and brought into two YC clubs formed last summer.

Heading the youth delegation were Joe Nevarez, 17, president of the Carthaginian Boys Club, and Christine Montaldo, 15, president of the Athenian Girls Club.

Dr. Bailes to Talk

Dr. Frederick Bailes, former head of the Science of Mind Church, will be 11 a.m. guest speaker Sunday and March 25 at the Alhambra Church of Religious Science, 507 N Granada Ave.

FILM MORALS HIT BY BISHOP KENNEDY

Methodist Leader Says Hollywood Image for Young People Could Stand New Look

BY DAN L. THRAPP, Times Religion Editor

The Hollywood Image could stand a new look, according to Methodist Bishop Gerald H. Kennedy.

He said that in advertising, star morality and self discipline, the motion picture industry could do with some improvement.

Bishop Kennedy's remarks were contained in an article on "The Hollywood Image," one of 13 in the March Journal of the Screen Producers Guild.

The issue was devoted to articles from "outsiders," seeking to reflect the image Hollywood, or the motion picture industry, projects of itself to those not a part of it.

Some Distasteful

The Bishop found some movie advertising particularly distasteful.

"To glance over the announcements . . . is like looking over the covers of the cheapest paperbacks," he wrote. "Sex and violence steal the show and no matter what the theme of the picture may be, this is usually the emphasis of the advertisements."

He noted that producers sometimes claim that they have nothing to do with advertising, but wondered "what commercial company allows its products to be cheapened . . . by its retail outlets?

"If I were a Hollywood producer with some sense of responsibility for my profession, I would do something about advertising. The present situation is intolerable from a moral standpoint, and it might be a poor policy commercially speaking."

With respect to star morality, the bishop took issue with the suggestion that artists are not to be held to as strict a moral code as ordinary people.

"Is there any activity in this country where scandal instead of being a handicap seems to be treated as an asset? Is there any contemporary profession whose individual members are free to divorce and marry at will and still maintain their good standing?

"If you say that they get away with it, the answer is that this only shows how sick we are, and we shall either get better fast, or we shall die.

Worst of Disease

"It is a sad thing that an industry which produces so many heros and heroines for youth should be content to take no responsibility for healing us, but becomes itself one of the worst parts of the disease."

He urged the producers to enforce their own production code before the situation comes "to censorship, which hardly anybody wants and nearly everybody fears."

"I would like to see a new image for Hollywood," he concluded. "It would encourage me mightily to see the industry assume its rightful responsibility as a molder of public opinion . . . It would be fine if the industry would be an example of public manners.

"What a power Hollywood could be in calling America to greatness, if it would!"

Catholic Church to Conduct Day of Recollection

A Day of Recollection will be conducted March 27 at St. John the Evangelist Catholic Church, 6028 Victoria Ave., with Msgr. James B. Clyne as speaker.

The day will begin with an 8:30 a.m. Mass. Breakfast will be served in the school hall and services will continue at the church at 10 a.m. Confessions will be heard at 3 p.m. and benediction will follow.

The day is sponsored by the St. John the Evangelist Altar Society.

Jewish Scholar to Be Guest at Dinner Sunday

Prof. Abraham Joshua Heschel, scholar and philosopher of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, will be guest at the 14th annual Founders Day dinner of the University of Judaism Sunday.

He is professor of Jewish Ethics and Mysticism at the New York school.

A program offered by the university's School of Fine Arts, established during the past year, will be featured at the 6:30 p.m. dinner at the Beverly Hilton.

Performers will include Salli Terri, recording artist; Esther Marlov, lyric soprano, and Cantor Samuel Fordis of Valley Beth Sholom, according to Julius Fligelman, president of the Los Angeles Assn. for Jewish Education.

The Bereans Did Their Own Thinking

Not many of us think for ourselves when it comes to matters in religion. We prefer to leave religious subjects and Bible issues to those supposedly trained and skilled in this field—the priests, theologians, pastors, and ministers. Sometimes we get the idea that the Bible cannot be understood by common people. Some religious leaders even teach and encourage this view.

Does the Bible say anything about the ability and the responsibility of the average person to understand its message? Most certainly it does.

To the Christians at Ephesus, Paul wrote: "Wherefore be ye not foolish, but understand what the will of the Lord is" (Ephesians 5:17).

Surely God does not require of man that which is beyond his ability.

The Jews of Berea, for example, are described in the New Testament as "noble." Yet, they were not famous, nor were they rich or powerful. In fact, they were somewhat obscure. The description of their nobility is recorded in Acts 17:11:

"These were more noble than those in Thessalonica in that they received the word with all readiness of mind and searched the scriptures daily, whether these things were so."

This reference to the Bereans is significant because it is plainly a tribute to a religious people. The Bereans were noble in attitude. They were noble because they were eager to be taught the truth—they were sincerely truth-seekers! Although ready to receive religious teaching from others, they were at the same time very careful to examine such teaching in the light of the scriptures.

Certainly the Bereans could not be called professional theologians. They were simple people of honest hearts and open minds—moreover, a people with a profound respect for the authority of the sacred scriptures.

Unfortunately, this attitude of the Bereans—the spirit of independent, personal investigation — does not prevail widely among religious people in the twentieth century. It is a sad commentary on our lack of love for the truth (2 Thessalonians 2:10-12). Man is in a pitiable state (a sad plight) when he possesses neither the intellectual vitality nor the spiritual interest to study God's will for himself.

The New Testament abounds with evidence that harmonizes with the attitude of the noble Bereans. The apostle Peter insisted that Christians should know what they believe and why they believe it, "ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you" (1 Peter 3:15).

The apostle John places the responsibility directly upon every Christian to follow the pattern of the Bereans and prove every teaching to be sure it is from God: "because many false prophets are gone out into the world" (1 John 4:1).

By revelation John commends very highly the favorable characteristic of the church of Ephesus of being ready at all times to check truth against error. They had "tried them which say they are apostles, and are not, and hast found them liars . . ." (Revelation 2:2).

Members of churches of Christ today are simply trying to reproduce faithfully the church of our Lord as it existed in the first century—the same in doctrine, worship, name, organization, service, life and work. The Bible clearly teaches that the seed of the gospel—the word of God—will produce after its kind, pure and undenominational Christianity. The first century church was founded upon the basis of the word; it follows that the same word must serve as the blueprint for the twentieth century church.

We invite our friends to "search the scriptures" to see whether these things be so!

Many Observances Set for Festival of Purim

A primordial struggle for the freedom to worship as one wishes will be honored in Jewish temples and synagogues this weekend, the observance concluding at sundown Tuesday.

It is the festival of Purim, an observance of events recounted in the Book of Esther, and will be marked by the reading in synagogues of the Megillah, a scroll containing that book.

The story relates the struggle of the Jews in ancient Persia to free themselves from a ruthless prime minister named Haman. It derives its name, Purim, from a Hebrew word for "lots," referring to the manner in which Haman chose the day he intended to destroy the Jews.

The heroine is Esther, queen and wife of King Ahasuerus, who with the aid of her cousin, Mordecai, saved her people from destruction.

A happy holiday, it is marked with gift-giving, costume balls, carnivals, games and playlets dramatizing the story.

One passage read during the service says:

"Grant us, we beseech Thee, the vision to see and the courage to do Thy holy will . . . Endow us with patience and strength, with purity of heart and unity of purpose, that we may continue to proclaim Thy law of love and truth to the peoples of the earth, until all men shall have learned to call The Father and know one another as brothers."

"There have been many persecutors since Haman died," wrote Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin of Wilshire Boulevard Temple, "and unfortunately there will be more in the future. But somehow or other we will survive them all. We have a mission to perform in this world. It is so ordained."

The Los Angeles women's branch of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations this week prepared packages for children of the Vista Del Mar Child Care service.

Temple Israel began the observance with a family service Friday night.

There will be a bazaar Sunday starting at 12:30 p.m. at the temple.

Another carnival will take place at Sinai Temple, Wilshire Blvd. at Beverly Glen, Westwood, starting Sunday at 10 a.m. Rabbi Julian White, director of education, said more than 500 children will participate.

Carnivals also will be held Sunday at Westwood Temple, 10505 Santa Monica Blvd.; by Temple Beth Emet at the Retail Clerks Union auditorium in Buena Park; at the Valley Cities Jewish Community Center, 13164 Burbank Blvd., Van Nuys.

NEW CHAPEL TO BE BUILT

Ground will be broken following 11 a.m. services Sunday for the Cleveland Kleihauer Memorial Chapel at Hollywood-Beverly Christian Church, 1717 N Gramercy Pl.

The new chapel will honor the late pastor of the church who died a year and one-half ago after 26 years in its pulpit and 50 years in the ministry. He was an interdenominational leader.

Mrs. Kleihauer and her granddaughters will assist and Dr. Myron C. Cole, current pastor, will direct the services.

Music of Mexico, Orient Scheduled

A performance of Oriental and Mexican music played on native instruments will be heard at Wilshire Methodist Church, 4350 Wilshire Blvd., at 8 p.m. Sunday.

It will be presented by individuals from the Institute of Ethno-musicology.

The program will include a Mexican mariachi group, Philippine music on four gongs and a drum, Siamese compositions performed on a drum, cymbals and xylophone, and music from India played on a setar.

now yet existed, the future has not yet existed, even the present has ceased to exist because of the lag between event and apprehension.

"Thus we think of creation as something continually going on, now, in the present. God is always making us, making man, holding everything in existence.

"So far as evolution is concerned, I feel very much that we should spread the gospel of its existence, that this is the work of God, His continual action."

Bishop Bloy's Flight will be the name of the first plane-load of Cuban refugees leaving Miami for Los Angeles April 9. All 100 of the refugees will be sponsored in a resettlement program by Episcopal churches.

Very few of them, however, will be Episcopalians—they are being brought regardless of their religious affiliation.

Cuban refugees include people of many skills. Financial support is guaranteed by Church World Service and other forms of assistance are available.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH SERVICES
Our Sunday sermon is identical in Christian Science Churches throughout the world and consists of readings from the Holy Bible (King James version) and from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy.
The subject of the Lesson-Sermon for this Sunday is "SUBSTANCE"
Golden Text: I Corinthians 2:9, 10. "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit."
Wednesday meetings include testimonies by those who have experienced healing in Christian Science
Each Christian Science Church conducts a Sunday School and welcomes regular and visiting pupils up to the age of 20. Here young people may obtain a working knowledge of Christian Science.
The location of the Christian Science Church nearest you may be obtained from your local telephone directory. Each church also maintains a local public Reading Room which you are invited to use. Information regarding local churches and Reading Rooms may also be obtained by calling the downtown Los Angeles Reading Rooms, as follows:

Let's Talk About YOU
BEGIN NOW TO ACHIEVE!
The Bible promises that if we live consciously aware of Divine Power flowing through our lives, we will "bear much fruit." In fact, our closeness to God can actually be tested by whether or not we "bear much fruit." We were intended to live fruitfully, purposefully, successfully, creatively. And anyone can begin to do so at any time! The creative Law of Mind, which is of God, will not fail anyone.
"The Art of Achievement" will be my subject this Sunday morning at 10:30 in the Fox Wilshire Theatre, 8440 Wilshire Blvd., one block east of La Cienega, as Minister of THE CHURCH OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE OF BEVERLY HILLS (Ernest Holmes, Founder). Why not join the thousand who will hear this?

Largest Rail Union Orders Strike Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen Friday ordered a strike vote among its members working on all the nation's major railroads.

The Brotherhood is the largest of the five operating unions soon to enter negotiations with rail managements.

At issue are recommendations of a Presidential railroad commission proposing changes in work rules which the unions contend would cut the earnings and cause thousands of layoffs among rail workers.

Two other brotherhoods, the Locomotive Engineers and the Firemen and Enginemen, already have authorized strike votes to strengthen their negotiators when the bargaining starts in Cleveland, probably on April 2.

White House Police Seize 3 Protestors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three mothers invaded the White House grounds Friday to get arrested unless they were allowed to see President Kennedy to protest nuclear tests.

They achieved their aim. White House police hauled them away on a charge of "unlawful entry."

The women were: Mrs. Marjorie Swann, 41, of Norwich, Conn.; Mrs. Hermene Evans, 55, of Chicago, and Mrs. Frances Witlin, 43, of New York City.

Police later dropped the charges after District of Columbia attorney Edward Daly admonished the women for their actions. They were released.

Four Ships Idled in Los Angeles Harbor

Four ships were idled Friday in Los Angeles Harbor.

They were the Korean Bear of the Pacific Far East Line, the Hawaiian Educator of the Matson Line, the President Jefferson of the American President Line and the F. E. Weyerhaeuser of the Weyerhaeuser Steamship Co.

Bulk of the shipping in the harbor was not affected, however, because it was comprised of foreign-owned vessels or American-owned ships flying foreign flags.

Philip Brings Plane in Safely

BRASILIA (AP) — Queen Elizabeth's husband, Prince Philip, piloted a twin-engine airliner to a safe landing here Friday with one engine in trouble.

Philip had taken the plane off from this Brazilian capital on a flight to Sao Paulo but turned back when the engine started missing.

Blades Rout Canucks, Gain Tie for Third

BY CHARLIE PARK

Those battling Los Angeles Blades, back on their home rink, blasted the Vancouver Canucks, 6-2, Friday night before 12,884 Sports Arena rooters to hoist their hopes for gaining the Western Hockey League playoffs.

The convincing victory moved the Los Angeles skaters into a tie for third place in the Southern Division standings with idle San Francisco.

After a scoreless first period, the Blades pumped in three goals in a span of 3m., 25s. in the second stanza to open up an unsurmountable lead.

They capped the uproarious evening—to the delight of the second largest audience of the season — by banging in three more markers in the final period. Top turnout of the campaign was 13,702 for the Blades' tussle with Calgary Jan. 27.

Speedster Willie O'Ree, the people's choice, riffled the nets for two tallies, while Ralph Keller and Gerry Goyer each contributed an unassisted goal.

It would have been a lot worse except for the deftness of Vancouver goalie Art La Riviere, who came up with 43 saves. The Blades' Marcel Pelletier collared 37.

They go at it again tonight when the Blades have a chance to hop past the Seals.

Los Angeles finally connected at 4:16 of the second period, O'Ree flipping the puck past La Riviere on a short shot after taking a beautiful pass from Gerry Goyer. Wally Hergesheimer also was credited with an assist.

That awakened the Blades and Ralph Keller pumped in an unassisted tally from a sharp angle at 5:47 to make it 2-0.

PROVO, Utah — UCLA's Bruins looked pressure in the face and responded like champions in defeating Utah State, 73-62, Friday night to gain the finals of the NCAA Western Regional basketball tournament.

UCLA's opponent in the 8 p.m. (PST) final tonight will be the rangy Oregon State Beavers, who barely hung on to beat courageous Pepperdine, 69-67, in the opening game of the NCAA double-header program.

Pepperdine and Utah St. meet in a consolation game at 6 p.m.

The UCLA-Oregon St. game will be televised by KTTV (11) and broadcast by radio KMPC.

Better Teams Folded

Better Bruin teams have folded in NCAA competition but John Wooden's present squad doesn't believe in hoodoos, jinxes or whammys.

It was the first time in four tries that a Bruin team has survived the opening night of NCAA regional play. Another win tonight and UCLA will be among the nation's elite in the final round of four at Louisville, Ky. next Friday and Saturday nights.

The Bruins, who usually have to come from behind in the pressure contests, found themselves on the fat side of a 57-41 score some seven minutes into the final half.

Lose Momentum

However, the Bruins began to lose their momentum. Passes went astray, center Fred Slaughter had to sit down with four fouls, Gary

MIAMI — The American League is making monkeys of the Dodgers. All three of their Grapefruit League losses came in competition with the junior circuit, the latest being a 9-4 pasting by Baltimore here on a misty Friday night.

The score was identical to Thursday's defeat by the woeful Washington Senators. Last Sunday Kansas City knocked off Los Angeles, 7-5.

Dodgers Collapse

Baltimore had dropped four in a row before Ron Perranoski and shortstop Maury Wills capsized in the eighth as the Orioles broke a 4-4 tie with five big, fat runs.

Perranoski (0-1) gave up a walk and four singles, including devastating wallops by Earl Robinson and Boog Powell, and Wills committed two errors to hand the game to Baltimore on a platter as big as a $4 pizza.

The cold weather, plus local dog racing and jai alai, kept attendance in this booming resort spot to 1,788.

Bright Spots

Most significant developments from the Dodgers' standpoint were Tommy Davis' continued slugging and appearance at third base and Sandy Koufax's six-inning mound stint.

Maybe Walt Alston was trying to build a fire under Daryl Spencer (.214) or maybe he was just giving Tommy another test flight at third, but the husky youngster did a good job.

Tommy whacked a two-run triple in the fifth off Joe Nuxhall that helped give L.A. a temporary 4-2 lead and ran his RBI total to 10 in four games.

He also came up with one of Yankee Clete Boyer's patented diving stops that robbed Gus Triandos of a

Angels to Construct Own Training Camp

BY BRAVEN DYER, Times Staff Representative

TUCSON—The Los Angeles Angels are planning to construct their own spring training center at Palm Springs.

General manager Fred Haney has inspected several sites at the desert spa. The one which seems to offer the best possibilities is a 53-acre tract near the Desert-Air Hotel, about 10 miles east of the center of town.

Friday morning manager Bill Rigney, his coaching staff and traveling secretary Tommie Ferguson stopped at Casa Grande on the drive from Phoenix here to inspect the $2.3 million training camp which the San Francisco Giants opened last month.

Called Francisco Grande, it makes Vero Beach look like a chicken coop.

"Isn't this something," enthused Rigney. "Man, would I like to have a place like this."

It costs the Angel varsity about $100,000 each spring to train at Palm Springs. Most of this goes to pay for housing and feeding players.

At Francisco Grande the Giants have modern apartments which can accommodate 250 players. They have six chefs who prepare the meals and food is purchased by the ton from wholesalers.

It is the intention of Angel brass to put in at least four diamonds when they finally select a Palm Springs site. And the housing facilities could be rented to the general public for all but three months of the year when they would be used by the Angel varsity and farm clubs.

The Angels now have

TUCSON — Cleveland's tight defense and L.A.'s leaky infield ruined what could have been a tight ball game here Friday afternoon.

The Indians executed four fast double plays while the Angels committed as many errors as 1,502 sun-baked patrons watched Bill Rigney's athletes lose their fourth straight, 10-2.

Seven of Cleveland's nine runs off Ken McBride and Jim Donohue were unearned as Eddie Yost, Marlan Coughtry and Don Ross handled the ball as if wearing boxing gloves.

Fleeting Chance

The Angels had a chance until Coughtry let an easy roller go through his legs with two out in the bottom of the sixth with the Indians leading 4-2.

Before Donohue retired the ninth batter, five runs crossed the plate and fans began leaving.

Gary Bell and Bob Allen, the former a Cleveland starter who won 12 games last year, and the latter a bull pen specialist, held the Angels to five hits. Bell got the win.

Whenever trouble cropped up the Indian defense was adequate.

FLOYD, LISTON FINALLY SIGN; L.A. MENTIONED FOR BATTLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Champion Floyd Patterson and challenger Sonny Liston, grim and with no traces of friendliness, signed a contract Friday for a heavyweight title fight this summer which the promoter predicted would gross more than $6 million.

The date and site will be picked later — by the champion. Patterson will make the decision after he returns from a 10-day exhibition tour of the Arab Republic and Israel.

Tom Bolan, president of the promoting Championship Sports, Inc., said six cities are under consideration. He listed them as New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Washington, D.C., and Seattle.

"Seattle has offered us a $1 million guarantee to hold the fight in connection with its World's Fair," he said. "We will explore all the possibilities and take the one giving us the best deal."

New York's Yankee Stadium is reported to have the inside track, with Los Angeles the next best possibility.

Bolan said Patterson had agreed to designate the date and place on or before April 16. The fight will be held no earlier than June 18 and no later than Sept. 30, Bolan added.

Under terms of the contract, which Liston earlier had complained as "stealing me blind," Patterson gets 45% of the live gate and 55% of the ancillary rights, which include closed TV-television, radio, Liston gets 12½% of the live gate and ancillary proceeds. The promoters receive 42½% of the live gate and 32½% of the ancillary rights.

"Our conservative estimate is that the fight will gross $6 million," Bolan said.

MARIS ANGRY AT PRESS, SAYS HE WON'T GIVE INTERVIEWS

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Roger Maris, the New York Yankees' home-run king, says he will grant no more interviews because stories written about him have put him in a bad light, the Kansas City Star reported Friday.

When the Kansas City Athletics played the Yankees Wednesday in Ft. Lauderdale, Joe McGuff, the Star's baseball writer, said Maris told him:

"I think Ted Williams had the right idea. You go your way and let the writers go theirs. They are going to write what they want about you anyway."

Too Frank

McGuff says Maris has been misunderstood because of his frankness, and quoted the man who hit 61 home runs last year this way:

"I'm not going to give out any more interviews. I went out of my way last year to give interviews to everybody. Sometimes I spent as much as an hour and a half in the dressing room after a game talking to writers. And what happened? They wrote a lot of stuff about me that wasn't true. Now every time I come out of the dugout, the fans are on me. You should have heard them the day we played our first exhibition game here in Ft. Lauderdale . . ."

After a banquet, Maris said, he was criticized again in the press:

"They had a story in the Miami paper saying I wouldn't sign autographs and that the few I did sign I signed with X's. That just isn't true. I signed for everybody who asked me. After reading stuff like that it's no wonder the people boo me.

"I'm going to be friendly and pleasant with everybody this year but I'm just not going to give out interviews. Why should I waste all that time when they are going to write about me the way they did last year? They gave everybody the idea I'm a redneck ball player and once the people get that impression you can't change it no matter what you say.

Some Writers Fail

"Sure, there a lot of good writers and those guys treated me fairly but if 20 writers come in to interview me I can't give out a story to the five good guys without giving it to the others . . .

"You should have seen some of the letters I got during the winter. People got all over me for things I didn't say or do."

DEALS IN THE AIR

Rams Counting on Newcomers

BY AL WOLF

Amid all the ownership battling, player grumbling, coaching criticism and the perennial scramble for good season seats, it's difficult sometimes to find out what gives with the Rams simply as a football team.

However, some stealthy sleuthing has uncovered these facts:

The Rams still are members in good standing of the National Football League. They'll again put a club on the field next season. And most of the familiar faces will remain in view.

There'll be quite a few new names, though, on the player roster.

Vintage Year

For one thing, it looks like a vintage year for Ram rookies. For another, the air out around 7813 Beverly Blvd. is buzzing with whispers of deals (1) in the negotiation stage, or (2) in the planning stage, or (3) in the wishful thinking stage.

So far, only one actually has been consummated — tackle John Baker to the Eagles for linebacker Bob Pellegrini. But you can bet there'll be more.

The Rams definitely will carry three quarterbacks all season, either the two veterans (Zeke Bratkowski and Frank Ryan) plus one rookie (Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State or Ron Miller of Wisconsin) or one veteran and two rookies—almost certainly the latter.

Quarterback Problem

"When you carry three quarterbacks, there's the problem of them all getting enough work," head coach Bob Waterfield said Friday. "But we'll have to do it this year.

"Off our various reports and films, Gabriel and Miller appear to be outstanding pro prospects. They seem to have everything. But we wouldn't go with two first-year QBs and no veteran, no matter how great they might look.

"It takes at least a year for a rookie to learn the personnel, the system and the opposition, not to mention making the big jump from college ball to pro ball."

Al Wolf

(Not always, Robert. Once upon a time, there was a rookie QB who led Cleveland to the NFL championship. His name was Waterfield.)

Up to Veteran

"So even if both make the club," Bob went on, "most of our 1962 quarterbacking nevertheless backing nevertheless would be done by whichever veteran we'd keep."

Incidentally, Waterfield has asked Gabriel and Miller to report here July 1 for some pre-camp classroom study and a bit of passing practice. One — maybe both — probably will be chosen for the All-Star game and thus miss early Ram drills.

Waterfield doesn't believe in calling plays from the sidelines. He sends in perhaps 10 a game — and even these can be disregarded by the quarterback.

Bob was asked if rookies Gabriel and Miller also would be on their own while afield.

Call His Own Game

"Certainly," he replied. "If a QB is good enough to make the team, then he's good enough to call his own game. I might send in a play now and then just just like I would if an old-timer was playing the position, but not very often."

Speaking of his entire rookie crop, Waterfield said: "This looks like the best bunch the Rams have come up with in a good many years. If Roman Gabriel, Ron Miller, John Meyers, Merlin Olsen, Bobby Smith and some of the others are as good as we think, it'll be a big boost."

And how the Rams could use a boost or two!

ANGELS TO BUILD

more than 100 players under contract. When they started only a little more than one year ago they had just 32.

Later this month Angel rookies will do their training at Anaheim and Fullerton at considerable expense to the club.

Francisco Grande is tremendous. And the Giants are using only 183 of their 840 acres at this time. They plan to put in a golf course and an airport. The five diamonds are spaced around a control tower from which the manager or instructor can bark his orders to all hired hands.

The baseball stadium was built by the citizens of the city of Casa Grande, five miles away. They voted a bond issue to construct seating facilities for almost 4,000 fans. The Giants put in a swimming pool and other recreation facilities, plus a snazzy bar and dining room which is open to the public.

There are about 160 acres of lush, green grass that was planted primarily to keep the dust down. The ground crew alone numbers 15 men and each of the five fields is mowed, raked and chalked for morning and afternoon workouts.

At Apache Junction, where Houston's new National League team trains, plans are under way to construct a $500,000 training base to be leased to the Colt .45s for $1 a year. W. W. Creighton, president of Superstition Mountain Enterprises, Inc., worded his offer this way:

"On our 40-acre site we'd like to put up a $300,000 baseball training facility. The land is worth $200,000. We'd then lease it to the Colts for $1 per year. We would build a two-story resort-type motor hotel with all necessary offices, coffee shop and cafeteria-type main dining hall."

Pistons Kill Royals' Rally in Play-offs

DETROIT (UPI) — Ray Scott scored a career high of 34 points Friday night to pace the Detroit Pistons to a thrilling 123-122 win over the Cincinnati Royals and a 1-0 lead in their best of five National Basketball Assn. playoff series.

Scott received able assistance from Gene Shue, Bailey Howell, and Don Ohl. Howell tallied 28 points, Shue had 27 and Ohl, a doubtful starter because of an eye injury, scored 24.

The Pistons appeared headed for an easy victory when they grabbed a 115-105 lead late in the final period. But Cincinnati closed the gap to 123-120 on Jack Twyman's basket and crept to within one point at 123-122 with only seconds remaining.

Ferrie Grabs Midwinter Title From Miller, 1-Up

BY DAN HAFNER

Mrs. Marge Ferrie of Virginia CC whipped Mrs. Ruth Miller, California CC, 1-up to win the 37th annual Women's Midwinter golf championships Friday at Los Angeles Country Club in a dramatic finish right out of fiction.

Mrs. Ferrie, attempting a comeback after three years away from competition, had battled from behind to a 1-up advantage going into the 36th hole, a 401 yd. par 5, when the fun began.

Both were on the green in two shots, but had long putts for birdies. Mrs. Miller, fighting for her third straight Midwinter crown, sank her 20 ft. putt and it appeared the match was going into overtime.

Sinks 15-Ft. Putt

But Mrs. Ferrie, who had won this event five times previously, calmly stroked in a 15 footer for her first championship since 1957 when she won the state title and several others.

The clutch birdie putt gave the Long Beach veteran a 75 for the final 18, even par for the 6,198 yd. course with its many hills and traps.

Although the match was close throughout, most of the action was packed into the last six holes.

Going into the 31st hole Mrs. Ferrie, two-down after the morning round, had just blown a 2-up lead and it appeared that Mrs. Miller, dominating figure in Southland golf for the past few years, was going to take it all again.

Sensational Shots

Mrs. Ferrie dropped a 20 ft. putt for her fourth birdie of the day and the lead. The contestants traded sensational shots from there to the 35th when Mrs. Miller, victim of putting troubles all day, missed one of 18 in. for a bogey and went 1-down.

This was not one of the better days for Mrs. Miller, who lost the Southern California championship in much the same manner to Mrs. J. S. Loveys of Lakeside last month. During most of the marathon watch her woods were erratic and her putts refused to drop.

Marge Ferrie

In the final anlysis it was the deadly approaching, plus a clutch putt that gave Mrs. Ferrie her sixth championship on a day in which the weather matched the name of the tournament.

FIRST FLIGHT—Lerrete Ticasales def. Mrs. Don Williams, 1-up.

FOURTH FLIGHT—Mrs. Norman Albert def. Mrs. R. J. Needham, 2 and 1.

Big year for us, but no swelled heads!

The way things are going, it's developing into one of our biggest years, possibly the biggest one yet.

What brings this about? A combination of many reasons.

First and foremost, Chevy itself is very, very hot this year. Looks like Chevy's all-time record. Especially with Corvairs and Chevy II's to build extra sales, lots of them.

Then, conditions generally are good. Folks in the right mood, confident for the future.

So, we'd probably be selling a lot of Chevvies and Corvairs, even if we weren't so all-fired persnickety about our Nugent service. But we're the old-fashioned kind.

Built up our reputation, for 42 years, on the idea of giving an extra measure of service.

Sooner or later, somebody brings up the subject of price. We can't work miracles, like saving you $500 more than any other dealer. What we can do, and will do, you'll save about $50 to $75, compared with going prices elsewhere.

Come in, this week-end, and get the exact Nugent price on the new Chevy, Corvair, or Chevy II of your choice. Straight cash, or terms; trade-in, or not.

Main reason it's such a big year for selling Chevy is because it's such a good year for buying Chevy. Good for us, good for you.

ARCHER, BRIDGE ON TOP IN SPA GOLF

BY CHARLES CURTIS, Times Staff Representative

PALM SPRINGS—George Archer, the stringbean San Franciscan who is defending champion, and Lew Bridge, a transplanted Northern Californian who now resides in Los Angeles, tied for the first-round lead in the Palm Springs Invitational golf tournament Friday.

Archer, who won the tournament in a play-off here a year ago, shot 31-32—63 and Bridge, a 30-33—63 over the tight little O'Donnell course.

Tied for the next spot at 65 were Paul Carter, several times Los Angeles Country Club champ who is now from Las Posas, and David Stockton of Bakersfield, a USC student. After them come Bud Shank and Bob Snelling, both of the San Francisco area; Dr. Art Butler of Glendora and Dick Runkle of Los Angeles Country Club with 66s.

Fast Start

Snelling, a balding ex-Stanforder, made a bid to run away from the field with a first side 29 but he couldn't keep it up and had a 37 the second time around the nine-hole course.

That wasn't even in the running so far as the department of ups-and-downs.

David Aiken of Torrey Pines, who holds the Southern California junior champion-of-champions title, had a 50 first nine and a 32 the second time.

Archer, 22, stands 6 ft. 5¾ in. and weighs 175. A graduate of San Mateo High School, he is currently sweating out an Army call. In his opening round he had seven birdies with only one putt longer than 6 ft.

Bridge, 44, is a Stanford grad who was a top player in Northern California amateur circles while living in Lodi. He now is a member of the Eldorado club near here, where he is club champion, and is in the real estate business.

His first nine of 30 included an eagle deuce at the 250 yd. 4th hole where he drove the green and holed an 8-foot putt. He also reached the 5-par 6th with a wood second shot and made a 6-in. putt for an eagle 3.

The five-time champion here, Dr. Bud Taylor of Pomona, awoke Friday morning with the right side of his jaw and his tongue so badly swollen he could barely breathe. A doctor was summoned and he administered a shot of adrenalin to ease Taylor's breathing.

Had Swelling Before

"The adrenalin made me so jumpy I could have gone clear over those palm trees," Taylor reported. He said he has had the swelling before, in other parts of his body, and presumes it is some type of allergy although there has been no medical explanation thus far. Despite that he posted a 68.

OXY, STRIDERS IN TRACKFEST TODAY

BY AL WOLF

There'll be a lot of track talent on display at Occidental College this afternoon.

The occasion is a dual meet between the Tigers and the Striders, plus non-scoring participation by members of the two other Southland club teams—Pasadena Olympians and Los Angeles Track Club.

Competition gets under way at 1:30.

The tentative entry list includes such "name" performers as Ron Morris, Chuck Wilkinson, Bob Avant, Rink Babka, Jay Silvester, Parry O'Brien, Roscoe Cook, Doug Smith, Al Andrews, Bob Humphreys, Mike Larrabee, Bob Seaman, Bob Karlsrud and Willie Atterberry.

Top race of the day should materialize in the 440, where Larrabee and Karlsrud of the Striders take on Oxy's Steve Haas. Coach Jim Bush is using Haas primarily as a sprinter this season, but wants to give him a testing against this potent pair.

If everybody shows up, the discus could be terrific. Silvester holds the world record, Babka was co-owner of the former mark, Humphreys has bettered 190 ft. and O'Brien henceforth will concentrate on this event after announcing his retirement from further shotputting.

The 880 might produce a traffic jam of freeway proportions. Eighteen are entered, of whom 13 have done 1:52 or better.

Most of the Olympians' strength is concentrated in the field events, while the LATC will compete only in the 880, mile and two-mile runs, plus possibly the mile relay.

USC is idle today, while UCLA goes to Santa Barbara for a triangular meet with UC Santa Barbara and Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo. The program starts at 1:30 at La Playa Stadium, scene of the annual Easter Relays.

Whittier at Claremont-Mudd, 1:30.
Long Beach State at San Diego State.
San Fernando Valley State at Los Angeles State, 2:30.

MANAGER VERNON OPTIMISTIC

Only One Direction Left to Nats in American League Chase---Up

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN
Sports Editor

POMPANO BEACH — Washington's Senators can only go up in the American League pennant race this year and manager Mickey Vernon is convinced they will.

"We don't have any 30 home runs a year hitters," said the tall, personable field general, "but we've strengthened our defenses and if our young pitchers can fill the gap left by Dick Donovan we'll do quite a bit better."

The Senators traded their best hurler for the hitting and fielding of Jim Piersall on the premise that youngsters like Jim Hannan, Claude Osteen, Roy Ripplemeyer and Dave Stenhouse will better serve Washington's building program.

Early Standout

Hannan, a 22-year-old right hander, has been the standout this spring. He had a terrific record at Jersey City last year with 254 strikeouts in 196 innings pitched.

Now that Donovan's gone, Bennie Daniels of Compton, has moved up as the top starting pitcher. The veteran right hander won a dozen games against 11 defeats last season despite being out three weeks with a leg injury.

"Joe McClain can have a better year," said Vernon. "With a little luck he could have had a .500 average instead of losing 18 against 8 wins."

Mickey has difficulty explaining the august slump when the senators lost 14 straight, finally won a game, and then dropped 10 more in a row.

Jim Piersall

Tough Luck

"It was just a combination of things, a lot of it bad luck. We lost 38 games by a run and played in 60 contests where one tally decided the outcome.

"I'm sure the new ball park with the fences closer than they were in Griffith Stadium, is going to help us. Its fences certainly will be more inviting, but I expect they will be for the other fellows too."

The distances at District of Columbia Stadium approximate those at Chavez Ravine.

Bob Schmidt, the veteran former National League backstop and a youngster, Kenneth Retzer, who finished the season with Washington by hitting .340 in 53 games after a fine start at San Diego are the pair that makes Vernon feel his catching problems are solved.

His infield is pretty well set with Dale Long at first, Chuck Cottier, from Hollydale, Calif., at second; Bob Johnson, short, and Dan O'Connell, third.

"Johnson, Cottier and O'Connell give us good offensive as well as defensive speed. Danny stole more bases (15) last year than ever before."

The Senators naturally feel the outfield is stronger with Piersall's presence in center. Gene Woodling and Chuck Hinton, a speedster who came up from Indianapolis last year, probably will supply the supporting cast for the loquacious Piersall, with Willie Tasby helping Woodling in right.

What long-ball power the Senators have is embraced in Long, Woodling and Tasby.

"We don't expect to exactly over-power our opponents," grinned Mickey, "but certainly in the new park we can get more home runs than the 34 we got at Griffith Stadium last year."

BARBARA PURSLEY TRAILS IN SKATING

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, (AP)—Sjoukje Dijkstra of the Netherlands dominated the ladies' compulsory figures competition Friday and apparently dashed American hopes of winning a world figure skating championship.

Mrs. Barbara Roles Pursley of Arcadia, bronze medalist in the 1960 Olympics at Squaw Valley, failed to come up to expectations in the school figures and found herself in fifth place in the women's standings.

Although a superb free skater, Mrs. Pursley, 20-year-old mother, appeared too far back to make up the deficit in the finals.

The other two U.S. competitors were still farther back. Lorraine Hanlon, 16, of Boston, was in 10th place and Vicky Fisher, 18, of Minneapolis was 13th.

The Czechoslovak brother and sister team of Eva and Pavel Romanov edged out favored Canadian and French couples to win the ice dance title.

Jean Paul and Christiane Guhel of France were second with 316.23 points.

Canada's Virginia Thompson and William McLachlan were third with 317.18 points.

Two American couples finished sixth and seventh. Dorothyann Nelson and Peter Killen of Lake Placid, N.Y., placed sixth with 307.01 points and Yvonne Littlefield and Peter Bets of Los Angeles were right behind with 303.7.

Official results of ladies compulsory figures:
1—Sjoukje Dijkstra, Holland, 11 ordinals 1,312 points.
2—Wendy Griner, Canada, 21—1,267.
3—Regine Heitzer, Austria, 33—1,246.3.

Teran's Jury Locks, New Trial Planned

A superior court jury of nine women and three men were unable to agree on a verdict Friday in the trial of Keeny Teran, one - time North American flyweight champion, charged with possession of heroin.

The jurors stood 9-3 for acquittal.

Superior Judge Frederick W. Mahl Jr. ordered the 30-year-old Teran to return to court Wednesday for the setting of a new trial date.

During the trial, deputy district attorney Harold Kippen presented evidence to show that Teran, now a lawyer's clerk, had in his possession a hypodermic kit and had fresh needle marks on his arm when he was arrested by sheriffs deputies last Jan. 31.

Teran, now on parole for another narcotics conviction, testified that the heroin equipment found in his apartment, belonged to someone else.

DUNCAN TRIUMPHS ON KO IN SIXTH

BY JOHN HALL

Featherweight Herman Duncan, in honor of the upcoming baseball season, pitched a shutout at the Olympic Friday night.

Squirmin' Herman, 127, won every round as he scored a sixth-round kayo over Mexico's Sugar Zatarain, 126.

It was really no contest. Zatarain, who came into the battle with a 19-2 record and 19 knockouts, was not exactly a main event fighter.

Duncan dominated the entire fight and Zatarain, heralded as one of the new Latin stars, went down the drain.

Duncan went off as a 2-1 favorite, and the price was right. There was never any doubt.

It was Duncan's second straight kayo in the Olympic pit, and he will probably be regaining his top ten ranking among world's feathers.

The kid from Jeff High is a pretty good fighter and one of these days local fans may realize it.

Only an estimated 1,100 fans were on hand.

Tony Valenti, 157, KO (1) over Tommy Hutchins, 159; Gino Hernandez, 129, draw with Felipe Larazolla, 128½; Chango Magallanes, 113, dec. over Mel Maemoria, 113.

BRUINS TRIUMPH

Cunningham lost his touch from outside and the Aggies came with a rush.

With 5:03 remaining, Utah State had sliced the UCLA lead to 63-61. But the Bruins didn't panic. Wooden simply called time out to plot last minute strategy: a cleverly executed stall.

10,186 Fans

A partisan crowd of 10,186 whooped it up in the Brigham Young Field House as Walt (East Coast) Hazzard played keep away from the frantic Aggies for three minutes.

One time out interrupted the stall rhythm then Hazzard found his opening, drilling the ball to sub center Kim Stewart, who gave UCLA a 65-61 lead on a lay-in with 1:45 left.

There was still time for an Aggie comeback but Hazzard had taken the fun out of the game. UCLA closed it out with ease.

Complete Player

Utah State's Cornell Green, the complete player, led all scorers with 26 points, while Cunningham, who hit 50% of his shots, topped the Bruins with 21.

The Aggies played Gary loose and easy in the first half and he shot their defense to pieces with a soft jumper. Cunningham, off in his shooting this season but improved in other departments, picked a propitious time for his field goal show.

With Cunningham showing the way, the Bruins shot 48% from the floor in the first half and enjoyed a 43-30 lead.

Bruins Go Stale

Utah State appeared to be a beaten team until UCLA went stale for nine minutes. During this period the Aggies outscored the Bruins, 20-6.

Although Utah State made a determined run at the Bruins, the local team's last lead was 16-15 with five minutes gone in the game.

It was almost an all Los Angeles final.

The Waves, down by 11 points early in the first half, stormed back to take the lead at 52-50.

Pepperdine and Oregon State battled on even terms down to the wire. In the final analysis, the Waves' inability to cash in on free throws (mainly 1-and-1 situations) cost them a chance for victory.

As it was, the West Coast Athletic Conference champs almost sent the contest into overtime.

Strategy Backfires

Trailing 69-66 with two seconds remaining on the clock, Pepperdine guard Lee Tinsley went to the line on a 1-and-1 situation. He sank the first free throw and then pulled off some last-second strategy that backfired.

He deliberately missed the next gift shot, the ball bounding into his hands. Lee cast off and hit, but the bucket didn't count.

Tinsley's second free throw attempt failed to hit the rim, only the backboard, and the ball and game were turned over to Oregon state.

In all, the score was tied nine times, the last deadlock coming at 61-61. Two free throws by Jay Carty sent the Beavers ahead to stay.

Pepperdine's futility at the free throw line was reflected in the statistics, 11 for 24 and a paltry 46%. In fact, the Waves almost shot better from the field—41%.

Oregon State, boasting a 7 ft. center in Mel Counts and 6-7 and 6-6 front liners in Carty and Bob Jacobson, controlled the boards, 62-47, as expected.

However, the big Beavers were more proficient on the offensive boards but couldn't parlay their ball control into buckets. Oregon State only shot 33% from the field.

Counts was the rebounding star for the Beavers with 21, but scoring honors went to Pepperdine's muscular guard, Bob Warlick.

He scored 23 points—13 in the first half—as Pepperdine shot into an 11-4 lead in the first five minutes.

Konik slammed a 40-footer right down the middle, with assists from Maxwell and Powers, at 7:41 and L.A. was ahead, 3-0.

Vancouver struck at 11:28 to cut the count to 3-1 when the Blades were shy a man.

Canuck defenseman Ed Diachuk received a cut on his right cheek during a second-period melee and retired for repairs. He returned to action in the final chukker.

The Canucks lost left wing Wayne Hall moments later because of a leg injury.

Goyer and Keller combined to set up a tap-in by O'Ree at 11:45, and the Blades took a 4-1 lead.

Goyer banged one in unassisted at 12:08 from a pile-up and Maxwell followed with a smash at 13:25, assisted by Powers, and it was 6-1.

Duane Rupp flicked in the Canucks' second marker at 15:14, aided by Ross and Hugh Currie, making the tally 6-2.

Jeff, Dorsey Aces Clock Season Highs

Herman Harville zipped to a 9.5 100-yd. dash and Ron White clocked 14.4s in the 120-yd. high hurdles to highlight Friday's city non-league track action.

Harville's century mark, bets of the city season, came as his Jefferson High teammates were clobbering Roosevelt, 74½-29½. White's hurdles time was the year's top clocking in Dorsey's dual meet win over University. White also ran the low hurdles in 19.7.

In a mixed city-CIF meet with Mater Dei, Fremont's powerful Pathfinders flashed to a 1:27.4 relay clocking, the best time reported in the nation this year. The Southern Leaguers won, 95½-8½.

ANGELS BEATEN

monte, playing second base, figured in two of the double plays, got three hits, knocked in two runs and felled Donohue with a line drive off his shins in the big sixth.

Fortunately Jim wasn't seriously hurt and even toiled in the bull pen after leaving for a pinch hitter as Dean Chance finished up on the mound. Donohue had walked three and hit two.

Rookie Jim Fregosi, battling Joe Koppe to make the club, got two of L.A.'s five hits and played flawlessly in the field. He is now hitting .313.

Yost and Ken Hunt went hitless again, the veteran third sacker being 0-8 for the exhibition slate and Hunt 2-18. Ken hasn't had a safety in his last 12 times at bat.

The loss made L.A.'s record 3-4 without a win on the road.

Angelingo

Asked what his club needs most, Mel McGaha, at 35 the youngest manager in either league, replied: "At least two power hitters and the proper infield combination" . . . It is assumed that the Indians are pretty well off with Woodie Held, Bubba Phillips and Vic Power for three of the spots, but second base seems to be a problem . . . That's why the club traded pitcher Bobby Locke to the Cubs for young Jerry Kindall . . . Ex-Angel Ken Aspromonte played 22 games for the Indians but hit only .229 . . . Gene Green, catcher-outfielder-infielder secured with pitcher Dick Donovan in the Jim Piersall trade, has been used some at first base and Power has been tried at second. "I won't know for some time just what our best combination is," said the personable Indian chief.

It's Apache Junction today and the Houston Colt 45s . . . That celebrated Irishman, Bob (Bo) Belinsky, will start the St. Patrick's day contest with Johnny James and Jack Spring also hurling . . . Ryne Duren and Eli Grba get the call Sunday and the Angels return to Palm Springs Sunday night.

DODGERS BOW, 9-4

base hit and prevented a run in the 3rd.

Koufax became the first L.A. hurler to pitch more than four frames in a single game. Sandy struck out eight, including Jim Gentile and Powell (twice), but he had the "two-out blues." All four runs he allowed came after he retired two men.

Perranoski fanned three (Powell, Gentile and Andy Etchebarren) of the first four men he faced, then the Orioles zeroed in and racked him for four hits and the ball game.

The victory went to Hoyt Wilhelm, whose tantalizing knuckle ball fanned Norm Sherry, Lee Walls and Willie Davis in two hitless innings.

Jackie Brandt was Baltimore's batting star, lacing triples off Koufax the first two times he faced him. Jerry Adair had three singles.

Dugout Dope

The Dodgers will play to their first sellout of the spring today when they tackle the world-champion Yankees at Ft. Lauderdale. Don Drysdale and Pete Richert will pitch against the champs' Bill Stafford and Ralph Terry . . . "I'd like to beat the Yankees," said Walt Alston, "but I'm making no special plans. I'll play the guys I think need the work."

Lee Walls cracked a homer and three singles as a motley array of Dodgers walloped the Miami U. varsity, 14-1, in a pickup game Friday afternoon . . . Tim Harkness also cleared the fence . . . Winning pitcher was Bill Singer, the young stringbean from Pomona who worked the first three innings. Tom Young, Ron Hubbard and Dale Williams also pitched for Los Angeles.

Capsule interview with Joe Nuxhall, Oriole hurler who spent nine seasons with Cincinnati: "Competition is more spirited in the National League. It's more dog-eat-dog . . . The National's better balanced, but the American isn't the minor league the guys in the other league jokingly call it . . . I like the Dodgers to win the pennant. They've got some great pitchers—real smokers—in Koufax, Williams, Podres and Drysdale."

Davis Cup Stars Pace College Tourney Victors

Eight tennis players from USC and UCLA, including Davis Cuppers Rafael Osuna of Mexico and Thorvald Moe of Norway, swept into the quarter-final round Friday in the sixth annual SoCal Intercollegiate championships at the Valley Hunt Club in Pasadena.

Osuna advanced with a 6-1, 6-3 win over Dave Moffett of Claremont-Mudd College.

The 22-year-old Moe of UCLA, men's singles champion in his native land, disposed of Bill Smith of Redlands University but not without difficulty, 6-2, 6-4.

Billy Bond of USC, second seeded behind teammate Osuna, had his hot service broken three times but managed to curb the attack of Pepperdine College's Bob Lansdorpf, 6-3, 6-3.

WESTERN WEATHER SUMMARY

Scattered light showers occurred in coastal sections from Southern California to Oregon Friday night. And there were a few sprinkles or light showers in Western Nevada. Generally fair weather prevailed over the remainder of the Western United States, but skies were mostly cloudy in all sections. A ridge of high pressure persisted over Rocky Mountain states and a weak trough extended from Mexico northwestward to the coast of Oregon. And over the Eastern Pacific a low pressure center was about 250 miles off the coast of Northern California. A crescent-shaped high covered the remainder of the Eastern Pacific with the center near 38 North 138 West and ridges northeast to the Southern Alaska coast to Baja California.

NATIONAL WEATHER SUMMARY

A stable and sluggish pressure pattern, showing little signs of change, dominated the weather scene from coast to coast Friday. As a result, sunshine was very much in evidence and particularly over the middle of the country, where mounds of high pressure covered the Rockies, plains and Mississippi Valley regions. Precipitation was difficult to find. Rain fell at times in Southern Florida while scattered snow flurries lingered near the lower Great Lakes and over the higher terrain of New York state and Pennsylvania, West Palm Beach, Fla., reported a brief thundershower. Out west an offshore disturbance brought considerable cloudiness but only a few showers to the Pacific Coast states. Temperatures rose close to seasonal normals with comfortably mild conditions prevailing at most sections of the country. The arid Southwest warmed to between the 60s and 70s, as did states bordering the Gulf of Mexico, while New England was moderate in the mid 40s. The Pacific Northwest and much of California registered maximums in the 50s or near 60 deg. Freezing temperatures were confined to a small area around the lower Great Lakes region, the higher Northern Rockies and some portions of the plains and Mississippi Valley.

Profit-Taking Sends Stocks Unevenly Lower

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market wallowed irregularly Friday as profits were taken on an advance which lasted most of this week.

Trading was moderate, slipping to 3.06 million shares from Thursday's 3.25 million.

Wider publication of the news that industrial production had snapped back from the January slowdown to record levels in February brought no particular stimulus. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's rocket-rattling speech as he announced launching of a new Russian space vehicle had little impact on aerospace issues. Instead of rising to meet the new challenge they tended to sell off a bit.

On the other hand, rails seemed to take some heart from expectations that President Kennedy will soon deliver a special message to Congress on transportation policy. The railroad shares were up moderately on balance. Utilities also edged unevenly higher but the important industrial section of the market drifted off.

6-Day Rise Ended

The Dow Jones industrial average took a minor loss of .77 at 722.77 ending a six-day visit to plus territory for this indicator.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index declined .12 at 70.94.

Of 1,293 issues traded, 561 declined and 485 advanced. New highs for the year totaled 75 and new lows 28.

Minor gains by a string of leading rails and a rise of 1⅛ by Southern Railway helped the averages despite the greater number of declining stocks in the over-all list. Also helpful were gains of 1½ for Du Pont, ¾ for Union Carbide, ½ by Sears, Roebuck and ½ by Public Service Electric & Gas.

S-P Most Active

An unexpectedly large gain in sales by Studebaker-Packard drew trading interest to this issue which rose ¼ to 10 on 50,900 shares, making it the most active stock.

Second was Benguet, unchanged at 1½ on 43,100 shares.

Third was Lehigh Valley Industries, up ⅛ at 1¾ on 37,200 shares.

Among the 15 most active stocks, gainers and losers were even at seven apiece, with Benguet unchanged.

U.S. Smelting spurted 2 points on rumblings of a proxy fight. Hershey Chocolate advanced 6 points in further response to higher earnings. Amerada dropped 3⅜, Polaroid 2⅝ and Filtrol 3½, the latter after reporting a decline in earnings.

American Exchange Stocks Again Uneven

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was 1.34 million shares compared with 1.33 million Thursday. Syntex continued under heavy profit taking and lost 2⅜. Hardeman advanced 1⅜ and Canaveral International 3. Tampa Electric fell 1¾.

Filtrol 1961 Profits Off

Filtrol Corp. reports 1961 net income of $2,337,000, equal to $1.78 a share, compared with $2,590,000, or $1.97 a share in 1960.

Gross revenues last year were $13,967,000, compared to $14,430,000 in the previous 12-month period.

Myron A. Bantrell, president, reports management is cautiously seeking worthwhile ventures in which to place the funds that it has accumulated.

He added that earnings for the first quarter of 1962 have improved over earnings for the same period of 1961.

BANK DEBITS

Los Angeles Clearinghouse Assn. Friday reported bank debits as $485,183,226; corresponding date last year, $380,347,744.

San Francisco bank clearings, $188,100,000.

UNION OIL MAY BUY TEXAS FIRM

Texas National Petroleum Co., Houston oil and gas producing firm, is negotiating to sell out to Union Oil Co. of California, an official of the Texas company reported Friday.

No formal agreement has been approved by either company, however, he said.

Charles Parker, vice president of Union Oil, said that his company has "had some discussions" with the Texas National. He declined to disclose terms being considered.

Studebaker Buys Paxton Products in Santa Monica

Studebaker-Packard Corp., South Bend, announced it has acquired Paxton Products, Inc., Santa Monica, manufacturer of superchargers, through the payment of an undisclosed amount of stock and cash.

Paxton, headed by Anthony Granatelli, employs about 35 persons. The company has been turning out superchargers on a custom basis. A Studebaker official said his company would put the unit in volume production. Location of the facilities for the increased production has not been determined, he said.

LETTERS-TO-EDITOR—TV
SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 17, 1962

AMONG the speakers at the Book and Authors Best Sellers luncheon Friday at the Ambassador was author Robert Nathan who chats at event with Mrs. Milton A. Krug. The program also featured fashion show. Times photo

Luncheon Attracts 700 Book Lovers

An audience of 700 book lovers heard six authors discuss their favorite subject at the third Books and Authors Best Sellers Luncheon Friday at the Ambassador.

The originally announced panel of four Southland authors, Robert Nathan, Alan Caillou, Stephen Longstreet and Dora Albert, was augmented by the appearance of a "surprise" guest, New Yorker Richard Yates. Times book editor and author Robert Kirsch emceed.

The third of the four yearly literary luncheons, designed to give Southland audiences a behind-the-scenes glimpse into the world of letters, was enlarged by the addition of several extra attractions.

Actor Ross Martin appeared in a dramatic reading from J. D. Salinger's best-selling book "Franny and Zooey." Helga presented a full-scale fashion show of spring and summer styles, and Anne Bennstrom of the Golden Door led a corps of participants through a drill demonstration of exercises for fitness and fun.

The authors talked about their current publications: Nathan about "A Star in the Wind," Yates about "Eleven Kinds of Loneliness," Longstreet about "A Treasury of the World's Great Prints," Caillou about "Field of Women" and Albert about "How to Cash In on Your Abilities."

Fourth in the luncheon series arranged by Mrs. Harold C. Holland is scheduled May 18 in the Crystal Room of the Beverly Hills Hotel.

HARVIE AND WRIGHT VOWS SET TODAY

Mrs. Dann Wright (Elizabeth Dann), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hardin Dann of Huntington Palisades, and Peter Lyons Harvie, son of the late Dr. Peter L. Harvie of Troy, N.Y., and the late Mrs. John H. Brelsford (Mrs. Harvie) of Troy and Palm Beach, will be married today in Brick Church, New York.

After a reception in the Cosmopolitan Club, the couple will leave on a trip to the West Indies, returning to Los Angeles after April 1.

Mrs. Wright is a member of Bel-Air Bay Club, the Symphonians and Los Angeles Opera Assn. Mrs. Harvie also is a Bel-air Bay Club member.

ART BUCHWALD

In a Bad Way for a Good Cause

PALM BEACH—Of all the United States, there is probably none as social as Palm Beach. This sun-drenched, diamond - studded, Rolls - Royce - clogged stretch of real estate has more cocktail and dinner parties per capita than any other town in the free world.

There is a society editor for every five families in the colony, as opposed to the national average of one for every 100 families.

But Palm Beach is not social just for the sake of being social. All the society activity down here has to do with raising money for some charity. It is very gauche to have a party for the sake of a party, and therefore everyone is in the business of giving a party for a cause.

It's gotten so that two people can't have breakfast together without making a donation to an orphanage.

As a matter of fact, while there is no shortage of parties and balls in Palm Beach, there is a shortage of diseases to give them for.

The old-timers in Palm Beach have all the good diseases tied up. The first families of this city have a monopoly on heart, cancer, cerebral palsy, and mental health, and a newcomer who is trying to crash society down here has very few illnesses left to choose from.

The other day we asked four friends to have lunch with us, and one of them, Mrs. Paul Ames, asked, "What's it for?"

"Nothing," we said. "We just want to have lunch."

"You can't just have lunch without a reason," she said. "If you can come up with a good disease we'll accept."

We called the local Palm Beach hospital and asked them if there were any diseases that there hadn't been benefits held for this season.

"You're calling awfully late," the woman said. "The only thing we still have open is malaria and yellow fever."

"Is arthritis taken?" we asked.

"It was one of the first to go. We can't give you diabetes or hay fever, either."

"Well, is there some hospital I could raise money for?"

"We have an animal shelter in Cheyenne, Wyo., that hasn't been spoken for."

"Okay, I'll give a luncheon for that. What do I do now?"

"You have to form a committee."

"What for?"

"To get your wife's picture in the newspaper. Why else would you want to give a benefit?"

"That's true," we said.

"Just call the local newspaper and they'll send a photographer over in 10 minutes."

We formed a committee consisting of our wife as honorary chairman, Mrs. Ames as program chairman, and Mrs. Howard Gould of Cincinnati as decorations chairman.

After the newspaper photographers took their pictures, we took the women and their husbands in to lunch in the coffee shop of the Palm Beach Towers, where we all were staying.

Unfortunately, the coffee shop was very crowded and we had to share our table with three other couples whom we didn't know.

But it worked out fine, because the three couples each pledged $1,000 for our animal shelter in Cheyenne and our party in turn bought $3,000 in raffle tickets which they were selling for a retired lifeguards' home in Seattle.

Music Fund Gains Noted

BY MARY MATTHEW
Times Society Editor

Campaign chairman Harry Bardt's luncheon Thursday for key volunteers of the Southern California Symphony Assn. Continuance Fund drive was a series of revelations.

Most important was the bright spirit of optimism for the 1962 campaign results, engendered by the success of the Junior Philharmonic Committee's "over - the - top" announcement and the progress made to date by the Women's Committee, and the groundbreaking earlier in the week for the Music Center.

It was the official opening of La Bella Fontana in the Beverly Wilshire, too, and as elegant as the fountain centering the room with its brocade walls were the bright spring hats worn by the majority of the guests.

Other 'Firsts'

Two other "firsts" were the introductions of Mrs. Draver Wilson, who Thursday began her career as director of volunteers for the women's activities for the Hollywood Bowl and SCSA; and of Charles W. Jacobson, just appointed director of public relations for the association.

The event's informality was further carried out in host Hernando Courtright's greeting to the guests; in Mr. Bardt's summation of the job to be done by the volunteers working for the support of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, and in Mrs. Norman Chandler's verbal sketch of events leading to the beginning of construction of the orchestra's permanent home.

Joining the feminine contingent, much to their pleasure, was a number of men who filled campaign positions last year, and who were invited by Mr. Bardt to participate again this year in the drive's windup.

Also represented were directors of SCSA, including Mrs. Guy W. Wadsworth Jr., a vice-president and chairman of affiliated committees.

Other board members at the party included Mmes. Herbert Anderson Jr., George Behrendt, Samuel F. Bowlby, J. Glennon Cahill Jr., Albert L. Chaney, John W. Karlsen, William D. Reynolds, Loyd Wright Jr. and Robert F. Boyd, and Donald W. Moulton and Cornwell Jackson.

Mmes. George B. Allison and John K. West as chairmen of two of the women's divisions also were among the party guests, and Mrs. Courtright joined her husband as hostess of the event.

Dior Presents Miniature Styles by Marc Bohan So Elegant Little Misses Can Think Big

● Dressing up like mother may become a passe game for little girls. Now they can be little elegants in their own haute couture clothes designed by Marc Bohan from the famous House of Dior.

Inspired by his own little daughter, Bohan has created a wonderfully fresh collection of Diorettes available for the first time in Southern California.

Stamped with the chic simplicity that belongs to Paris, the Lilliputian fashions are executed in charming and unexpected combinations of fabrics to delight little girls.

VI WEBER

BOHAN AND DAUGHTER

A FROTHY confection for a dance with Papa, left, is Swiss organdy fragilely embroidered and sashed with blue silk moire. A flutter of pleats, permanently crisp and easy to care for in Dacron, edges the skirt and bolero jacket of the dress above.

OPEN HEART GREEK BOY RECOVERING

It was a happy day Friday at St. Vincent's Hospital for administrators, doctors, a mother and her little boy Petros Fortunis, 6, of Athens, Greece, who has successfully recovered from an open heart operation performed a month ago.

There was only one among the celebrants who wasn't happy, Miss Georgia Nicholas, RN, who admits she succumbed to a hazard of her profession: falling in love with her patient.

"I can hardly stand to see him go," she said.

Normal Life Chance

"Pete," however, will leave today with the blessings of two doctors responsible for his coming here from Greece and for the successful operation. They are Lawrence Smith, MD, of St. Vincent's surgical staff, and Jerome H. Kay, MD, chief of cardiac surgery at the hospital.

Dr. Kay performed the delicate open heart operation which assured him a chance to lead a normal life.

Dr. Smith was responsible for beginning the machinery that brought him here. One year ago he was lecturing in Athens and received a call from a pediatrician inquiring if any help could be given to Petros in the United States.

To Go East

Petros and his mother, Mrs. Phane Fortunis, will live in the home of Mrs. Lydia Postolu, 927 S Windsor Blvd., a social worker at Childrens Hospital, until they leave for the East in April.

On May 3 they will sail for home, where Petros' father, James Fortunis, a public works employee, and a 4-year-old brother are waiting for them.

Nurse Nicholas vows that in a year she'll visit them, too, in Greece, the homeland of her father.

Crash Victim Kirkeby Left Estate to Family

Arnold S. Kirkeby, 60, financier and hotel magnate killed in the New York plane crash March 1, left his estate to his immediate family under a will filed for probate Friday in Superior Court.

The document, signed July 1, 1954, directed that the $1.6 million, 12-acre family estate at 750 Bel-Air Rd. be sold because it would be too expensive for the widow, Mrs. Carlotta Kirkeby, to maintain. This dwelling was once known as the "house with the golden doorknobs."

Mrs. Kirkeby and two children, Arnold Cuesta Kirkeby and Miss Carla Kirkeby, 17, were left personal effects. The financier's mother, Mrs. Signe Kirkeby of Chicago, was willed $25,000.

Half of the residue was placed in trust for the benefit of the widow. From the other half a second trust was ordered, 2% of the income going to Kirkeby's brother, Edwin O. Kirkeby, of Bal Harbour, Fla., and 5% to Mrs. Signe Kirkeby. Remaining income was given three-fourths to the daughter and one-fourth to the son.

The probate petition made no estimate of the estate's value other than that it will exceed $10,000.

AWARDS PRESENTED FOR HIRING VETERANS

Five firms and two individual employers were honored Friday by the State Veterans Employment Committee for their outstanding work in providing employment to veterans.

The awards were made during the committee's semi-annual meeting at the Sidney Hillman Labor Center, 2501 S Hill St.

Cited were California Computer Products, Inc., Downey; Ecko Products, Whittier; Electronic Enclosures Inc., Culver City; International Testing Corp., Long Beach; Yellow Cab Co., Los Angeles, and Louis Golden and James A. Lee, both of Culver City.

Arthur H. Tryon, executive director of the Los Angeles Veterans Service Center, was honored for his "outstanding work in promoting veterans employment."

Rusty Revolver Identified in Cohen Trial

A rusty revolver which allegedly killed Jack (The Enforcer) Whalen in a Ventura Blvd. cafe Dec. 2, 1959, was identified at the conspiracy-murder trial of Mickey Cohen and four other men Friday.

William V. Pinney, owner, and Richard G. Logan, former employee of a Phoenix sporting goods store, told jurors the gun was one they sold to Roger Leonard in March, 1959.

Leonard is one of the five accused, all allegedly seated at Cohen's table in the cafe when Whalen was shot to death.

On Thursday witness John Caravella testified that he drove "someone" to a hillside off Mulholland Dr. where the gun was found, and that he later led detectives to the spot.

Jailed for Contempt

Caravella was jailed for contempt by Superior Judge Lewis Drucker when he refused to identify the person who discarded the weapon.

In another action Friday, Judge Drucker held that testimony on Nancy Ann Root, 24-year-old model and actress, should be admissable against all five accused men.

Previously her testimony had been admitted only against Leonard and Joseph DiCarlo, her date on the night of the slaying.

Others on trial before the jury of 11 women and one man are Sam F. LoCigno and George (Piscitelle) Perry.

Fred Sica Acquitted of Tax Evasion

Alfred C. (Fred) Sica, 46, was acquitted by a federal jury of income tax evasion Friday but found guilty of signing a false affidavit that he had no financial dealings with Mickey Cohen.

U.S. Judge William Jameson set March 26 for sentencing and hearing of motions for a new trial and a judgment of acquittal on the falsification count. Sica remained free on bond.

The underworld figure also faces trial on a charge of evading federal excise taxes in connection with a football betting operation. Sica lives at 1737 N Las Palmas Ave.

Anti-Communism Conference Set

Six speakers will discuss anti-communism at a conference of the Sixth Zone, Military Order of the Purple Heart, from 1 to 5 p.m. today in Patriotic Hall, 1816 S Figueroa St.

Col. G. K. Crockett of Long Beach, national junior vice commander, and Paul Monks of Bell Gardens, national junior vice president, will attend.

Contract Awarded

Pascal & Ludwig, Inc., was awarded a $2.8 million contract by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Friday for flood control work on the eastern system in Burbank, Grandview Ave. channel and Hillcrest Canyon Channel and Debris Basin.

CRISIS — Whitney M. Young, who told of crisis in U.S. Negro affairs. Times photo

Next Five Years Called Critical for U.S. Negro

"These are the most critical years in the history of the American Negro," the recently elected executive director of the National Urban League declared Friday.

"During the next five years the Negro can go either way," said Whitney M. Young. "He can become the most violent group or the most constructive group in the nation.

"Negroes will no longer accept defeat with despair. Their attitude is becoming one of hostility and resentment.

"Walk into the Harlems of any of the major cities in the country . . . including Los Angeles . . . and you sense the pent-up resentment. It is like sitting on a keg of dynamite."

Cites Opportunity

Speaking at a Statler Hilton press conference, Whitney declared: "Los Angeles, as other cities with large Negro populations, has the opportunity to make the Negro a constructive producer participating in the over-all rewards and responsibilities of all its citizens.

"If this doesn't happen, Negroes will be represented in increasing numbers on crime and relief roles.

"This is the challenge facing all Americans. We have to initiate a crash program to make a specially excluded group of Americans a specially inclusive group."

Urges Look at Problem

Young, a New Yorker, addressed a Los Angeles Urban League banquet at the Furniture Mart Friday night.

"It is nice to see exceptionally qualified Negroes working in City Hall," he said, "but the measure of how far we have to go is shown by the fact that such employees were pointed out to me."

Young said Los Angeles has the chance to become one of the "truly best cities in the country" if it will "honestly look at some of the problems."

L.A. Area Bookie Raids Nab 3 Women, 11 Men

Arrests in Downey, Torrance, Long Beach Districts Part of Wide U.S. Crackdown

Eleven men and three women were arrested in the Los Angeles area Friday as part of a federal crackdown on bookmaking and lottery operations in a dozen states.

Most of the local raids were in the Downey, Torrance and Long Beach areas. Local police and Sheriff's officers aided special agents of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service in the investigation and raids.

U.S. Atty. Francis C. Whelan said most of those arrested will be prosecuted in federal court for violating U.S. wagering tax laws. Some cases will be prosecuted in state courts.

Headed by Women

Long Beach Police Chief William J. Mooney said one ring broken in the Long Beach-Downey district was controlled by attractive young women and handled $10,000 in bets daily.

Arrested on gambling charges:

Edgar Martin Caldwell, 38, 681 Lomora Ave., Pasadena; John Lawrence Adams, 44, of 1260 Kings Rd., Los Angeles; Eugene Newcomb Schuck, 56, of 1400 N. Central Ave., Glendale; Anthony J. Stipa, 45, of 4757 W Slauson Ave.; Jerry Scaglione, 38, of 22714 Anza Ave., Torrance.

James S. Bozzano, 47, of 4716 Ave. B., Torrance; Joseph W. Begando, 45, of 17109 Ardath Ave., Torrance; Frank Crimi, 37, of 14718½ Chadron Ave., Gardena; Julia Shapiro, 51, and Rosemary Hallam, 29, of 13523 Castana Ave., Downey.

Others Seized

Leslie Woodford, 51, of 4523 S Wall St., Apt. 6; Mrs. Nina Corrine Taplia, 30, of 7860 E Burns Ave., Downey, and her husband, Nick Taplia, 37, and John Howard Long, 32, of 13523 Castana Ave., Downey.

Nine cars and various types of gambling paraphernalia, with a total value of about $50,000, were seized in the Southland raids, revenue agents said.

Arraignment of those arrested began Friday afternoon before U.S. Commissioner Theodore Hocke. Stipa and Scaglione were arraigned with bail set at $1,000 each. Also arraigned and admitted to bail of $500 were Bozzano, Begando, Crimi, Adams, Caldwell and Schuck.

Barbara Stanwyck Leaves Hospital

Actress Barbara Stanwyck, who entered Cedars of Lebanon Hospital Tuesday for minor surgery, was released Friday.

Freedom Rider Plea Rejected

Dr. Franklin D. Murphy, UCLA chancellor, turned down an appeal Friday from students seeking to reverse a UCLA Board of Control veto of a proposed $5,000 loan to aid five freedom riders.

He told a delegation representing approximately 200 students that he supported the board's veto of a student election Feb. 14 to loan student funds to finance appeal bonds in Jackson, Miss.

The chancellor pointed to suggestions by vice chancellor Foster Sherwood that other loan sources are readily available to the five students.

Driver Who Killed Two Found Guilty

An unemployed waiter who drove his car into a line of hungry men awaiting Christmas meals at the Midnight Rescue Mission, killing two of them and injuring 16 others, was found guilty Friday on two counts of felony manslaughter.

Superior Judge Joseph L. Call, who heard the four-day trial without a jury, set April 4 as the sentencing date for Sidney L. Gillion, 39, of 645 E 87th St.

Dep. Dist. Atty. H. George Taylor produced evidence to show that Gillion ran two red lights and struck another vehicle before striking the men at 4th and Los Angeles Sts.

JUDGE PARKER By Paul Nichols

J. B. Long, Publisher Assn. Ex-Head, Dies

Heart Attack Fatal in San Marino Home at Age of 68; Had Retired From Post Feb. 15

John B. Long, champion of press freedom for 34 years as head of the California Newspaper Publishers Assn., is dead at 68.

He died of a heart attack at 11 p.m. Thursday in his San Marino home.

His son, Dair N. Long of Newport Beach, said Mr. Long "had been failing for several years." He retired Feb. 15 as general manager of CNPA.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Church of the Recessional, Forest Lawn Memorial-Park. They will be followed by entombment at Forest Lawn Mausoleum.

A persistent fighter against those who would diminish freedom of the press, Mr. Long was widely recognized as founder of "National Newspaper Week."

John B. Long

Started in Iowa

He began his newspaper career in his native Iowa after graduation from college and worked for three midwest publications before becoming public relations director of a Nebraska telephone company.

In 1928 he was named CNPA's general manager. Under his direction the organization grew to include 600 newspapers. He was the recipient of many awards for service in the cause of a free press.

Most recent honor accorded him was a Los Angeles City Council resolution in February which said he exemplified "the finest traditions of the newspaper profession."

Ralph H. Turner, CNPA president and publisher of the Temple City Times, said Friday that Mr. Long "was the most loyal, effective, dedicated servant of newspapers, both in California and elsewhere, that I have ever known."

Besides his son, he leaves his widow, Berthe, and a sister, Hazel G. Long of South Pasadena.

Sam Wren, 65, Veteran Actor, Director, Dies

Sam Wren, 65, veteran actor, director and theatrical executive, died in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital Thursday night following abdominal surgery.

Mr. Wren and his wife, actress Viginia Sale, youngest sister of the late comedian Chic Sale, had closed their Marlo (N.H.) home and returned to live in Hollywood only a few days ago.

A descendant of Sir Christopher Wren, 18th Century London architect, Mr. Wren was born in Brooklyn in 1896, and began his theatrical career in New York.

After years of playing in stock, on Broadway and with the Theater Guild, he was associated with producer Kenneth McGowan and the late Guthrie McClintic as casting and stage director.

Former Equity Official

He served six years as executive-secretary of Actors' Equity following service in the World War I Air Corps, later moving to Hollywood as actor and executive with Warner Bros. and Columbia Studios.

Besides his widow, Mr. Wren leaves twin children, Virginia and Christopher Wren, 26, who were born here.

Memorial services will be conducted at 3 p.m. Sunday in St. Michael's Episcopal Church, 3646 Coldwater Canyon Ave. Mr. Wren's family suggests contributions to the Motion Picture Relief Fund in lieu of flowers.

Promenade's Last Concert Dance April 7

Music for the dance following the final Promenade Concert April 7 in Shrine Auditorium will be provided by Jimmy Henderson and his orchestra. The after-concert dance will be in Exposition Hall, adjoining the Auditorium.

Henderson a trombonist, began his music career in a symphony orchestra but switched to popular bands. He formed his present group a few years ago, and has found special favor among college students. The college set has been among the enthusiastic patrons of the Promenades.

Johnny Green will conduct a program of music in the lighter vein for the final event of the season. Promenade Concerts by the Los Angeles Philharmonic are in their fourth season, and are sponsored by the Southern California Symphony Assn.

Grounded Ship's Cargo Salvaged

Cargo from the abandoned freighter SS Chickasaw, which went aground on Santa Rosa Island in a fog six weeks ago, was being salvaged Friday.

Capt. Kelly Hunter of the Fred Divine Co., Portland, Ore., directed the work. Much of the cargo on the ship, owned by Waterman Steamship Corp., New Orleans, consists of Japanese toys.

Bribery Quiz Dropped in Hayes Damage Suit

Insufficient Evidence Reported on Claim Contractor Offered $1 Million to Witness

The District Attorney's office announced Friday that there will be no further investigation now of charges that contractor Hal B. Hayes offered a $1 million bribe to a witness in his suit for $4.1 million against Continental Casualty Co.

Chief Dep. Manley Bowler of the prosecuting staff said his investigators conducted a long interview with Alvin T. Locke, the witness supposedly offered the bribe, and that there was insufficient evidence to proceed further.

Payment for Services

Locke reportedly told them that he had received $5,000 from Hayes but that this was in payment for past services rendered the contractor.

The bribery charge was made by Continental's attorney, Eldon V. McPharlin, a week ago.

The lawyer charged that Locke, who was the chief estimator for Hayes prior to the contractor's submission of bids for $60 million in military housing construction, reported the alleged bribery to McPharlin's law partner, Robert E. Jones.

Hayes' Contention

Hayes contends in the suit that Locke made inadequate estimates which eventually led the contractor to abandon the project before completion.

Continental, which wrote the faithful performance bonds for the project, is demanding $8.6 million for its losses from Hayes and his corporations. Locke, Hayes has charged, was introduced to him by Continental with high recommendations.

Command Changes

Book Dealer Sentenced for Selling 'Tropic'

Bradley R. Smith, Hollywood book dealer convicted of violating state obscenity laws by selling Henry Miller's "Tropic of Cancer," was sentenced Friday to 30 days in jail.

Municipal Judge Kenneth L. Holaday also placed Smith, 32, on a year's probation. The judge rejected the County Probation Department's recommendation that Smith be let off with a fine.

"I am entirely in accord with the jury's finding that this book is obscene," Judge Holaday remarked. "And I am certain that this defendant had knowledge."

The judge pointed out that when Smith was arrested Oct. 9 at his shop, 6707 Hollywood Blvd., there was a sign in the window advertising "Tropic" as "the book they're trying to ban" and that he had 75 copies in stock.

"Mr. Smith took a calculated risk for profit, and he lost," the judge concluded.

Smith, a twice-wounded Korea veteran, told the Probation Department he did not believe he was committing a crime because the Miller novel could be bought at many department and drug stores and had been cleared for import by the postal authorities.

The defendant's lawyer, Mark W. Tumbleson, filed a notice of appeal. Pending its outcome Judge Holoday allowed Smith to remain at liberty under $525 bail.

Rare Blood Type Sought

The Red Cross Blood Service is searching its files for records of donors with a type of blood which occurs in only one person in 800.

Twenty-three pints of the unusual blood — type A2B negative—are needed so that Michael Hardy, 15, of 22336 Baltar St., Canoga Park, can have heart surgery.

When Red Cross colunteer workers have found 23 past donors with this type of blood, Michael will be scheduled for surgery at UCLA Medical Center and the donors will be asked to make their contribution.

Restaurateur Fined for Booking Bet

Nick P. Lococo, 39, co-owner of a Manhattan Beach restaurant, was placed on three years probation and fined $250 Friday for his conviction on a charge of bookmaking.

Superior Judge Adolph Alexander also suspended a 180-day jail sentence.

Lococo, 4742 Sherryanne Lane, Torrance, had pleaded guilty to accepting a $5 bet on March 3, 1962, on a horse at Santa Anita. The wager was placed by a District Attorney's investigator.

Reapportionment Road Doesn't Lack Directions

The Southern California Regional Assn. of County Supervisors has studied a variety of proposals to reapportion the State Senate since the summer of 1959, and several points made in Judge Houser's letter, printed in your March 8 issue, are in agreement with the general thinking of the association's study committee. These bear repeating and are:

1—The "blue ribbon commission" proposal "is not much of an improvement and would be of no benefit to the remainder of Southern California.

2—Los Angeles County and Southern California would be surrendering what they are entitled to in the way of equitable senatorial representation for a "mess of pottage."

3—A plan based strictly on population will receive very little support except in Los Angeles County, even from the other Southern California counties. Hence the need for compromise.

4—In order to be politically feasible the best starting point for reapportionment is to "retain the present constitutional provision providing for 40 state senators."

These are good points, but I believe the judge's specific proposal to add one additional senator for each congressional district has certain weaknesses that will lessen its support. These include:

1—Since the "congressional district" senators would be apportioned largely on a population basis, it will be argued that this would be a giant step toward a unicameral legislature.

2—Rural areas, including those in Southern California, will see their current check on the more liberal urban areas diluted.

3—While I find it difficult to accept the proposition that California has a so-called "federal plan" which really has validity as such, the objection that the judge's plan would destroy the "federal plan" will have considerable support.

4—While the 1961 Legislature authorized 5,800 new jobs according to Cal-Tax, it will be argued that 38 more senators is too many.

No perfect solution can be found, particularly when one uses the present apportionment as a starting point. However, I do believe the Southern California supervisors' proposal to add 11 senators to this area is fair, logical and can reasonably win the support of all fair-minded people, since it equalizes Southern California areas with other areas of the state.

It is safe to say that no equitable plan will be offered to the people by the Legislature, so I hope Supervisor Bonelli with the support of all of Southern California, including all news media, will get behind an initiative measure which corrects the defects of Proposition 15 of November 1960.

The initiative approach can be taken on a logical basis that need not split the state. After all, seven senators were taken away from Los Angeles by a vote of the people.

G. V. BERKEY,
Supervisor, 4th District,
Riverside County.

In a letter to The Times March 8 I described the major features of a compromise plan for State Senate reapportionment. In essence, the proposal provides for the election of one additional senator from each of the state's 38 congressional districts. I would like to explain two other aspects of my proposal which I believe are important in its consideration.

There might be some objection on the part of the senators to increasing the size of the Senate without increasing the membership of the Assembly and, if necessary, this could be overcome by increasing the membership of the Assembly, so as to provide that there should be three Assembly districts in each congressional district, which would mean a 1960 census total of 114 assemblymen as compared with the present 80. California has grown tremendously since 1879, when the present number of senators and assemblymen was established, so that there is nothing out of line in increasing the senators from 40 to 78 and the assemblymen from 80 to 114.

It may be that this proposed plan will be criticized on the basis of the increased legislative cost. The last state budget, as you may recall, totaled approximately $2.6 billion, while the increased legislative cost of the plan which I have suggested as a compromise could not exceed $2 million per annum. This would amount to 1/13 of 1% of the total state budget. Thus it can be seen that the good resulting to Southern California from a much more equitable distribution of state senators would far outweigh the relatively small increase in legislative expense.

FREDERICK HOUSER,
Judge, the Superior Court,
Los Angeles.

Critics and Defenders of Educational System

Your editorial "Drop-Outs: A Dilemma in Education," in The Times on March 5, was interesting.

In an age when nearly every youngster is expected to go to college, our society has become more aware of the needs of education. Higher college requirements have created a lot of accademic activity to such an extent that the high school has become more simply a preparation for college.

The 40% drop-out rate which you refer to in your editorial is to be expected. I would conjecture that the higher the college requirements, the higher the drop-out rate, as more and more students become misplaced in our modern high schools.

I am not saying that the college requirements are the cause of drop-outs. We should have academic high schools to develop culture. On the other hand, as one can readily see by reading The Times' classified section, we need mechanics, carpenters, electricians, draftsmen, clerks, stenographers, and all of these people cannot go to college.

From my perspective as a high school teacher, I can see a solution to this great dilemma.

Students who do not plan to go to college should be enrolled in a high school which trains them for a vocation.

ALAN HOFFER,
University High School.

You would have the public believe that The Times is sincerely interested in education. Your readiness to report and to join the criticism and complaints that are being leveled at the schools from all directions could be cited in support of this contention.

The school is just one of many agencies involved in developing a child's mind and thoughts. Each of these agencies must assume its share of responsibility for improving the quality of education and not expect the schools to do the job alone.

Among the most powerful of these agencies are the mass media of communications, such as newspapers, radio and television.

Here is just one example of the failure of a powerful agency to assume its share of responsibility: One of the most popular comic series published by The Times is undoubtedly Dennis the Menace. Consider the first two statements in this strip recently: "He don't make hardly any noise," and "An' he sure don't eat much."

How much "beefing up" of the curriculum, longer school days or weeks, or extra effort on the part of the teacher would it take to convince the children who read this strip that this is not the correct way to speak?

The schools cannot do much about this comic strip. The Times can, very simply and easily. It can refuse to publish the section until appropriate language is substituted.

THELMA NICKLIN,
Co-ordinator, Teacher Education, Los Angeles City Schools.

Would Mrs. Nicklin also require that Huckleberry Finn and Tom Sawyer be removed from school libraries as a further safeguard to students' language patterns?—Ed.

I am writing this letter to you because I don't know where to send a letter for Lt. Gen. James E. Briggs.

Our comments refer to his speech at a press conference at the Ambassador before an address at the World Affairs Council luncheon on Feb. 28.

Lt. Gen. Briggs "declared he knows of no reason why students cannot go to school on Saturday and have longer school days."

In the first place, how can we do our week-end assignments if we go to school on Saturday? Both the teachers and we students need some rest. We work hard mentally besides rushing constantly to get to our classes on time and our physical education.

He wants schools to be in session until 5 p.m. with lots more mathematics, English and the communicative arts. Well, my school starts at 7:30 a.m. and nine hours of work six days a week is too much.

CAROL HILLIARD
and 24 other pupils at Portola Junior High School, Tarzana.

In rebuttal to your editorial "The Myth of Intellectual Equality," may I suggest that your entire premise of too many students enrolled in our colleges is basically faulty, assuming that you do not have in mind the "goof-off" type.

Any student who attains the status of higher education these days cannot be called unfit scholastically. Any young person who enrolls in a university or college today has earned the privilege through hours of study and research.

BETTY SCHNEIDER,
Burbank.

Pork Barrel Medical Aid

I am in agreement with your recent editorial referring to the administration's prescription for medical care under Social Security and financed by 10% of the American worker's paycheck. Add to this 10% the stiff income tax required to support other paternalistic bureaus and we find our month-end purchasing power the greatest depressed area of all time.

It was disappointing to see this issue pork-barreled with federal subsidized immunizations for tots (as a practicing family doctor, I am well aware that there is no need for this infringement on parental responsibility) and the financing of group clinics for doctors in rural areas.

This latter attempt should certainly point out to the voters that support of the bureaus must be reversed. Any physician desiring to serve such an area has no difficulty in obtaining 100% financing.

Perhaps we moderates of both parties should start voting against the politicians who offer to usurp our individual responsibility from the cradle to the grave. Some strong support of politicians advocating austerity —either Democratic or Republican — might reverse our economic doldrums and restore our purchasing power.

Such a reversal will put our economy on a sane peacetime basis and solve our non-defense employment problem. We could continue to bolster our national defense through federal taxation. Locally, we deserve the responsibility to finance and administer our own necessary improvements. Why should we continue to send money to Washington and beg for a morsel to be returned?

OSCAR'S GILT TARNISHED BY MEDIOCRITY OF SOME FILMS

Whatever George C. Scott's reasons, real and/or stated, for declining the nomination for an Oscar, it is a fact that the whole Academy Award farce has been apparent to much of the public for quite a long time. As a matter of fact, it has been regarded as phony business for so long that it no longer gets much attention from serious movie viewers.

When films and performances of real artistic value are fairly consistently ignored and when awards are so frequently given for inferior films and performances, it becomes pretty obvious that it is something other than merit that is being rewarded. We, the public, laugh it off as a lot of ballyhoo once or twice and then we're just plain bored.

At least, let us give Mr. Scott credit for being the first in the "industry" to have the courage to speak out. It's also interesting that his performances on the screen have been superior.

MARGARET MARKSON,
Encino.

Abstract Art Is Creative

You published something in your Comic Dictionary that I do not feel was the least bit humorous, and I am sure that there are many people who know about the subject that will agree with me. I quote: "Abstract art . . . A form of modern art where the artist shows great skill in his inability to paint."

The artist who paints abstract art, paints from his soul. He does not copy what is already there to see. I do not tear apart realistic art, that is a skill; but I say that an artist who paints abstract art has more than just the ability to paint. He has the ability to create!

I suggest that if the man responsible for printing that bit of nonsense feels so strong about it, he should buy a camera.

JOAN PAISLEY,
Los Angeles.

Dedication to Science

The Times deserves congratulations for printing so prominently the letter of Christos T. Christy, president of Engineers-Scientists Guild. His complaint of the lack of proper recognition by American officials and the public opinion media on the vital role scientist-engineers played in the recent orbital flight of Col. Glenn seems well taken.

I am neither a scientist, engineer or manufacturer of space vehicles or their components and therefore cannot be accused of holding brief for the scientist-engineers or their guild.

To his credit, Col. Glenn in the moment of his glory while receiving the adulations of officials, press, radio, TV and the American public, did not forget to state that his feat was a team effort. This cue was taken up and repeated.

However, not sufficient emphasis was placed to create a true realization of the work of thousands of scientists and engineers who conceived, researched, engineered, manufactured and tested the capsule, the rocket, and the hundreds of other components and control mechanisms which made possible the successful initial voyage of orbiting our new ocean of space.

This orbiting trial is only the beginning. If we want scientists-engineers to persevere in their dedication to further research, to achieve the ultimate conquest of space for the welfare of mankind, then we must keep in mind the adage that man does not live by bread alone, and find the proper means to afford our scientist-engineers due recognition and the gratitude of the American people to which they are justly entitled.

Public opinion media can help greatly in that direction by keeping the subject constantly alive.

ALBERT J. AMATEAU,
Los Angeles.

Commendation for Guard

Re: Paul Weeks' article in The Times last Saturday, titled: "State Quiz Asked of Spy Network."

A tempest in a teapot has been stirred up by some state assemblymen unfamiliar with state regulations governing National Guard armories.

It is common knowledge among the officers and enlisted personnel that all property confined within state armories is state property. The Office of the Adjutant General frequently orders inventories taken in armories, at which time a permanent tag, duly numbered for identification, is attached to any article found within the armory, not previously tagged. This tag says "Property of the State of California."

Furthermore, no unauthorized person, whether civilian or military, is permitted, at any time, to use state property in an armory, unless it be an emergency, and with the previous consent of either the commanding officer, his executive officer, or, in rare cases, the armory custodian, who is usually a member of the CNGR.

The California National Guard Reserve, from its activation in 1950, has been fortunate in obtaining top-notch officer personnel. Most of them are ex-regular Army officers with long experience. Many are veterans of one or two wars. These dedicated men give of their time and services to the state without compensation, with the exception of a handful at regimental headquarters on full-time active duty.

If Maj. Gen. George Fisher was running a private detective agency from the state armory, it seems to me his files were there illegally, and he should have been called before a Military Court of Inquiry to explain his motives. If they were proper and in order, which I have no reason to doubt, they probably would have been allowed to remain under proper authority.

The CNGR has its own headquarters personnel and files, and no one may examine them, except authorized personnel.

The officers and enlisted personnel of the CNGR deserve to be commended and not have mud thrown in their faces. They are our main hope to help civilian authorities maintain order and cope with panic and chaos, if and when the U.S. government orders the reserve to active combat duty.

Oxnard.

Arithmetic of Population

The Times is certainly to be commended for drawing attention to the growing world population problem.

In this connection it is a surprising thing that the very simple arithmetic of population increase should be so little known.

A net annual population increase equals the annual births per 1,000, less the annual deaths per 1,000. Thus, a birth rate of 25, less a death rate of 15, gives a net annual increase of 10 per 1,000. Ten divided by 1,000 equals .01, or 1%, the annual rate of population increase.

Now, a table of compound interest shows that any number increasing at the rate of 1% annually will double in a little more than 69 years — the magic number to remember.

The world's population is at present increasing at the rate of about 1.8%. Sixty-nine divided by 1.8 equals 38½, the number of years in which the world population will double. The present world population is about 3 billion. Therefore (assuming the same rate of growth), by 2000 it will be 6 billion.

It is really curious that there are those who seem not in the least troubled by this prospect.

HUGH GOODHUE,
Pasadena.

TODAY IN HISTORY

BY BRAINERD DYER

At 2 o'clock on the afternoon of March 17, 1865, the messenger of the United States legation in London delivered at the British Foreign Office a note from Charles Francis Adams, the U.S. minister, informing the British government that the reciprocity treaty of 1854 would "terminate and be of no further effect . . . at the expiration of 12 months from the date of . . . this notice."

By the terms of the treaty, either party to it might, after 10 years, terminate it on 12 months notice. Congress — very unhappy with Great Britain because of her alleged unneutral policies during the Civil War and believing that the treaty worked to Britain's advantage — urged the President to terminate the treaty at the earliest possible moment. And this was done.

A THOUGHT FROM THE BIBLE

If a man shall deliver unto his neighbour money or stuff to keep, and it be stolen out of the man's house; if the thief be found, let him pay double.—Exodus 22, verse 7.

Blattner Gives Fresh View to Angel Job

BY DON PAGE

Buddy Blattner, you must know by now, is the Angels' new baseball announcer. He is most familiar for his exceptional work with Dizzy Dean on Game-of-the-Week telecasts. His work was meritorious, in fact, for the simple reason that he was able to survive Dizzy.

Blattner sincerely feels that his years with Dean on CBS were rewarding, although "Wabash Cannonball" never made Bud's personal hit parade.

He spent some of his life as a baseball player, touring briefly with the Giants and Phillies, but unlike the majority of former athletes, Blattner is a true professional announcer. Apart from that, he is also intelligent and articulate.

Bud Blattner

It is not difficult to measure a portion of his intelligence within the business field when you consider the decisions he made in accepting the Angel broadcasting position. Initially, he divorced himself from Dizzy Dean, since he wasn't designed to be another announcer's caddy. Surveying the situation here, Blattner declined to sign a KMPC contract, a further indication of his perceptiveness. Bud signed an Angel contract, becoming an employee of the ball club. This, if you are familiar with sponsors and agents, enhances a sportscaster's chances for longevity.

Finally, he is moving to Los Angeles from St. Louis. Another brilliant decision, if you've ever been in St. Louis.

Bud has a personal book of rules for his profession. And they are, indeed, enlightening.

He Won't Editorialize

"My job is to encourage interest in baseball, not to tout the Angels or individual players," he said. "I can't and will not be in that position. Also, I won't try to scoop the press, not caring to enjoy that advantage. And I'm not going to editorialize. I'll leave that to the sports writers."

A fresh approach.

Blattner is fascinated by Los Angeles' transistor crowds, a fad generated by Vin Scully. Upon visiting the Coliseum last year, he learned why the patrons utilize transistor radios there.

"I took a trip up to row 77, mainly for the view. An old couple were squinting at the game in progress and clutching a transistor. Scully announced that Maury Wills was at bat, and the old man said, 'Honey, he's right. That IS Wills at bat!' "

Mr. Bud Blattner makes his debut today as voice of the Angels on KMPC at 12:30 p.m. (Angels vs. Houston) from Apache Junction, Ariz., which has a better view than the Coliseum.

Basketball Playoffs Begin

NBC begins covering the National Basketball Assn. playoffs this weekend with the Western Division meeting between Cincinnati and Detroit today (Channel 4 at 11 a.m.). Sunday, Philadelphia engages Syracuse at 11:30 a.m. You have to be delirious about basketball to follow these playoffs, since it is possible for the teams to play 19 games.

Immediately following today's NBA playoff, Channel 4 joins the NIT college basketball special at Madison Square Garden. If you can't go the whole basketball route, Channel 11 breaks the monotony with the UCLA-USC baseball game at 1:30 p.m.

Last Sunday, Jimmy Jacobs showcased his ancient boxing films on Sports Spectacular. At the risk of incensing the old-time fight group, many of the "immortal" fighters looked inept by modern standards. And on St. Patrick's Day it's blasphemy to call Gentleman Jim Corbett a bum, but let's put it this way: The movie "Gentleman Jim" was shown on TV recently and Errol Flynn had a better jab.

Gordon Plans Novel Comedy-Melodrama

Story Concerns Newsman and Plot to Steal Crown Jewels

BY HEDDA HOPPER

"Take It Away" was written by Michael Gordon, producer-director, who will make the picture in England. Story concerns a newspaperman who discovers a plot to steal the crown jewels. Scotland Yard thinks he's nuts, and they just laugh. And you may, too, when you learn they want Fred MacMurray to star in it. He's the only one I can think of who could get away with it.

Fred MacMurray

Tom Tryon, so good in Walt Disney's "Moon Pilot," still can't make up his mind whether he prefers painting or acting. He's now traveling in Florence, Paris and Rome painting like mad; but will have to stop long enough to do a picture in England. Mrs. H. J. Heinz, of the 57 varieties, bought many of his canvases which encouraged him no end. They're really good. I've seen many of them.

John Forsythe and Miyoshi Umeki star in "Teahouse of the August Moon," the Hallmark special to be aired in October. Deal's almost set for Peter Falk to play the role Marlon Brando did on screen. Should be a breeze for Forsythe. TV's bachelor father was in the original on Broadway. Speaking of Falk, he's got an unusual record. He's been up to bat only twice in pictures, and won Academy nominations both times. Last year for "Murder, Inc."; now Frank Capra's "Pocketful of Miracles."

Grandmother Takes Over

Anne Baxter will leave her 5-month-old baby with her mother while she's in England starring in "Mix Me a Person" for Victor Saville. England's Elvis Presley, Adam Faith, plays a beatnik in the film.

Anne says, "The baby hasn't seen a doctor since she was 6 weeks old, weighs 18 lb., has two teeth, looks like an ad for Carnation milk. She's just Christmas!" She flew over from Honolulu on the same plane with Joan Crawford, who played with the baby all the way over.

Always good for a punch line, Anne said of Hollywood: "This town is all right, but just don't ever need it."

Harriet Andersson, Swedish actress here to plug Ingmar Bergman's latest picture, "Through a Glass Darkly," was asked if she'd do a picture in Hollywood. She replied, "No, Ingrid Thulin was so unhappy here I don't think I'll risk it. It's true, I don't have a fur coat or an automobile, but I have friends in Sweden who do."

Rosemary Murphy, whose dad was former undersecretary of State Robert Murphy, finished "To Kill a Mockingbird," and is mulling Abner Biberman's offer to play the female M.D. in his medical series. Rosemary started acting the hard way. Landed in a German film that never saw the light of day. Producer ran out of cash. She couldn't see any future in that, so took herself to Broadway, played Tony Perkins' sister in "Look Homeward, Angel" and won a Tony for "Period of Adjustment."

Now I love hats, but—! When an Englishman named Castle Stewart passed on, this unusual item was found in his will. He left his gray topper to a dear friend and provided a 140-pound trust fund for the upkeep.

THE SOUNDING BOARD

Stern Outstanding in Brahms Concerto

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

Virgil Thomson once observed, with his usual perceptiveness, that styles in musical interpretation change about every 25 years. Recordings of famous performers of the past by and large confirm the truth of this statement, and it came to mind again when listening to Isaac Stern play the Brahms Violin Concerto with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra conducted by Paul Kletzki in Philharmonic Auditorium Thursday night.

While the powerful influence of Arturo Toscanini dominated the musical scene one seldom heard this type of performance. His practice of rigid adherence to the printed text, of fast tempos, unrelenting intensity, and explosive drive affected both solo and orchestral playing and set the style for an era. But with his passing a different approach is becoming increasingly evident—not so much new as a reversion to the relaxation, flexibility, freedom and individualism of a more romantic ideal of interpretation.

Searching Expression

Mr. Stern's playing and Mr. Kletzki's conducting were united in a kind of expressive searching for essences far removed from the slick and ultra polished Brahms playing that was the vogue for so many years. Mr. Stern put a personal impress on every phrase, yet he did not indulge in undue liberty. His conception was grand in outline, but free and individual in detail. It was the sum of sober reflection, innate feeling and long experience. And he had the wherewithal to project his conception — an enormous tone capable of every variety of color and nuance and the effortless technique that permits the sort of freedom that would be dangerous under less masterful control.

Mr. Kletzki was equally flexible and penetrating in his management of the orchestra and except for a mishap at the beginning of the last movement, when the orchestra tumbled in ahead of the soloist, the result was Brahms restored to a rightfully warm and romantic estate. And Mr. Stern showed his appreciation of Bert Gassman's beautiful oboe solo in the slow movement by having him share the enthusiastic applause.

Sensitive Conducting

Mr. Kletzki, making his first appearance at these concerts, impressed as a conductor worth knowing more about. He was daring enough to introduce himself with a 20th century work, Honegger's Symphony No. 2 for string orchestra and trumpet, and convincing enough to make the Tschaikowsky oriented public like it.

It is a piece that wears better than well; the oftener one hears it the more substantial it seems — music modern in spirit and method but rich in drama and expressiveness. Mr. Kletzki handled it with notable sensitivity and intensity; the strings responded with fine tone, clear execution and deft shadings, and there were important solo contributions by Robert DiVall's trumpet, Sanford Schonbach's viola and Kurt Reher's cello.

Moussorgsky's "Pictures At an Exhibition" nowadays has a tendency to play itself, but Mr. Kletzki was able to put his own stamp on it. He deployed Ravel's instrumentation with judicious taste.

'Advise and Consent' Booked for Hartford

"Advise and Consent," starring Farley Granger and Chester Morris, has been scheduled to open April 3 at the Huntington Hartford Theater. Tickets are now available for the attraction at the theater boxoffice.

Loring Mandel's adaptation of the Allen Drury best-seller chronicles the clash of political motives surrounding a controversial appointment by the President of the United States.

Action takes audiences through a critical period for the nation and the personal tragedy of the men who bear responsibility for its future.

Characters of the novel come to life on stage.

Playhouse Holds Patrick Comedy

Pasadena Playhouse will continue "Everybody Loves Opal," John Patrick's comedy starring Zasu Pitts, for a fourth week. The play, directed by John McNamara, has a supporting cast including Marte Boyle James Murdock, Hal Torey, Bernie Marcus and Todd Lasswell.

Another Tony's Toting Camera

PARIS — Which Tony's got the picture?

London's got a photographer named Tony Armstrong-Jones, now Paris has one named Tony . . . Tony Perkins.

I found Tony Perkins, the tall, slender, spectacled actor from Broadway, Hollywood and Rollins College, Fla., now about the biggest male film star in Europe, going about the boulevards with a 36-mm. camera slung across his shoulders. He's even getting a press card so he can cover fires and plastiqueings.

"It started at a party," Tony told me, "when somebody from Paris Match said I should take pictures." (Yul Brynner and Roddy McDowall do it — why not Tony?) "Actors go everywhere and can get pictures other photographers can't."

We rode out to a Left Bank set where he and Sophia Loren were filming "Five Miles to Midnight." He was in a fur-lined blue denim jacket, imported — from Fifth Ave.

"Had any pictures published yet?" I asked.

"Should I say yes or tell the truth?"

He added, "So far I've been concentrating on photographing Sophia."

When that other Tony in London takes pictures, the other photographers take pictures of Tony taking pictures.

Tony Perkins isn't quite that famous yet. However, a beautiful American model recently slashed her wrists over his indifference.

PLAY PLANS

Tony's nevertheless anxious to return to Broadway next fall in a comedy titled "Harold." He's approaching the fame of his father, Osgood Perkins, who died when Tony was 5.

He and his mother had some tough years. While at Rollins College in '52, he read that Hollywood couldn't find the right performer for a film, "The Actress."

"Heck! I played that part in summer stock at Robin Hood Theater in Wilmington, Del.!" he said —and, during Christmas vacation, he went to Hollywood, got the part, and did it.

The star of the picture, Spencer Tracy, told him, "I just hope you're a fraction as good as your father . . ."

"I was terribly awed," Tony remembers. "Every morning I'd manage to say 'Good morning, Mr. Tracy.'

"One morning I came creeping around as he was drinking his coffee and said, 'Good morning, Mr. Tracy.'

"He said, 'Good morning, good morning, good morning, good morning, good morning, good morning — and let that last you for a week!' "

IN NEW YORK

Comedienne Renee Taylor and actress Peggy Pope opened an antique shop — "Foiniture, Ltd." — in Manhattan. Renee says they'll sell a coffin-shaped bench for only $150, "because how many people would really want it, except Alfred Hitchcock?" . . . Connie Francis' next movie will be "I'll Follow the Boys" — probably with part of the Seventh Fleet . . . Errol Flynn's luxurious Jamaica home will be seen in the "Dr. No" film.

Producer Arthur Cantor asked circus boss John Ringling North to invest in the play, "A Thousand Clowns," and North said: "I love the title! How much do you need?"

STAGE PAIR—Genevieve and Luc Poret team up for some musicalizing in "An Evening With Genevieve" which opens next Monday night at Biltmore Theater.

Elman Plays Here Tonight

Violinist Mischa Elman will play three concertos, Bach E Major, Brahms D Major, and Mendelssohn E Minor, with Jose Iturbi conducting the Orange County Philharmonic Orchestra, tonight in Philharmonic auditorium.

Elman, whose concertizing spans 60 years, recently returned from a tour of western Europe and Scandinavia; gave a Carnegie Hall concert in tribute to the late Fritz Kreisler; and flew west for a series of orchestra concerts in California.

Tonight's concerts also marks the reurn to the local scene of Jose Iturbi, whose last baton appearance here was with the Hollywood Bowl Orchestra.

Stars to Appear

Cyd Charisse, Glynis Johns, Rod Taylor and Shelley Winters will appear on the 34th annual Oscar Show Monday, April 9.

COWAN GETS GRIEG ROLE

The important role of Father Grieg will be taken by Jerome Cowan, who'll join Sig Arno, John Reardon, Frank Poretta and Dorothy Coulter, in "Song of Norway," starring Patrice Munsel, which opens April 23 in Philharmonic Auditorium.

"Song of Norway" is recognized as the Civic Light Opera's most important "original" production, which is one of the reasons it was chosen to return to open the silver jubilee season.

Guest Star

Pianist Roger Williams, who will appear in concert at Pasadena Civic Auditorium on March 24, made his acting debut as a guest star in the 20th Century-Fox release "Swinging Along."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

BY CARROLL RIGHTER

SATURDAY, MARCH 17

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Make it a point to be economical where Saturday recreation is concerned, since it is important that you do nothing to take away from present security.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Outside contacts may feel that you are not giving them as much attention and loyalty as you had agreed to do, so be sure you devote as much time as necessary with family without neglecting what is also important to welfare and well-being.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Anything that may come up today connected with shopping or some extra-curricular duties requires care and caution in handling. Be very sure you drive carefully, too, and avoid some possible accident.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Monetary matters are of utmost important consideration now and should be handled very carefully. Then see what can be done about getting your property in good repair.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Although you may feel quiet tense inside, this is a day to be cheerful and join in frolic with good friends and kin, so you help them to be happy as well as increase own pleasure of living.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Many a temptation is put in your way to take you from those home obligations you have, and it would be most unwise to give in to them this Saturday.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): This is one of those days when others are not in a good humor and hardly will go along with your plans, but it is no reason to lose your temper. Help them with their troubles instead.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Friends are anxious to help you in any way that will get your credit improved and you should be alert to these good suggestions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Rather than stay at home fussing, make this a happy and productive Saturday by getting out to interesting places and with fascinating people.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Make it a point to look over your accounts today and get bills paid so that you need not worry later or forget some obligation that should have been handled earlier.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): A good day to learn what your true position is with partner. Let them air any grievances and clear the atmosphere so that later you can sit down and make better plans for the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20): You have a free day now to look into new outlets that are more lucrative or will increase efficiency in your present job, as well as bring you more co-operation from associates.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he will be one of those individuals who is able to visualize big projects and then carry them through, provided you teach early to finish one thing before going on to another. There is a remarkable driving force in this chart and the field of politics would be ideal here, whether your progeny is a boy or a girl. Slant education along such lines.

Farmers Get Word on Trade Pacts

Banker Optimistic About Agriculture Future in State

FRESNO (AP) — California farmers were told Friday they probably will be pretty much on their own when new trade agreements are reached between this country and the European Common Market.

They were told, too, many fruit and vegetable farmers are producing "orphans that may be sacrificed on the altar of freer trade."

The speaker, Earl Coke, vice president of the Bank of America, told a World Trade Congress gathering that politically sensitive crops will be strongly represented in trade negotiations with Common Market countries and that California specialty crops may be traded for larger national trade objectives.

Coke, a former assistant secretary of agriculture, said, however, the general rise of income in common market countries "bodes well for California agriculture, since much of our farm output consists of fruits, green vegetables, high grade cotton, dairy products and meat—all of which are high income consumption products."

Navy Jet Pilot Lost in Sea Crash

SAN DIEGO—A Navy jet pilot, Comdr. James M. Heffernan, 40, was lost at sea Friday in the crash of his F8U aircraft during a flight from the carrier Bon Homme Richard to his base at the Miramar Naval Air Station.

Search crews later found a map case bearing the pilot's plane number and also sighted bits of wreckage.

Science Workshop Set

PORTERVILLE—A biology workshop for junior college life science instructors will be held here March 31 by the State Department of Education.

Palm Springs Civic Leaders Pay Final Tribute to Early Watermaster

PALM SPRINGS — Residents of this desert resort, including all city officials and representatives of every civic organization, overflowed the Desert Memorial Chapel Friday at funeral services for Lawrence L. Crossley, 62.

A native of New Orleans, La., he had come here in 1925 and for many years his was the only Negro family in the community.

In earlier years he was zanjero or watermaster for the Whitewater Mutual Water Co. and later built and maintained the area's first golf course at the old El Mirador Hotel owned by the late P. T. Stevens. At the services Friday, Stevens' daughter, Mrs. Sally Stevens Nichols and her husband sat with members of the Crossley family.

The crowd filled extra seats in the chapel at the services and the overflow viewed the rites through open doors and windows.

Mr. Crossley developed two low-cost housing projects here, principally for Negroes and served as court-appointed conservator for six members of the Agua Caliente band of Palm Springs Indians by whom he was greatly trusted. He assisted the city in effecting needed rights of way across Indian lands.

He was a member of fund raising committees for the Red Cross, Community Chest, Desert Circus and the unified school district. He was also a leader in establishing the Coachella Valley Junior College and two years ago served on the Riverside County Grand Jury.

WILD FLOWER SHOW AWAITS WARMER DAYS

BAKERSFIELD, Kern County's annual wild flower show in valleys and mountains is from two to four weeks away, a survey Friday indicated.

Above-normal rain has set the stage for some outstanding displays, but warm sunshine is needed to bring blossoms to their peak.

There are already some scattered clumps of poppies, yellow daisies, fiddleneck and other varieties in some areas.

$500,000 Bid on Indian Land

PALM SPRINGS — Top bids in excess of $500,000 were offered for 150 acres of Indian land at a supervised sale here.

The bids are subject to acceptance by the Bureau of Indian Affairs and by the Indian land owners or their guardians. Several of the sales involved land owned by minors.

Three of the bids were described by officials as "acceptable" and two others as "probably acceptable" because they were within 10% of the appraisals.

IF the head & body are to be well, you begin by straightening out the kinks in the sub-conscious mind's so-called straight thinking. An "x-ray" of the sub-conscious will reveal its unaware false-to-fact distorted thinkings, the cause of human misery & psycho-physical body illness. ECEA makes these "x-rays." HO. 8-4040.

POOL OF THE YEAR!

These exclusive new Anthony features,

★COORDINATED-COLOR

are the big news in swimming pools this year

Acclaimed by swimming pool editors, architects and decorators, Anthony's 1962 pools introduce NEW COLOR STYLING to enhance the traditional beauty and distinction of the swimming pool and AUTOMATIC POOL CLEANING, AUTOMATIC FILTERING AND AUTOMATIC HEATING to make your pool more carefree to own. These remarkable new features make Anthony by far the outstanding pool value of the year.

COORDINATED-COLOR

Anthony has introduced a complete line of contemporarily-styled pool accessories. They are made in six soft decorator colors. You may color-style your pool with matching, harmonizing or contrasting colors in the tile, diving board, board standards, ladder and fiberglass slide. There's even smart, new Anthony fiberglass patio furniture matched to the coordinated colors. You may coordinate your pool colors with the colors in your home or garden. In no other way can your pool have such matchless elegance.

AUTOMATIC POOL CARE

Anthony's HYDRA-SWEEP CLEANER automatically keeps your pool sparkling clean. It's clock-controlled. Set it to work while you sleep. Moving water jets wash away settled dirt. No more brushing means many more hours of poolside leisure. And this amazing, patented device is manufactured only by Anthony Pools.

AUTOMATIC HEATING AND FILTERING is clock-controlled. Anthony Ditron filter has larger filtering area. Requires less care.

LOW PRE-SEASON PRICES

Now is the thrifty time to build—while prices are low. Don't delay. Five-year terms are available. Only $25 down; 1st payment in May.

ANTHONY BUYERS' GUIDE lists prices on many popular pools. Helps you price your own pool. Shows selection of pool accessories, pool styles, coordinated-colors. Guide explains the way manufacturing of pool parts and accessories allows Anthony to keep prices low and assures you a better pool. Write or phone for your free copy.

Music: join in the act or just listen

Today's cover illustrates the two worlds of music in the home. One is depicted by Carole Reed who, with a set of earphones, has curled up in a comfortable chair for a bit of listening. The other world is for the more active — they make their own music. Tito Guidotti pumps on an Italian accordion, Arnaldo H. DeMederios plays guitar, while little Wendy Loew watches a demonstration of the twist by Berit Horstman and Jerry Capri of the Arthur Murray Dance Studio. All this is our way of pointing out that the 1962 High Fidelity Show opens this week. You'll find details on Page 15

VEE-FORM
by MODESS

Anatomically Shaped

to echo the lines of your body

Vee-Form by Modess is a totally new concept in napkin shape and comfort. A completely natural concept, thoroughly feminine.
Anatomically shaped to echo the lines of your body . . . reassuringly wider front with neat, tapered back . . . narrower for never-before comfort, deeper for confidence . . . won't fold, shift or twist.
Other thoughtful Vee-Form features: positive shield of protection the length of the napkin; undetectable deodorant; softest cover ever.

Have you seen this?

Tatami in vinyl

Japanese tatami mats are those soft sections of natural straw matting bound in black cloth and sewed together. Their exact sizes created artistic and esthetic discipline, ordering the size and proportion of traditional Japanese houses. Unfortunately, however, tatami mats were not meant for western shoes and western wear; the matting becomes dented, torn and soiled under the pounding of hard heels.

Now comes vinyl flooring in exact reproduction of tatami matting. It's identical in every respect except that it wears better than the real thing. This vinyl even feels like tatami — it has been crisply incised to resemble strands of straw woven over and under rows of stitching.

This flooring requires no waxing or buffing to maintain it; merely a damp mopping. (See Shoppers Guide, Page 59.)

Room for a family of six

● Of the many problems that cross an architect's desk, perhaps the most challenging is that of remodeling. It would be much simpler, from a design viewpoint, to merely tear down the structure and start from scratch.

Eldon C. Davis, AIA, concerned with enlarging a client's tract house, encountered several difficulties. For one thing, he found there was no logical way in which the living room could grow. He therefore made it appear larger by eliminating fussy detail.

Also required was the job of providing bedrooms for four children and parents in a two-bedroom house. To gain the needed space, the attached garage was strengthened and divided into two rooms with a small hall, a large closet at one side, and a half-bath on the other. This took care of the children, the two girls in one room, two boys in the other.

Access to the new area had to come through an existing bedroom. The smaller of the existing two was selected, and it was transformed into a play room, which also served to relieve wear on the living room.

The garage was relocated at the right of the house, at the rear of the property. A porte cochere was added to the right of the house at the front.

How your life insurance can provide retirement income you can't outlive!

Will your retirement be the comfortable, happy years you hope for? The answer rests largely on how much income you will have—and how much of it you can count on receiving regularly for the rest of your life.

This is where your life insurance can help. If your policies have cash values—as all types of permanent life insurance do—the additional income they can provide may make the difference between an enjoyable retirement and "just getting by." These cash values can even be arranged to pay you and your wife an income that's guaranteed as long as either lives.

No other retirement plan offers this income you can't outlive. It is one of the unique advantages of life insurance.

5 ways that the unique advantages of life insurance bring peace of mind at the stroke of a pen

1. Guarantees immediate family protection. Only life insurance enables you to provide full protection for your family right from the start.

2. Guarantees funds for children's education. By having a life insurance policy for college expenses, you can guarantee your boy or girl will have this opportunity, whether you live or not.

3. Guarantees a family can keep its home. With life insurance, a man can guarantee there will be money to pay off the mortgage if he doesn't live to complete the payments.

4. Guarantees money for emergencies. The guaranteed cash values in your policy can help you meet big unexpected expenses.

5. Guarantees a lifetime income at retirement. Life insurance can furnish additional income for the policyholder and his wife at retirement that's guaranteed as long as either lives.

To make sure you get the most from your life insurance, take full advantage of the continuing service your life insurance agent offers. Review your program with him regularly—at least every two years—to keep it in line with your changing circumstances. This service, which costs you nothing, may make your life insurance even more valuable when you or your family need it.

'Musical' office

● The attractive desk at left designed for a corner of a living room not only serves as a work area for music composition—its primary purpose—but is also used for letter writing and for keeping household records. A record player, placed near the desk beneath the bookshelves, provides pleasant background music while working. Storage behind the desk is used for record albums and household accessories. Television is built in at right of bookshelves. Designed by architects William Lundeberg and Cecil Strawn for Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vree.

The television set, right, placed in a counter room divider can be enjoyed from a sofa on the opposite wall. The music divider also creates a passageway to the bedrooms on the reverse side of the door (right rear of photo) and keeps traffic out of the living room. Designed by decorator Marby Edwards, AID, for Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Florence.

Be the first on your block.

Not the Volkswagen Station Wagon.

People either love it or hate it.

How do you feel about its boxy body? Its flat roof? Its bus-like shape?

Do you know these allow it to carry more than the biggest conventional station wagon? And still be 4 feet shorter? And miles easier to park?

Does it seem odd that the VW is the only wagon with 23 windows and a sunroof?

Do you know what a tremendous view this gives you? That you see more sky and skyline than in any other car, except a convertible with the top down?

Why can you order a VW wagon with seats that include an aisle?

Do you know that this lets you walk back to the kids from the front seat? In case they cry or quarrel or get the million ills that kids are heir to?

Does the VW Station Wagon seem so strange to you now?

Or does it make a busload of sense?

when only the finest will do...

Some people belong only in a custom home. Perhaps your family is among them. But perhaps, too, today's high building costs are not to your taste. What shall you do? Overspend... or settle for less than the best? Fortunately, there is an alternative. What if you could buy a custom home at less than custom price? Believe it or not, it's possible! More discriminating homebuyers every day are discovering the secret: "Custom Homes by Harlan Lee & Associates"... homes now offered in exciting new communities known as Encino Hills, Shadow Oaks, and Colony North. These three prestige communities give visible proof that no other builder has so completely mastered the art of building custom homes. In constructing more than 750 finer residences in the San Fernando Valley, this professional team has become finely tuned to the creation of higher-plane living for less. In all Southern California, only this organization was selected to participate in the famous Good Housekeeping program. Encino Hills, Colony North and Shadow Oaks homes are built and equipped with these Good Housekeeping guaranteed products: • Gaffers & Sattler Range & Oven • Flintkote—building products—insulation • Formica • Robertshaw Fulton controls • Congoleum Nairn floors • General Felt carpet padding • AGA American Gas Association approved gas appliances • Delta Single-lever kitchen faucets • Mission Water Heaters • Armstrong floors These homes are largely pre-sold. Even without widespread advertising, word gets around and demand outruns supply. If your family belongs in a custom home ... if you want to buy one at less than custom price... you'd better act now, while a wide selection of models is still available.

for you, a WORLD OF MUSIC

Music, music, music.
It's been around a long, long time.
A happy circumstance, it would seem, since apparently nobody wishes to escape.
In fact, judging from the avalanche of interest that has marked the past two decades, music in this country never has been blessed by a more appreciative audience.
From Beethoven to bop, from Rimsky-Korsakov to rock 'n' roll, things musical have cascaded into a multi-million dollar industry.
No longer do we ponder whether people appreciate music. Now it's merely a matter of which type of music they appreciate.
The chief factor behind all this activity, oddly enough, isn't the music itself. That hasn't improved (some people might claim it's steadily declining — at least on the popular level). The big breakthrough that has spelled big business has been authored by technical innovations: the long-playing phonograph record, the tape recorder, stereophonic sound, the expansion of FM radio. These things, along with many others, have brought about a population explosion in the world of high fidelity.
A good part of this world will be on display beginning Wednesday at the Ambassador Hotel. That's when the Institute of High Fidelity Manufacturers unveils the 1962 version of its High Fidelity Music Show. More than 100 manufacturers will exhibit and demonstrate some $5 million worth of musical equipment. Hours for the five-day show are 3-10 p.m. Wednesday-Friday; noon to 10:30 p.m. Saturday, 1-7:30 Sunday. It should be well attended.

This year's big news is the availability of FM-stereo receivers

At left. Carole Reed tunes in on the big news of the year—FM-stereo. The earphones are strictly optional with the system. Pictured above is a multiplex adapter by Harmon Kardon. Purpose of unit is explained in the accompanying article. Note size as compared to tapes

Festival III is new stereo receiver that houses both amplifier and tuner, is equipped for FM-stereo reception. At the left is a Weather table-model speaker

The year's biggest news in the world of hi-fidelity can be covered in a single word — multiplexing. Long awaited and finally approved by the FCC some months ago, multiplexing (or FM-stereo) is now a reality that is becoming generally available. The only difficulty is that — aside from the hi-fi enthusiasts — everybody's pretty vague as to what it's all about.

Questions about the process usually fall into one of five categories:

1—What is multiplexing?
2—What are its advantages?
3—What does it cost?
4—Which stations program it?
5—Is it worth the investment?

Briefly, multiplexing is a process which enables you to receive stereophonic broadcasts with a single FM radio. Previously, two radios were required for either AM-FM or FM-FM stereo. Multiplexing eliminates this by use of an adapter which is attached to an FM radio. Without technical terms, this adapter is simply a device which receives the broadcast signal from a radio station's antenna and sends the waves through separate speakers.

A common misconception is that the adapter splits the wave and sends the highs out one speaker and the lows through the other. This is not the adapter's function. It simply "guarantees" the listener a sound equal to a live performance. If, for instance, you were listening to a symphony concert, sound from the left side of the orchestra would come out the left speaker, the right side out the right speaker, and sound from the instruments in the center would appear to come from between the two. It gives direction and depth to the music. It does this so well that a musician can sit before the radio and identify the pieces in the orchestra and their location.

There are several reasons for this high quality performance. The tuning problem is cut down since you tune only one radio to one station (instead of two radios and two stations). Eliminated is AM radio, which has always been a disadvantage to stereo broadcasting due to its frequency limitations and interference.

Compared to stereo records, multiplexing offers a slight advantage since the radio station usually has better equipment than the person with a stereo phonograph.

Investment in multiplex equipment involves several things. The equipment itself (two speakers, amplifier and adapter) comes in a range of prices. The adapter ($40-$150), according to most manufacturers, will come down in cost as production increases. It isn't necessary to purchase the most expensive, however, as a number of lower-priced units are satisfactory.

Many FM radios produced prior to the FCC ruling do not have space at the rear for the adapter. Some console models have this space and most components also have it. Certain adapters fit only the make for which they are manufactured, while others will fit any set. At time of purchase, listen for a minimum of distortion and a maximum of separation. Many dealers have specification charts which list the capabilities of each adapter.

How does multiplexing affect those who have an FM set? What is the cost to convert to stereo?

Assuming that the set has space for an adapter, you would need it, an amplifier and one speaker — you can use the existing speaker for the second, although technicians recommend purchase of two additional speakers and use of the existing one as a central speaker.

Many people, however, would rather not attempt to put their own components together. It's to this group that manufacturers have aimed the "packaged" set. Prices for these start at about $150. Whether you decide to work with components or buy a packaged set, costs will run about the same.

Is the expenditure worthwhile?

Four Los Angeles FM stations currently have multiplex programing. These are KMLA, KFMU, KNOB and KRHM. They offer a variety of stereocasts, featuring both popular and classical music.

Bill Tomberlin, general manager of KMLA, has watched multiplexing grow and is confident that it will continue to expand.

"There's no question it's big," he says. "People don't know about it yet, but with its advantages over other types of stereo it's bound to grow."

So it's all a matter of education and promotion. Otherwise the man in the street will stay convinced that multiplexing is just another duplicating machine.

Make your own music

Everybody loves a parade, and most people (hermits excepted) love a party. To have a parade you must have music; and what's a party without dancing? This then is the active side to the world of music. It's a world of youth, but a youth that's judged not in years but in outlook. Let's just say that if you prefer to take your music entirely by curling up in an easy chair before a hi-fi set, then you're older than you think.

Our partygoers pictured here are of a much younger frame of mind. They believe in making their own music (a growing activity) and dancing to it. Thus Tito Guidotti pumps on an imported Italian accordion (one of the most popular of home musical instruments), Ernest Snead thumps a drum, Tom Dagenais blows saxophone, Stephanie Barrett strums ukelele, Carol Hammer plucks a viola, and even little Mark Nichols insists on tooting his own horn.

This is all that's needed to set a group of dancers' toes to tapping, especially if they're from the Arthur Murray Studios, as are Victor Rogers, Irmi Conrad, Joe Ravel, Sheila Webber, Anita Der and Victor Dru.

If you're on your toes about your steps, you might recognize some familiar routines —including that current cafe society craze, the Twist. The latter, incidentally, has acted as a catalyst to interest in dancing of all types, including the waltz. So reports James McCormick, president of the Arthur Murray Association.

He says that only 10% of his studios' new business represents people who want to master the Twist, but that the dance which he describes as "controlled frenzy" is responsible for bringing in the other 90%, who are suddenly reminded of dancing and want to learn the rumba, the cha cha, the waltz and other tried and true routines.

At times, engrossed in a collection of tweeters and woofers, tape decks and tone arms, we are apt to overlook a major benefit of high fidelity. It's fun — and its fun can, and should, extend to the entire family.

Now we wouldn't recommend that you turn your prized—and expensive—stereo rig over to the children as a plaything. They might think up new applications for the components, such as using a spool of tape to tie up a stray Indian (such as Wendy Loew is doing to Henry Bils in the photo above). But, with proper supervision, the varied world of high fidelity can become a wonderful family activity. And one that is as instructive as it is entertaining.

Take a tape recorder, for instance. Here is a very large bundle of fun and practicality in a compact package. Family uses of a recorder are almost numberless — and that includes its Recorders, fascinating playthings when first introduced into the home during the 1950s, are no longer a novelty. But the fascination of home recording, coupled with instant playback, remains firm. This attraction has helped mightily in the steady expansion of this segment of the industry, with manufacturers looking forward to a fine year in 1962.

This increased acceptance has resulted not only in a better product, but in a variety of recorders to fit any purse or purpose. Prices begin at under $100 for compact, portable recorders, and spiral upward into the hundreds of dollars for more lavish units. Included in the cost range are models that provide for every requirement for home recording, from monophonic to four-track stereophonic. No ambitious music center is complete without one.

HOUSE SHAPED LIKE A PINWHEEL

It's one thing to cut a beautiful hillside to pieces, to grade and regrade it until it forms an acceptable building site — and, doing so, completely change the character of the hill. It's another thing to build on a hillside without destroying the hill—by leaving, like a fine plastic surgeon, no apparent evidence of surgery.

The latter feat was accomplished by the architectural firm of Buff, Straub and Hensman in development of a hillside house in Pasadena for the president of Lawry's Foods, Inc. The wings of this building give it a pinwheel-like floor plan which might seem adaptable only to a flat pad. But six levels are involved, and these are so compatibly wedded to their setting that the house seems to have grown naturally on the hill. The architects managed to save all the trees growing on the site.

Exposure and building materials are reflective of the environment. The house is no glare and heat trap. Its numerous floating decks are oriented to the east, and a 5½-ft. overhang provides shade. The view is directed toward the swimming pool, the banks of the arroyo and distant mountains.

Stained woods and textured stucco, the principal building materials, and quarry tile—used on some exposed floors — are as close to the earth as that which grows on the hillside.

The house has 4,700 sq. ft. of livable space, is constructed on a 32-in. module and was designed for an active family with three children. The children's rooms are a half-story above the rest of the house. One of the delightful spaces is a "secret hide-away" for the youngsters on the topmost level of the structure.

Sam Maloof and John Kappel were among furniture designers who developed pieces specifically for the residence. Eckbo, Dean and Williams were the landscape architects.

TREE OF THE WEEK

Golden rain

● The golden rain (Koelreuteria paniculata) is a small (30-ft.) tree native to China that was commonly planted in Peking gardens. It was introduced into Russia about 1750 and is a favorite street tree in Leningrad. It was brought to England in 1763 by Lord Coventry. Golden rain is the tree made famous by the best-selling book of a few years back, "Raintree County." According to the legend it was planted, along with apples and peaches, by Johnny Appleseed along the Ohio River in the last century.

This tree has interesting twisted branches that in summer are covered by bright yellow flowers in long clusters. The leaves are large and compound, composed of 7 to 15 lobed leaflets. The foliage is red when it opens in the spring and a shiny bluish green when mature. Leaves turn yellow and drop early in the fall, revealing the beautiful design of the branches as a decorative fall and winter feature.

Each flower produces an inflated, papery fruit that resembles a Japanese lantern. The fruit is formed in September and persists into winter.

Golden rain is pest-free, drought-tolerant and withstands prolonged cold. It needs full sun exposure, as it grows straggly in the shade. Its beauty and romantic history warrant more general planting.

Coconut works mealtime magic

● Start a new vogue with your group of friends—seasoned coconut.

Coconut is toasted with a savory seasoning such as chili powder, onion soup mix or mustard. Or coconut is tossed with onion or garlic just before using.

Seasoned coconut adds life to a variety of dishes. It may be used as a sprinkle-on for soups, vegetables, meat or fish salads, casseroles or creamed foods.

Shrimp, cubes of ham or cheese may be dipped into the coconut, perhaps first in sour cream, as a party snack. Balls of cream cheese may be rolled in flavored coconut as snacks. Or shrimp may be dipped first in batter, then into flavored coconut before frying.

To flavor coconut mix any of these into 1½ cups flaked, or one cup of packaged, grated coconut: 1 to 1½ teaspoons chili or curry powder; 1 to 2 teaspoons dry salad dressing mix; 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce; 2 tablespoons onion soup mix or prepared mustard.

Spread the coconut thinly in a shallow pan. Toast at 350 deg., shaking the pan often. Flaked coconut will brown lightly—this is when it is toasted—in 8 to 12 min. Grated coconut toasts in less time—5 to 6 min.

Coconut may be flavored without toasting, too. Toss a cup of flaked or grated coconut with a teaspoon of grated onion or a clove of minced garlic just before using. Use as a delicious coating for cream cheese balls, shrimp or topping for salads, hot breads, soups or casseroles.

First edition copy of unique new Betty Crocker Book only $1.00

What are the best buys in fresh fruits and vegetables during April? June? September? February? What signs of quality should you look for when selecting rhubarb in the supermarket? Or pineapples, melons? Are you up on the various types of onions? Of squashes?

How many different ways to serve fresh asparagus do you know? What about cranberries, greens, apples, zucchini, bananas, broccoli?

Betty Crocker's Cooking Calendar tells you how to use the fresh fruits and vegetables when most abundant and most flavorful. How to select, how to store, how to prepare and serve. Best buys for each month are listed. There are recipes also for meats, main dishes, salads, pies, cakes and desserts. For meals that are delightfully varied, month after month.

Total of 140 recipes—most of them brand new. Some are easy, some more elaborate. Some thrifty, some more festive. Many are unusual: A shrimp and asparagus casserole, made with rice and sharp Cheddar cheese. Hot greens in ramekins with a whiff of nutmeg. Salmon en gelée for a buffet supper. Corn-stuffed zucchini. A delicious Bing cherry sauce for ice cream. Individual orange baked Alaskas.

Convenient calendar pages. With mottoes, sayings, historic items. Space for listing birthdays and anniversaries, month after month, year after year. Appointments, reminders.

The whole 176-page book charmingly illustrated. Available wherever good books are sold. Or mail this order form. Send today for your first edition copy of Betty Crocker's Cooking Calendar.

● Pictured here is handsome new pewter which is made in Tiel, Holland. Both coffeepot and teapot are handmade from a blend of tin, antimony and copper. The pewter will not tarnish as it does not contain lead, which was used in the past. A tray, sugar and cream container (not pictured) are companion pieces to these smart pots. The crystal vase at the left is smoke color, a handmade design from Finland. (See Shoppers Guide, Page 59.)

Silver Tabby

by Evelyn R. Young

● A cat who came back is the Silver Tabby. The short-haired, sleek Silver Tabby was seldom seen in cat shows a few years ago, but is now again exhibited. This return to popularity has recently come about because some fine show cats of this breed have been displayed at shows by members of the short-hair cat clubs.

The "new" Silver Tabby is a beautiful feline. Requirements for show purposes are coats of pure silver, marked with pure black. The brighter the silver and darker the black markings, the finer the Silver Tabby. There must be no white, yellow or brown hairs in the animal's coat.

The silver gray body is offset by black swirls or "butterfly" patterns, and bands on the legs must be pure black. The cat's chin must be light silver, never white, and all markings on the face must be clear and exact duplicates on each side.

Black body markings must be clearly marked and exact duplicates of design on both sides of the animal. Eyes of blue-green or hazel are a mark of the Silver Tabby's beauty. These cats are unusually alert.

The German shepherd dog in basic obedience trains best with verbal praise and pats, correction being done with the slip collar and the command, "No." This breed has the ability to recognize over a hundred voice and gesture commands.

The Department of Defense has three sentry dog schools for the German shepherd, in Japan, Germany and at Lackland AFB, Texas, which is attended and staffed by both Air Force and Army personnel.

Student dogs for Lackland are recruited throughout this country by the Animal Procurement Section, Fort Worth General Dept., Quartermaster Corps, and shipped to Lackland for evaluation and training. For information, write Quartermaster Animal Procurement Office, U.S.A., P.O. Box 52, Lackland AFB, Tex.

NAUGAHYDE COVERS

Two favorite chowder ingredients—corn and tuna—are teamed in this hearty supper soup. A thrifty supper, too, for non-fat dry milk and the potatoes add to its wholesome goodness along with the tuna and corn

Fish, seafood soups are Lenten specials

by Marian Manners

A tureen of seafood bisque, chowder or soup with a salad and crusty bread or crackers is an easy menu scheme for Lenten lunches and suppers.

Steaming hot chowder or bisque takes the chill off a cool evening. Luncheon in the patio on a warm day may feature a chilled soup such as Herbed Shrimp Frost for an exciting change.

Fish and seafood soups are easily homemade. Most require only brief cooking since fish and seafood cook quickly. Those with milk or cream in them need a watchful cook. Most of these should not boil, just heat until almost boiling.

For jiffy-quick serving some cooks like to concoct seafood soups with frozen, canned or dry mix soups as the base. We give some ideas for these, too. Any inventive cook can elaborate on the suggestions to make her own combinations.

Delicate seasoning is the general rule with seafood bisques and chowders. Onion is a standard seasoner. Other vegetables such as parsley and carrot often are used. Marjoram, nutmeg, thyme and dill are some of the spices and herbs which accent seafood soups.

A dash of lemon perks up the flavor of some seafood bisques. Often lemon is served on the side if it is not incorporated into the soup.

A few serving tricks make good chowder or bisque better. If it is hot soup serve it in warmed bowls; if cold, in chilled bowls. A sprinkle of paprika, snipped parsley or chives or lemon slice floats help the good looks of a chowder or bisque.

New England Shrimp Bisque

1 lb. raw shrimp, shelled and cleaned
1 qt. boiling water
2 medium potatoes, peeled and quartered
1 carrot, sliced
1 small onion, sliced
1 sprig parsley
3 whole black peppers
½ teaspoon marjoram
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
1 lemon quarter
1 cup light cream
¼ cup white dinner wine
Lemon slices
Chopped chives

Drop shrimp into boiling salted water to which a little onion, parsley and a few black peppers have been added. Simmer 2 to 5 min., until shrimp turn pink. Drain, reserving stock. Refrigerate shrimp.

In large kettle combine 1 qt. stock with potatoes, carrot, onion, parsley, black peppers, marjoram, nutmeg, salt and lemon quarter. Cover and simmer 1 hr. Force through fine sieve or blend smooth in electric blender, a small amount at a time. Just before serving add shrimp and heat. Heat cream slowly, do not boil, and add to shrimp mixture. Season to taste and add wine. Serve at once garnished with lemon slices and chopped chives. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Tuna Corn Chowder

2 6½ or 7-oz. cans tuna
1 large onion, sliced

On display, 3 centuries of silver

● "Early Silver in California Collections," a loan exhibition of nearly 300 examples from private collections mostly in the Los Angeles area, will open Wednesday, March 21, at the Los Angeles County Museum. Organized by the museum, it will continue through April 29. Admission is free.

To be seen for the first time by Southland museum-goers will be important pieces from the Munro and Fowler collections which will highlight a display of three centuries of English silver from the Tudor period to the Regency. American silver on view will range from the late 17th century to the early 19th and will include creations by Paul Revere and John Coney.

Of special interest will be the dozen famous Hercules plates of 1567, a pair of Charles II "ginger" jars, a gathering of pieces by the 18th-century Huguenot master, Paul de Lamerie, a ceremonial ivory and silver-gilt drinking horn from the Regency—contrasting with the fine simplicity of early American work.

Gregor Norman-Wilcox, curator of decorative arts at the museum, reports the exhibition also will include a selection of examples from the museum collections, not seen since the English Silver loan exhibition of 1950, or more recently acquired.

One of pair of wine coolers by Paul Storr, greatest of the Regency period silversmiths in England, with an earl's coat of arms applied in relief, center

Coffeepot on tripod stand with burner, an example of richest Rococo style. Made in London in 1743 by the great Huguenot silversmith, Paul de Lamerie

Covered spout cup, left, another spout cup, center, and tankard, right, all the work of superb American craftsmen of early Boston

A great rarity, a 17th century silver teacup, with a cover which, turned upside down, makes a ball-footed saucer. Made in London in 1695

Another FIRST From Swan Pools, Inc.

THROUGH the MIRACLE of the Swan Electronic Water Purifier, germ-free water flows continually into your pool, and the great expense of Chemical Additives is reduced. No more need the pool-owner worry about constantly adding Chlorine, which dissipates quickly and creates irritants of its own. The "Westinghouse Sterilamps" in the Swan Purifier kill bacteria on contact, sending germ-free water surging into the pool, offered to buyers of Swan Pools, Inc., only. This advancement puts Swan Pools, Inc. 5 years ahead of other pool companies. Approved by the City of Los Angeles.

Why so shy, little one?

bringing up baby®
Hints collected by Mrs. Dan Gerber, Mother of 5

Even the friendliest baby may suddenly turn shy at the sight of a relative or friend whom he's cheerfully accepted before. (Usually a passing stage at 5 months of age.) One reason for this shyness may be the fact that baby has come to realize that other people are different from mother. Your baby knows he can count on you . . . he's not sure about the others. Suggested helps:

- Let baby study visitors from the "protective custody" of your arms. A favorite hold-toy provides added security.
- If you tell cuddle-loving friends to hold off 'til baby makes his own advances, chances are he'll socialize sooner.

Shy babies or sociable babies benefit from the special care the Gerber people take to make quality, nourishing foods. Mr. Dan Gerber gives you an example of Gerber care:

Fruits with a college education.
"It may seem strange, but in many cases Gerber Strained and Junior Fruits do get the benefit of a college education. Gerber Agricultural Researchers work with agricultural colleges and growers to improve orchards, growing methods and the quality of your baby's fruits. What's more, once harvested, the fruit must pass rigid 'entrance examinations' for juiciness, ripeness, flavor and color."

Two new Gerber delights for your darling:

1. Strained Orange-Apricot Juice, a delightful companion to the 6 other Gerber Juices. Delicate and distinctive in flavor . . . high in vitamin C. And if baby hasn't yet tried Gerber Apple-Cherry Juice, why not treat him to this delightful sipping pleasure.
2. Gerber Meat Sticks. The perfect finger food for toddlers. Made from selected Armour Pork and Beef, nonfat dry milk solids, they're extra rich in body-building protein. Mildly seasoned for wonderful flavor . . . low in fat for easy digestibility.

"Play with your baby," say the child specialists. Aside from the fun baby gets from participation, 2-way games help teach him the 3 big C's: concentration, co-ordination, co-operation. Then too, if baby learns to play with you, he's less apt to be shy when others want to play with him.

Important: Gerber makes over 100 baby foods: cereals, strained and junior, to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

"Babies are our business . . . our only business!"

Dear Decorator

by Russell E. Ireland
American Institute of Interior Designers

Q How do you make a narrow hallway seem wider? Hallway is in bedroom wing, 26½-ft. long, 3½-ft. wide and 8-ft. high. No outside light. House is not yet finished.

Mrs. G. L., Tulare

A Drop the ceiling 9 in. and build a series of faintly blue-tinted opaque "skylights" near the far end. Dimmer-controlled lights above would add interest. A simple trellis-and-vine wallpaper on a pale blue ground used on walls and ceiling would give a feeling of spaciousness, or a mural with a perspective leading to a definite horizon line on one wall could add immeasurably to the width of the hallway by creating an illusion.

Q Have white (with black) Moroccan rug in living room. Apartment walls are light beige and must remain unchanged. Two end tables and matching coffee table are black. Lamps are pressed cork with natural burlap shades. Accessories are brass, copper, turquoise and lavender. What color for draperies, new sofa and two chairs to be reupholstered?

Mrs. Leroy T. Baseman, Los Angeles

A Choose basically white textured drapery fabric with an occasional linen thread to help the rug, lamp shades and walls to be more in rapport. Use the same type of combination, but in a heavier fabric for the sofa. Matching chairs could be either turquoise or lavender, whichever color you prefer to accentuate. Use throw pillows of both colors on the sofa. If landlord will permit it, hang the drapery on a large brass rod from the ceiling for more dramatic effect.

Dear Decorator is a column conducted by members of Southern California Chapter of the American Institute of Interior Designers. Only questions of general interest will be answered. Unanswered questions will not be returned. Requests for advice should be sent to Dear Decorator, care of Home magazine, Los Angeles Times, Los Angeles 53. No letters will be answered personally and advice cannot be given by telephone.

Room for everybody

by Hiawatha Estes

Here is a house that leaves little to be desired. It contains four bedrooms, separate dining room, family room-kitchen, a master bedroom suite—all in slightly less than 1,900 sq. ft. of space.

The traffic pattern is good, too. Most living areas are directly accessible by means of the main hall.

The rectangular floor plan means economy in construction; however, the long, low exterior does not skimp on visual attractiveness.

The entry door is flanked by two glass panels. A guest closet opens onto the entry as does the door to the dining room.

This house is as outdoor-conscious as any you are likely to see. Sliding glass doors open from the master bedroom, living room, kitchen and family room to the patio.

The kitchen offers maximum efficiency, comfort and livability. By using only cabinets to separate most of the kitchen and family room, there has been formed one huge room where the housewife can keep an eye on the youngsters and share in family affairs. Such a large area is also invaluable when entertaining informally.

The laundry appliances, forced-air furnace and water heater are in the oversized garage.

To obtain complete working drawings for Plan No. 4901, send $7.80 for one set and $5.20 (prices include sales tax) for each additional set purchased at the same time to Hiawatha Estes, Box 404-W, Northridge 30, Cal., or telephone DI 3-6015. Make your check payable to Hiawatha Estes. Write plainly your name, address, postal zone and plan number. Allow at least two weeks for delivery. This plan is available at this price for six months following publication in Home magazine. Offer expires on Sept. 18.

Ingenious Bread Maker

● Is there anything more tantalizing than the fragrant aroma of bread baking? To our thinking, nothing in the world—except the moment when the fresh loaves come from the oven. Temptation is finally too much. You tear off a piece, top it with butter, and watch it rapidly melt on the hot, golden crust. That moment is more than worth all the work it took to knead the dough. The bread maker pictured here won't take the work away. But it will make the task easier. This big aluminum kettle is fitted with a crank and clamps on the lid. Put the ingredients in the pot, mix well, clamp on the cover. Turn the handle, knead the dough. Then, still sealed tight, set the kettle in a warm place for two hours or so while the mystery of the white dough swelling and increasing takes place. When the dough is ready, complete the final steps of shaping it into balls and preparing it for the loaf pans. The kettle will hold up to seven loaves. We hope you have the good luck we did with our bread making. (See Shoppers Guide, Page 59.)

Carrier makes the quietest neighbors

Even the new outdoor condensing unit of Carrier central air conditioning is quiet—with a sound level substantially below any of its predecessors. Stand right next to it and you hear only a faint hum. We call it "neighbor approved."

But what's just as important to you is the real old-fashioned thrift of this quiet new Carrier home system. It uses as much as 8% less electricity than its predecessors.

Any Carrier central air conditioning costs you no more than any other make. A bit less than some. It won't knock your current budget out of kilter either. We'll arrange for a low down payment and easy monthly payments.

Call us for a careful cost estimate—complete to the last detail to give you a firm idea of how little cool comfort really costs.

The Right Way to BEAUTY

A breezy bob

● The winds of March have helped fashion the coiffure of the month. Instead of fighting wind-swept skies, professionals are adopting the beauty-blown look.

Immaculately clean and breeze-teased are the styling trends. Designed for the outdoor beauty, the hair is taper-cut and asymmetrically styled, so if gusty winds tumble toss tresses, locks still flatter the face.

Actress Jacqueline Beer captures this wind-blown coiffure with an angled side part, a hint of wave brushing the forehead, and ends whipped upward in a series of flip tips.

Styling signals include: parting hair on a line above the peak of the eyebrow and freshening part between shampoos with cologne-saturated cotton. Latter keeps part dust free and fragrant. More coiffure cues are "brush teasing" sides of hair to provide extra body to stray strands and blending them into the softly curled bob. Jacqueline, seen in the Warner Bros. TV series, 77 Sunset Strip, finds periodic "spot curling" wisps at neck and cheeks keeps hair springy and breezy looking for days.

Made from partially hardened and liquid corn oil

You can't see or taste them. But those 39 drops of liquid corn oil in every pat are important to you and your family.

Why? Because it is liquid corn oil that many doctors recommend to help reduce saturated fats in today's diets.

Most corn oil margarines contain no liquid oil. But new DeLuxe is a blend of partially hardened and liquid corn oil.

And new DeLuxe has the delicate flavor Kraft is famous for!

Isn't this the best 100% corn oil margarine for your family?

Teenagers

Hike your GRADES the easy way

by Kitte Turmell

The scene is the Baker St. lodgings of Sherlock Holmes. Dr. Watson is describing a mystery epidemic among many of his teenage acquaintances:

"Agatha's nervous as a kitten. She fidgets all evening in her room. Philip—the basketball chap—has developed crashing headaches that come on right after dinner. And Tommy, he's fat as a butterball and worried something's happened to his basal metab . . . "

"Enough, doctor," interjects Holmes. "This is the dreaded Studium procrastinatum. But they can escape it, if you prescribe quickly enough. This is the remedy: each night at 7 they must sit down at their study tables and study. No telephone calls, no wireless, no relaxing, no raids on the pantry. This must go on until 10—no more, no less. Continue faithfully for two weeks and I guarantee recovery."

"Amazing, Holmes."

"Elementary, my dear Watson."

Far-fetched? It's exactly what's prescribed for students in a reading program at Highland Park (Ill.) High School, a program which has attracted wide attention and interest. It begins, says Marshall Covert, the director, by showing teenagers that they usually create these troubles and distractions themselves in rebelling against study. And it reminds them that the big reason for studying is to get good grades. Realizing this, they're ready to learn how to study.

Next step is SQ3R. This isn't a miracle drug that turns brain cells into sponges for study. It's an abbreviation for a highly efficient study method. Here's how it's used:

First, you SURVEY (the S of SQ3R). Look over the assignment. See if you understand it generally. Relate it to previous events.

Now for the Q and first R. As you READ carefully, prepare QUESTIONS as the teacher would ask them, including pertinent detail.

Upon completion, put assignment aside for a half hour. Proceed to RECALL (the second R). Open your notebook and write on the right-hand side of the page the answers to questions.

Again, put it aside for 30 minutes. Then come back for a REVIEW (the third R). Cover answer side with a piece of paper, read the questions and give the answers in your head. Then check them with written answers.

You've now got a system. Watch your grades steadily improve.

Dear Kitte Turmell—I've heard a lot about IQ. Is there a way to improve mine?

Answer—Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my free leaflet, "Seven Ways to Raise Your IQ." Send to Kitte Turmell, Home magazine, The Times, Los Angeles 53, Cal.

Exercises That Work

'Armed' for summer?

● Spring forecasts sleeveless dresses and abbreviated suntogs which mean upper arms will soon be out of hiding and in view. If you find fatty deposits marring the beauty of your arms, start now to firm and tone the muscles. As CBS-TV actress Donna Douglas illustrates, stand erect with arms outstretched. Make a fist with each hand, and slowly twist them in a circular movement. At first, rotate just the wrist, then continue the action until you can feel it all the way up to the armpits. Practice before a mirror, and notice the massage motion that takes place along the upper arm when exercise is performed correctly. Return arms to sides, first at shoulder height, then beside body, after each rotation. Repeat five times. Another routine that helps contour and firm arms is to hold a ball at chest height and gently push it. Donna, seen in TV's Checkmate, demonstrates elevated position of elbows.

EVERY ONE WHO WOULD KNOW GOD needs this book...

In these troublesome days thinking men and women recognize that it is only through a knowledge of God that they can find peace and a sense of stability. Many thousands have had God satisfactorily defined for them in this great book, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy.

Christian Science teaches that God is knowable; that He is the tender, comforting Father-Mother of all His children; not a God of wrath, but the God who is unchanging divine Love—the protector and governor of His perfect creation.

Free to You for 30 Days

Science and Health may be read, borrowed, or purchased for $3 at any Christian Science Reading Room; or we will be happy to mail a copy to you postpaid. After 30 days you may keep the book by remitting the cost or return it to us in the mailing carton provided.

HOW'S YOUR GARDEN I. Q.?

(3 Out of 7 Is Green Thumb Level)

1. You can spray both to control insects and diseases at the same time?
2. Now is the time to feed lawns so they get off to a springy start?
3. Aphids only attack roses and other plants for their new tender spring growth?
4. Grade 2 roses may not be as good the first year but will be just as good as top quality by the second year?
5. Fuchsias can be pruned and transplanted now?
6. You shouldn't cut branches of flowering fruit trees while they're in bloom?
7. The blooms of Four O'Clocks stubbornly refuse to bloom before that hour in the afternoon?

ANSWERS:

1. TRUE—we now have insecticides and fungicides that don't fight each other. A spray application does everything. A Hayes 6 spray gun (6-gallon size, only $9.95) sprays your whole garden in 30 minutes or so.
2. TRUE—as the early spring growth starts, apply liquid fertilizers through the Hayes Soil and Turf Gun. This 10-gallon capacity gun (only $3.45) greens your lawns like those at Santa Anita!
3. FALSE—aphids are hungry all season long—not just in the spring. Spray weekly to control them.
4. FALSE—rarely will you get top performance from a second-rate rose bush. Buy No. 1's. "South Seas," acclaimed by 10,000 home gardeners, is big news in the '62 rose world. Reason: exceptionally beautiful and large shell-pink fragrant blooms.
5. TRUE—fuchsias are amiable plants. You can even start cuttings now and get blooming plants before the season is over.
6. FALSE—you should. It's ideal timing for pruning and shaping. At the same time you can cut beautiful decorations for the house. Wiss 907-G new pocket-size anvil pruners (only $3.25) with molded handles, make pruning easy.
7. FALSE—they'll bloom from midday on. The new Ferry-Morse seed catalog whimsically reports the tale of a New Jersey girl whose Four O'Clocks opened at 4 a.m.! She didn't mind getting up to watch them, "but the dew got her feet cold and she couldn't go back to sleep!"

For the garden

Fine for the lawn

This device could probably win a prize for the most highly syncopated name of the season — "Rock 'n' Rain Wave-impulse Sprinkler." But on the lawn it meets a variety of irrigation needs in a business-like manner. Both length and width of the spray can be adjusted to need. It will cover a square area, a narrow strip, a rectangle. The spray can also be kept on one side of the device. Since there are no gears to drive, the sprinkler lasts longer, with fewer mechanical breakdowns, and gives efficient operation even when water pressure is low. It can cover an area ranging from 45 to 60 ft. to 4 by 70 ft. (See Shoppers Guide, Page 59.)

Wall-mounted "domino" containers are planted with Phormium tenax, or New England flax, whose bronze foliage contrasts pleasingly with olive background of the wall. Whenever possible such pots should have holes drilled in bottom for drainage. Brackets for wall mounting are stock items, and custom brackets can be supplied for hanging on balcony rail. Plantings were arranged by landscape architect Jocelyn Domela

Containers to fit any situation

Here's a plant container that's as interesting for what it can do as for what it holds. Like the domino from which it takes its name, it combines well with others of its kind. As the photos show, it can be placed on the floor, stacked, or hung against the wall, but there are many more possibilities.

The "domino" container comes in three finishes — unglazed off-white, glazed matte white, and glazed matte black. If you wish to raise it slightly for added interest, or want to protect the floor beneath it, an oiled walnut base is obtainable. This is fused to the bottom of the pot.

For mounting against the wall, a stock bracket is provided and the container is drilled to receive it. Also available on special order is a bracket by which this container can be mounted over a balcony railing. Prices for the container start at $13. (See Shoppers Guide, Page 59.)

Six pots are stacked and grouped as shown, then fused and fired in kiln to create single structure of great strength and stability. Each of top trio is planted with a sago palm, a slow-growing cycad that's well displayed in container of this size

Flat ends of two containers are placed together and both are planted with Schefflera actinophylla, or umbrella tree. The leaves of this Australian native are glossy, light green. If it gets sunlight or bright diffused light, it will grow to 10 or 12 ft.

Brighter side of winter rain

March 18, 1962

● This winter's rainfall, which we have lacked the past six years, will bring much benefit to home gardens. Deep penetration removed excess salts, nitrites and other chemical imbalances that had accumulated from irrigation water, manures, fertilizers and soil correctives. To gain permanent benefit, avoid shallow sprinkling of lawns, of shade garden plants and shrubs such as azaleas and camellias. Also avoid it with citrus, gardenias and all container or planter-grown subjects that require relatively frequent applications of water.

Expect new crab grass and other weed problems. Pre-emergence chemicals for crab grass control, usually effective for months after application, may have been flooded away, or top soil full of weed seed may be washed onto turf and garden areas. If crab grass is not yet fully germinated, an application of a pre-emergence preparation, containing lead arsenate, dacthal, or zytron will be effective. But if seedlings have started growing, contact sprays should be used. Several applications will be needed.

Plant Fuchsias in Pots

Start fuchsias in pots, boxes or hanging baskets for display on patios, terrace or home entranceways. Use porous potting mixture rich in humus to provide good drainage. Container-grown plants will need daily watering and periodic feeding. Most fuchsia fans prefer a liquid fertilizer but if you mix a slow-release type of fertilizer into the original potting mix, supplemental feeding will not be necessary until plants are nearly pot-bound.

Low-maintenance Shrubs

Shrubs and trees that need little care are desirable, especially for planting in inaccessible parts of the garden. To be successful they must be located where they will have drainage, soil conditions, and environment they require. Natives, and some introduced plants from climates similar to ours, are well adapted to slopes and areas where they can be given plenty of water in winter and spring, with few surface irrigations through summer and fall. This is an excellent time to get them started, since the soil has been saturated enough to encourage deep rooting.

Cut back dahlias as they sprout to encourage basal branching. Avoid allowing just one or two heavy canes to develop into top-heavy plants that will require extra long stakes. These will have a shorter flowering season than plants with branches near the soil.

William Holz

● This pool on a hillside in Flintridge got too much sun for comfort, and too much wind to allow the use of an umbrella. So landscape designer John W. Catlin did this lightweight shelter which suggests an Oriental garden house. However, it uses inexpensive materials and goes together rapidly.

Of post and lintel construction, the 4x4-in. redwood posts are attached to L-straps that are bolted to the redwood strips in the expansion joints of the paving. At the far end wires are run diagonally and tightened by turnbuckles for shear strength. The roof is two layers of low-cost reed matting and is nearly opaque.

Other members used in the design are 2x4, 2x2 and 1x2. The latter can be curved for the Oriental "flair." Two men can easily shift this structure if the changing season requires it. The owner is Mrs. Lorraine Winterer.

barriers

● The best-behaved barrier is the one which does its job with the least fuss. The job in each case here is to separate the motor court or driveway from the entrance to a house. The materials used are mostly plants, the hardy oleandar and juniper, the delicate-looking but sturdy bamboo. Where structure is used for a barrier, note that it can be seen through or over.

Pattern bedding has little place in the modern garden. Yet increasing popularity of succulent specimens creates an ideal climate for the low plants used in Victorian gardens for their intricate formal plantings. Carpet bedding received its name from the common practice of duplicating the design of the oriental rug in the mansion with these plants. In those days every estate had a prominent spot on the front lawn laid out in a round, oval or square form with a Baroque pattern of plants, chiefly succulents.

Succulents were chosen because they could be planted closely without fear of overgrowth, and because they required considerably less care than other plants. And their foliage provided color for long periods.

Tremendous numbers of plants were needed, each of uniform size, with some in reserve to replace those that failed.

by Dr. Robert E. Atkinson

These were grown in a greenhouse before setting out. With high labor costs, pattern bedding became a thing of the past except for parks and public grounds where a good supply of labor had to be kept busy the year round.

Although the day of pattern bedding is past, the plants still are useful for covering small areas attractively. Once planted, they require little care or attention and offer a way to contrasting color and texture that adds garden interest.

Happy in the sun

Grafting fruit trees

Grafting of a fruit tree is done for two reasons: to change the variety of the tree, or to graft a known variety onto a tree started from seed. A variety may be changed for one that is better suited to the locality. Sometimes, more than one variety may be wanted on the same tree. Most fruit trees grown from seed, with the exception of some tropicals, will not produce fruit that has the same characteristics as the parent.

Grafting of most kinds of plants can be done now through June or any time in the spring when the bark separates easily from the wood. Some evergreens can be worked anytime during warm-weather months. Deciduous fruit trees, citrus and avocados (also roses) can be grafted now, but budding should be delayed until June to August. Most succulents can be grafted anytime.

Failures are due mostly to improper timing, attempting to graft kinds that are not compatible, allowing the grafts (scions) or buds to dry out before being used, or, more often, the failure to merge the cambium layers of the scions or buds with that of the tree or stock.

For young plants with a single stem, the stem is cut across generally within 2 ft. of the soil, and the scion is inserted so that the cambium growth layers just inside the bark are merged. With older trees the scaffold, or main limbs, are cut across within a foot of the crotch. Two scions or more are inserted in each limb. For young trees two scions are inserted in the trunk. Later only one graft (the best one) for each cut is saved.

Most common method of cutting the inserted end of the scion is to cut on opposite sides, making a wedge an inch or more long. Either wedge-shaped cuts are then made in the edge of the trunk or limb cuts, or a cleft is made across the cut and scions inserted at each end. The scion is held in place and protected with grafting wax or other compounds for the purpose. When grafting onto main limbs of an older tree, leave one nurse limb and graft onto this one after growth is well established from the first ones.

ANSWERS TO YOUR QUESTIONS

Question—The lawn next to the house has turned yellow and brown, apparently due to sandblasting. Can anything be done to correct it?

W. J. K., Los Angeles

Answer—Injury is from alkalinity from plaster and can only suggest removing as much of it as possible and applying acidifiers.

How to keep roses healthy and vigorous —assure abundant, continual bloom

ROSES ARE one of the glories of California gardens. But all too many folk lose the opportunity to enjoy the profusion of bloom because they think a lot of expert care is involved.

As a matter of fact that was indeed the case prior to the development of Scotts Rose Program. But last year, a host of California homeowners enjoyed success with their roses because of the new Scotts Rose Program. Here is a typical report: ". . . being a complete novice I did not expect much from my roses this year. With your program I not only achieved success, I outdid my neighbor, a recognized expert."

Takes little time

Actually the Scotts Rose Program is simple and takes little time. Ten minutes a week is ample for 2 dozen or more roses. The secret? It's the remarkable new applicator—the Scotts Zephyr —which dispenses a nearly invisible film of the dry powder Haze that wards off attacks by disease and insect enemies.

But we are ahead of our story.

A profusion of fragrant blossoms calls, first of all, for sturdy, healthy foliage. To develop that foliage, rose bushes need proper feeding and more feeding than is usually given them. To nurture vigorous, sturdy growth Scotts research scientists developed a clean granular fertilizer that provides a balanced diet and controlled release of the nutrients.

Promote growth of foliage, then protect it

So there you have it. Monthly feeding with DAWN to promote steady, all-season growth, then protect that growth from the ravages of insects and diseases by weekly application of HAZE with the Zephyr.

Frankly we developed this program for the casual gardener who wanted a succession of lovely rose blooms without having to spend a lot of time at it. One user spoke well for this group when he wrote: — ". . . the Scotts Rose Program is the most wonderful thing that has ever happened to my gardening. It used to take me upwards of an hour when I wanted to spray my bushes, what with mixing the materials, cleaning the nozzle and spraying. It is such a wonderful experience to be able to protect 24 bushes in less than 10 minutes. With the Zephyr and Haze no mess and bother, before or after."

Professional rose growers are pleased too. A prominent California nurseryman reported his experience in these words: "I can say without reservation that my roses look better than they ever looked in mid-summer. Usually after the first flush of blooms are gone the plants begin to look a little tired. This year the foliage has retained its early spring sparkle."

Scotts warrants your success

No matter how inexperienced you are with roses, Scotts guarantees you will be satisfied with the results of their Rose Program, or your money will be refunded.

The ingredients for success with roses are available from retailers specializing in Scotts Program products. There is a Scotts Dealer near you who will help you enjoy healthy, vigorous roses, continual bloom.

Airy and delicate

As photographed, this iris looks airy and delicate. In reality Spuria ochroleuca is a relatively tall plant that reaches 4 and 5 ft. in height. It is also a vigorous one. Its clumps need plenty of elbow room and should be allowed to expand from year to year.

The spuria is therefore a good choice where you need a bold mass of planting and color, and where other plants won't suffer from its competition. It is also well suited to our Southern California climate, for it needs copious watering in the spring but can do with little or none in summer.

Rhizomes are planted in the fall and may bloom from March to June. The leaves should not be cut back until they have yellowed, as they manufacture the food that is stored in the rhizomes toward next year's growth.

Plant spuria rhizomes in a sunny, well-drained location, and just barely cover them with soil. They like "sun on their backs." Don't be in a hurry to water them, or they may rot, but when they do start to grow, give them plenty to drink. They like some bone meal in the soil but otherwise are not fussy about food.

Several flowers develop on a single stalk and are firm enough for use in corsages. Because of their spidery shape, spuria is also called butterfly iris. The flowers in the photo are yellow, but there are also white, lavender and brown species.

AROUND TOWN

with JOAN WINCHELL

Berle at Grove Famed comedian Milton Berle continues with his gag-a-second show before capacity crowds at the equally famed Cocoanut Grove nitery in the Ambassador. Accompanied by some talented entertainers, Berle (if you'll pardon our theatrical cliche) "has never been funnier." This must show for adults continues through March 27. (P.S. Nice to have Freddy Martin and his ork back, too.)

Film Notes "The Couch" (WB) is a taut melodrama about an impulse-killer. It's reminiscent of Hitchcock's "Psycho" but less gory . . . "La Notte" (Beverly Canon) is a typical current Italian avant-garde movie in the "L'Avventura" spirit . . . "La Belle Americaine" is a light-hearted, spontaneously funny and thoroughly delightful French comedy.

On Stage Moss Hart's "The Climate of Eden" opens Saturday night at the Alley Theater in Panorama City . . . Mary Beth Hughes, formerly under film contract to both MGM and 20th Fox, has returned to star in "Pajama Tops" at the Le Grand Theater. Mary Beth replaces June Wilkinson who is on leave of absence. "Pajama" is in its fifth year in L.A. . . . "Hardly a Kind Word About Anybody" opened last Friday at the Coronet Theater. Musical revue stars some fresh and funny faces.

SHOW OF THE WEEK

LUC PORET, DANNY CARROLL, GENEVIEVE IN "AN EVENING WITH GENEVIEVE."

'AN EVENING WITH GENEVIEVE'

The Greeks have a word for it. But the French have a way with it. Whatever it is, it's wrapped up in the person of that French pixy, Genevieve. She'll be making her first appearance here, beginning Monday, on the stage of the Biltmore Theater. Still, even though you've never seen her in person, she's undoubtedly been in your living room as a guest on the Jack Paar television show. Genevieve was the cute one who got all the laughs. Be that as it may, her revue here is entitled, appropriately, "An Evening With Genevieve." In it, she will sing, dance, play musical instruments and participate in sketches. Included on the bill from France are Luc Poret and Gus Viseur. Danny Carroll, Norma Doggett and Art Merrill round out the cast. The revue was originaly called "From Paris With Love," but only the name has been changed—to protect the inocent.

FROM THE OFFICE OF J. L. WARNER

Rarely, in all my years of motion picture making, have I felt so strongly impelled to tell every family in the country about a new production. I want everyone to know about "A Majority of One." My personal confidence in this picture is now being confirmed in its premiere showing by the applause of the public.

Perhaps you have already heard about it from your neighbors or friends—because I think this is the kind of experience that people want to share. Even if you haven't, let me say that I have never been prouder of a motion picture than of "A Majority of One." It's wholesome. It's fun. And I think you, too, will share my pride when you see it.

Without hesitation, I recommend "A Majority of One" to you and your entire family. I believe you will agree this is the kind of entertainment you have been looking for. It's a picture with a great heart. And I urge you to include it high on your family's must-see list.

Why Myrna Fahey Was Fit to Be Chained

BY JOHN L. SCOTT

MYRNA FAHEY: LAUGHED, NEARLY DIED

• Roger Corman's film "House of Usher" is nothing, if not macabre. So during production it's no wonder cast and crew froze when the sound of laughter came from the dark recesses of a grim, oblong box used for a particularly gruesome scene. Pretty Myrna Fahey had been placed in this "coffin" by villainous Vincent Price, and just as he was securing it with heavy iron chains, the prolonged and hysterical laughing fit took place. Director Corman opened the eerie chest, helped Miss Fahey out, took her to a corner of the stage and asked quietly what happened. "Well," she said, "I didn't mind too much when he put me into that thing, or even when he closed the lid. But when I heard him securing everything with those huge chains, I felt I'd really had it. I almost died laughing."

• Gene Rowlands, who co-stars with Rock Hudson and Burl Ives in Universal's "The Spiral Road," also boasts stellar billing on TV as the deaf mute wife in 87th Precinct. When asked how she felt about the ever-present movies vs. television controversy, Miss Rowlands explained: "Nothing beats showing up in color on a 52,416-in. screen."

• Attention caballeros! Luscious Angie Dickinson plays a nude swimming scene in Jean Negulesco's romantic film comedy "Jessica," which opens locally around the end of March. Angie goes for a dip in a lake, then grabs a towel to cover herself as villagers approach. After a friend saw a preview of the picture, he asked her: "Angie, how did members of the crew act during shooting of that scene?" The actress replied: "They were perfect gentlemen. They all wanted to help me with the towel."

• Producer-director Mark Robson discovered in India that much, too much, time was taken up searching for a man to portray the late Mahatma Gandhi in "Nine Hours to Rama." Even after finding a suitable candidate, a 64-year-old former schoolteacher named J. S. Casshyap, whose facial structure and slight build were identical with Gandhi's, Robson still wasn't out of the woods. When Casshyap was informed that because the great leader's lower front teeth were missing, an appointment had been made for him with a dentist, the would-be actor shouted: "No, sir, I'm not letting anyone pull my teeth even if this is a picture about Mahatma Gandhi." It took a lot of persuasive talk by Robson to assure the frightened amateur that all the dentist wanted to do was make black caps to block out lower dentures.

• There's one well-rounded comedian—Jack Weston by name—who's not worried that his ample size will interfere with his acting career. The player who first created attention on screen in "The Honeymoon Machine," tips—or rather tilts—scales at considerably more than 200 lb., but hasn't as yet been "typed." He played Tallulah Bankhead's son on stage, Luther Billis in "South Pacific" and recently romanced Peggy Cass on TV. "I've had other offers of romantic roles," he grinned. "Now I've got a mission. What Ezio Pinza did for the middle-aged man, I'm out to do for the chubbies."

Hollywood Hits the Road in 'Jessica,' 'Rome Adventure'

Maurice Chevalier is village priest in "Jessica," United Artists release and one of new films following the travelogue trend. Angie Dickinson gets her first real break in playing title role.

Another Hollywood film with savoir-faire is Warner Bros.' "Rome Adventure," with Suzanne Pleshette in role of spinster and Rossano Brazzi as suave type who teaches her about love.

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

● If you can't beat 'em, join 'em. More and more Hollywoodians are flocking to Europe and, employing international casts and crews, are trying to turn out movies, in English, that will capture the flavor of both continents — the savoir-faire, or perhaps the world sickness, of Europe, and that peculiar mixture of innocence and guilt abroad, of no-how and know-how, that is the American trademark.

They may be dramas or they may be comedies, but they are always travelogues . . . and, when we do 'em, in color and, usually, wide screen.

Today we may consider the lighter side as illustrated in two forthcoming releases, both devoted to the scenic glories of Italy. "Jessica," the better of the pair, takes place in Sicily; "Rome Adventure" ranges from the Eternal City to the Alps and back. Both were guided by Hollywood veterans—"Jessica" by Jean Negulesco (for United Artists) and "Rome Adventure" by Delmer Daves (for Warner Bros.). And Hollywood's Angie Dickinson, lovely of face and limb, is in both.

She Gets Break

Angie gets her first real break in "Jessica," away from her parent company, Warners. In fact, she plays Jessica.

Jessica is an improbable character, heaven knows, and I suspect her creation required considerable finagling around with the novel, "The Midwife of Pont Clery," by Flora Sandstrom. For Jessica is the chic young American widow of an Italian medical student who turns up in, of all places, the somnolent Sicilian village of Forza D'Agro' as volunteer midwife and general nurse to the tiny populace.

Jessica trundles in, wearing sports blouse and shorts, on her motor scooter — and Forza D'Agro' is never the same after that. What follows is borrowed liberally from "Never on Sunday," which Negulesco has obviously observed with a calculating eye and ear, and also, for good measure, from "Lysistrata."

In fine, his sources are 100% Greek. Well almost.

Too Old for Love

Our narrator in all this is Maurice Chevalier, who gives us the benefit of his jovially wise philosophy this time from behind the habit of the village priest, Father Antonio. Jessica's trouble is not that she makes eyes at all the men but that all the men — the husbands especially — are making eyes at her. Her arrival, Father Antonio sadly confides, has become the occasion of sin.

Now, the women—the wives especially—are not ones to take this lying down. Led by Maria Lombardo (Agnes Moorehead), who may be too old for love but not too old to be jealous, the wives swear to go on strike against their husbands.

No more babies will be conceived or born; ergo, there will be no more work in the village for midwife Jessica.

Edith Sommers' screenplay and Negulesco's direction may dally along the way (though there is always that melting coastline). The chuckles, however, are frequent, if mostly off-color, and there are two occasions of downright hilarity.

One occurs the morning after the wives have made known their ultimatum to their men: the husbands all have scratched faces and the wives, black eyes. The second yock, which occurs close to the fade-out, I leave to your own discovery.

Miss Dickinson's leading man, more or less incidental to the proceedings, is the local marchese, lord of the hilltop castle — played by Gabriele Ferzetti, who simultaneously manages to resemble Dana Andrews, Laurence Olivier and Richard Nixon. Noel-Noel, Marcel Dalio and Georgette Anys make merry oldsters, and the cast rejoices in such international beauts — besides Angie — as Sylva Koscina, Kerima, Danielle De Metz, Rossana Rory, Marina Berti and Manuela Rinaldi.

He Sings, Too

M. Chevalier favors us with a song or two, as do the villagers. The score is by Mario Nascimbene.

Whenever a lonesome American lady — spinster, widow or even wife — journeys to this "land where they know all about love," you may be sure that Rossano Brazzi, Italy's official host, will be waiting to greet her.

"Rome Adventure" is no exception. This time the girl is Suzanne Pleshette — spinster, ex-assistant librarian. And this time Brazzi doesn't even wait for her to step ashore; he is already on the boat to Naples.

Although Suzanne fears that she is a "frigid Brigid," Brazzi gallantly volunteers to teach her about love ("To do anything well requires constant practice"). But after he kisses her she confesses she heard "no wild bells—just little tinkles." Much later in the picture Suzanne goes to Brazzi's villa to ask him to try again; but Brazzi, older and wiser, counsels that it is too late.

In Love With Self

He knows she is really in love with that nice (if insufferably boorish) boy from back home, Troy Donahue. It's hard to know about Troy; he has another girl on the side — Angie Dickinson again — but he doesn't seem to be very much in love with anyone but himself. Nevertheless, Suzanne permits him to be her guide, via bus and Vespa scooter, all over Italy.

What else she permits isn't too clear — for although the pair go through the motions of occupying separate rooms, nobody, including the concierges, is fooled for very long. Writer-director Delmer Daves is guilty of hedging here, and the audience, sensing it, gradually finds its attentiveness tapering off after what has been an at least fairly provocative start.

Miss Pleshette is a handsome little filly, a crisp performer and an undoubted find, although she is a shade too purposeful for the all-seeing camera — as pretty-boy Donahue is a shade too purposeless. The kooks' tour is enlivened en route by Constance Ford as a sophisticated expatriate who runs a bookstore, the bearded trumpeter Al Hirt and assorted types like Hampton Fancher, Iphigenie Castiglioni, Lili Valenty, Gertrude Flynn and Pamela Austin.

What Daves loses in story momentum is compensated for, in part, by Charles Lawton's scenic cinematography — Stresa, Carrara, Florence, Pisa, Siena, Bomarzo — and Max Steiner's cheerful score.

The original book title, "Lovers Must Learn," by Irving Fineman, might have been more apt than "Rome Adventure."

Actors May Get All the Lines, but Fred Gets All the Laughs

BY DON ALPERT

For a guy who used to play saxophone with a dance band, Fred MacMurray sure doesn't believe in blowing his own horn.

But perhaps that's what's appealed to audiences through the years. Fred admits to having periods when he had to settle for "a western that no one got to see out here." But he's been riding high lately in both films — with the Walt Disney comedies — and television with his series, My Three Sons, on ABC-TV.

No Born Comic

MacMurray is following his success in "The Absent-Minded Professor" with "Bon Voyage," due this spring. Then he'll work for Disney again in a comedy tentatively titled "Son of Flubber" and there's talk of yet another comedy for Disney. These motion pictures and the television comedy show, you would imagine, would make Fred an authority on comedy — only he doesn't think so.

"I don't think I'm the funniest guy around the house," Fred said. "I can take a writer's lines or suggest things sometimes but that doesn't make me a comedian.

"I have a funny idea about acting. I've never considered myself an actor as such. Actors to me are fellas like Marlon Brando. Maybe I can do some of that stuff, I don't know. But mostly people in films are personalities. I think I'm playing me most of the time in various situations and I think that's what people want.

"People ask my daughter 'Is he funny at home?' She says 'Not particularly.' That's because I don't think of those funny lines. But June (his wife June Haver) is a good audience

"A real actor would take a role such as a murderer and say 'What the hell, I'll play a murderer' —and I can do it. A lot of fellas can do that sort of thing but not too many can do comedy. It's happier work. I'd hate to get into those psychological things. Again, I suppose, it goes back to the fact that I like to play what I enjoy doing.

"It's fun to have people come up to you and say I saw such and such a picture and I came out happy.

"'Bon Voyage' is that sort of picture. It's a Disney film and a family film. So many pictures that are being made now you wouldn't dare take your kids to. I think there's enough trouble — I don't want to be a crusader on this thing and I know there's a place for the other type of entertainment.

Stuck With It?

"It's just that I enjoy comedy and enjoy doing them. Now I'll probably get stuck with comedies and never get anything else again."

That seems highly unlikely. Fred was a star in his first production, "The Gilded Lily" (1935) with Claudette Colbert. And he's been starring regularly ever since. The interesting part is that MacMurray came to Hollywood with practically no acting experience. He tootled with a band, played once in the orchestra pit at the Warner theater on Hollywood Blvd. He drifted to Broadway and was spotted in "Roberta" by a Paramount talent scout.

The Times is the leading western newspaper in weekday, Sunday and home-delivered circulation.

But despite his long years in films, Fred still gets nervous before a live audience. As we talked at the Polo Lounge of the Beverly Hills Hotel, Fred recalled:

"I couldn't get up in school and recite and it still bugs me. I remember in high school they were doing a play — 'Aaron Boggs, Freshman'—and I just couldn't do it. Horrible things happened. I remember telling June the other night — I just quit after two lines. Looking back, I don't know how the hell I ever became an actor.

"Like the other night at the Golden Globes Award. I was to receive the award for the best family entertainment for My Three Sons. I had it all figured out — some got all fouled up. brilliant speech — and I

"The same is true with live TV. They wanted to build a special around me and I just don't think it's worth going through. My blood pressure goes up to 436. But in movies you can do it again if you want to. Yet I still get upset once in a while when a lot of visitors come on the set."

One of the problems that beset stars is being overexposed. What with television and films going for him, Fred is in as much danger from this as anyone. Said MacMurray:

"I think people do get tired of you. I remember in the old days if you did four pictures a year you were overexposed. But it's a matter of luck, too. I remember one film that was a particular bomb, 'Miracle of the Bells.' You can't make too many of those. I know a lot of directors who have made a lot of bad pictures but if an actor does that no one wants to go see him.

"But at least Disney wants me, anyway."

True, Fred, and in a pinch you can always go back to playing the horn.

Natalie: 'Much Can Happen, and It Did'

• Any author wishing to portray a Hollywood star couldn't do better than to take Natalie Wood for his model; she's the archtype of the species. At 6 she was the only child star who could play a heavy emotional scene. She became a leading lady at 15 when she played "Rebel Without a Cause" with Jimmy Dean; that picture made her.

She married when her rocket was at its dizziest height and promptly got into a money dispute with her studio, Warner Bros. They grounded her with the longest suspension in Hollywood's history — 18 months without pay. But she came up roses when Jack Warner eventually gave her a million dollar deal and the right to make outside pictures.

This is Natalie's big year. She had two hits playing when she came to see me: "West Side Story" and "Splendor in the Grass." But somewhere along the way when her star was at its peak, her private life fell apart.

Her Big Year

I'd thought to discuss events leading up to and following the failure of her marriage to Bob Wagner. For three years they were pointed out and written up as Hollywood's "ideal couple." Sometimes you felt they'd invented togetherness; they refused to be parted even when working. But instead of calming down to normal routine, the sizzling demonstration burned out suddenly.

Only the principals changed; the pattern remained the same. Instead of Wagner, Warren Beatty was there to take over the hand holding and exchange of long and loving looks. But Natalie spiked any questions on the subject of marrying at 19 and repenting with a new admirer.

"You may or may not know that I haven't been discussing anything that personal," she told me primly. I protested that it was an intriguing subject in view of the three years of what appeared to be unalloyed bliss, but she concluded the topic with:

NATALIE WOOD

"Lots of things can happen in that time — and did."

"Do you think the girls who're marrying so young now should stop and take stock of the situation and listen to their parents?" I asked. "So many of these early marriages are ending in divorce."

Natalie said: "Half the parents are divorced, too. What kind of an example do they set? I don't believe people can advise others where emotions and love are concerned. How many people can really evaluate advice when they're emotionally involved? It would be terrible for me to presume to give advice on marriage; my own was not a success.

"If I were asked about acting I'd be glad to tell what I know. But everyone's problems are different and cannot be generalized. And I wouldn't feel right trying to advise anyone else. I'm not a marriage counselor and if someone needs advice on such a serious subject they should consult someone qualified to give it."

Natalie and Bob Wagner are not divorced, although a financial settlement was made when they separated. Everything they possessed was divided evenly. Bob got half of what Natalie made for "West Side Story" and she will get half of his share in "Sail a Crooked Ship," of which he owns a part, if it makes money. All possessions were disposed of — cars, boat, the big Beverly Hills home.

Since actors are identified in the public mind with the roles they play and their publicity, I asked her if she realized her influence affected young people everywhere whether she liked it or not. She said: "The main function of an actor is to act. That's what you're paid for and required to do. You do have a certain responsibility in the kind of pictures you do but it's difficult to separate the two things; in your personal life I think the responsibility is to yourself."

Both Bob and Natalie lived conservatively before they married. Each had an apartment and they moved into Bob's place after the ceremony, but found it wouldn't work out. There wasn't room for Natalie's wardrobe, part of which overflowed into the living room. In the transition from apartment to home they surrounded themselves with status symbols — a boat, foreign cars and the mansion which they began ripping to pieces.

Ordered Out

Nervous and restless when she was suspended from Warner's, she'd sit on the sets where Bob was working. In 1959, her presence got on one director's nerves and he ordered her off the set. The couple met in the cafe each noon and talked over the morning's work. Shortly after the picture was finished, Bob refused two more offers and spent his last period with the studio on suspension also.

There's talk of Natalie doing a Jerome Robbins musical on Broadway. She'd be sensational, no doubt, but it would take her away from Warren Beatty. Bob Wagner has been making pictures abroad and rumor has it he still carries the torch. Natalie's star is rising. She's a child of the movie industry and, to her, career is as essential as breathing. It's the only existence she's ever known.

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

New Salvo From Stravinsky Blunderbuss

• Igor Stravinsky seems determined either to outmaneuver future biographers by rendering them entirely unnecessary or to supply them with so much source material that all they will need do is arrange it in chronological order.

In the third volume of his question and answer exercises with Robert Craft, "Expositions and Developments" (Doubleday, $4.95), he continues the process of dredging his memory for minutiae both trivial and revealing, of supplying indispensable historical background for some of his major works, and clucking in gossipy fashion about himself and other people. This is not yet the end of the series; a fourth volume, "Dialogues and a Diary," is in preparation.

But it is not the biographical material, intimate as much of it is, that is apt to rocket this quiz show into orbit. The fireworks are reserved for an appendix titled "Slightly More of a Plague on One of Their Houses (A Comparison of Two Critics)" which reads like a trial run for the letter the composer recently wrote this department, and which affirms his newly assumed role as a scourge and tormentor of music critics.

Solution Offered

Mr. Stravinsky thinks that "one solution to the question of what to do with Brother Criticus would be for composers to publish their own review." He does not specify whether they should review their own music or submit it to the questionable mercy of their colleagues, but he nominates a number of composers he thinks would be right for the job, including several we never heard of.

In case that should not prove practicable, he submits two non-composers: one an avowed satellite who is writing a book on Stravinsky, the other the author of a controversial book on opera who thinks highly of "The Rake's Progress."

"When music criticism is in relatively competent hands, will the professional ignoramus, the journalist-reviewer pest, be shamed into leaving it alone?" asks Mr. Stravinsky. Then he gets down to cases. He dissects two critics thinly disguised under the names of H. P. Langweilich and S. W. Deaf, supplying enough information and quotations to make them easily identifiable as Paul Henry Lang of the New York Herald Tribune, who usually writes respectfully of Stravinsky's music, and Winthrop Sargeant of The New Yorker, a Stravinsky apostate from way back.

The composer takes "Deaf" to task for using the phrase "the 12-tone scale and its characteristic pedantry," working up quite a lather over this slight misuse of terms—"system" would have been more accurate than "scale"—and heatedly maintaining there is nothing pedantic about it anyhow. He concedes, however, that "Deaf is at least readable, and he can be amusing."

Dislikes First Person

He tears into "Langweilich" because "he tends to use the first person, which is to say, 'in my opinion.' His opinions are always on the 'I dislike' level, therefore, which—though I fail to see why the likes or dislikes of such people should matter — is probably the most acceptable level."

IGOR STRAVINSKY: THE ROLE OF SCOURGE AND TORMENTOR OF CRITICS

Mr. Stravinsky also goes in for literary criticism: "Langweilich writes so atrociously that the reader is able to follow him only because he is certain in advance of the malicious intent." Even when Langweilich writes that the latest Stravinsky pieces in the serial idiom are "written with unparalleled skill" the composer sneers it off as "pompous bluff." To Langweilich's assertion that "Stravinsky's microscopic pieces are vieux jeu" and that "Webern did them 50 years ago" the composer's rejoinder is that "only someone totally deaf could hear Webern's music of a half-century ago in them"—which implies that all critics except a few members of the inner cult are totally deaf because that is precisely what the majority has heard in these pieces.

After extolling London as "a great capital of contemporary music," because of "the accession of a younger generation in the musical press," Mr. Stravinsky concludes that "New York could be such a capital too . . . but New York must clean its journalistic house first. It must rid itself of the cult of the commonplace, which is presently fostered there, and which gathers to people, such as those here described, as dirt gathers to vacuum cleaners."

There is much more in the same vein, mostly small potatoes. After Mr. Stravinsky's recent observations concerning this critic it all makes us feel less lonely—and in excellent company.

Despite his objections to professional critics, elsewhere in the book Mr. Stravinsky does not hesitate to criticize himself—though lightly. He confesses that "the orchestral body of 'The Firebird' was wastefully large, but I was more proud of some of the orchestration than of the music. The Mendelssohnian-Tschaikowskyan Scherzo ('The Princess and the Golden Apples'), for instance, failed to satisfy me. I labored again and again on that piece, but could do no better, and an awkward orchestral handicap remains, though I cannot say exactly what it is."

Freudian Analysis

Of "Petrouchka" he writes: "Like 'The Firebird' and 'Le Sacre du Printemps' (it) has already survived a half century of destructive popularity, and if it does not sound as fresh today as, for example, Schoenberg's Five Pieces for Orchestra, the reason is that the Viennese pieces have been protected by 50 years of neglect."

The composer-author also goes in for Freudian self-analysis. He discloses that "I am able to sleep at night only when a ray of light enters my room from a closet or adjoining chamber. I do not know the origin of this need, though it must extend from earliest infancy, and I can no longer recall the source of the original light . . . Whatever it was, however, and whatever bogies it stood at bay, this umbilical cord of illumination still enables me, at 78, to re-enter the world of safety and enclosure I knew at 7 or 8."

He recalls when a child being ridiculed at dinner one night for his mispronunciation of the French "Pourquoi?" And he asks: "Is this incident a contributing cause to the headaches I still suffer at dinner hour—an example of what Freud calls Entfremdungsgefühl?" And he believes dreams "to have been the ground for innumerable solutions in my composing activity. One characteristic of me in my dreams is that I am forever trying to tell the time and forever looking at my wrist watch, only to find it isn't there. My dreams are my psychological digestive system."

Loosely Organized

His explanation of the act of composing is significant: "The composer works through a perceptual, not a conceptual, process. He perceives, he selects, he combines, and he is not in the least aware at what point meanings of a different sort and significance grow into his work. All he knows or cares about is his apprehension of the contour of the form, for the form is everything. He can say nothing whatever about meanings."

Like the preceding volumes in the series, this is a rather loosely organized ola-prodida of opinion, philosophy, anecdotes, and major historical material—for no one denies that Mr. Stravinsky is an important figure in musical history.

As in the case of the earlier installments, it is advisable to have an unabridged Webster's at hand. Although the composer confesses that "even now, a half century after I left the Russian speaking world, I still think in Russian and speak other languages in translation," he indulges in a sportive word selection that is apt to stump anyone except professors of English.

But of course you would expect a "professional ignoramus" to have trouble with such words as incalescent, tergiversation, horripilating, papilionaceous, esurient, phoneme, glabrous, panopticon, wain, osier, avatar, extrapolation, and glossolalia. They must sound wonderful in Russian.

Gilels Due as Soloist

Emil Gilels, Soviet pianist, will make his Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra debut as soloist on the 16th subscription pair of the season Thursday at 8:30 p.m. and Friday at 2 p.m. in Philharmonic Auditorium, Paul Kletzki conducting.

The pianist will return to the auditorium Monday night, March 26 at 8:30 p.m. in a recital sponsored by the Southern California Symphony Assn. With the Philharmonic he will play Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto No. 3 on a program which includes the Overture to "Oberon" by Weber; "Siegfried Idyll" by Wagner, and Debussy's "La Mer."

Performance of Emil Gilels, Soviet pianist, with Philharmonic this week will be first.

Guild Opera Company to Play for City, County Schools

Five thousand students from the Los Angeles city and county school systems will hear Rossini's "Cinderella" at 10:30 a.m. Monday in Shrine Auditorium, the first of 10 performances presented for the Guild Opera Company's 14th annual series. A total of 50,000 students is expected to attend the performances.

"Cinderella" will be staged by Peter Ebert, director of the Düsseldorf Opera, after the original 1956 production by his father, Carl Ebert, artistic director of Guild Opera. The English text is by Gil Gallagher, and the sets are designed by John Blankenchip. John Barnett, former associate conductor of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, now musical director of the National Orchestral Assn. in New York, will conduct.

The cast includes Marie Gibson, Margery Mackay, Grace-Lynne Martin, Jacqueline Williams, Cora Lauridsen, Howard Sutherland, Richard Riffel, Howard Chitjian, Michael Andoor, Ned Romero, Joseph Bellesi, Robert Johnson and James Tippey. The box office will be open each morning with tickets available to the public. Guild Operas are produced in co-operation with the city schools, Dr. William H. Hartshorn, supervisor of music, and the county schools, Dr. C. C. Trillingham, superintendent.

Two Operas on L.A. Bill

Fourth offering of the Los Angeles Opera Company's 1962 season, the twin bill of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci," will be presented Saturday at 8:15 p.m. in Wilshire Ebell Theater.

Anton Guadagno will conduct. The cast of "Cavalleria" lists Jane McGowan, Kathleen De Spain, Jean Handzlik, Richard Riffel, and Rod Ristow. Singing in "Pagliacci" will be Carol Todd, Chris Lachona, Mario Farrar, Richard Robinson, and Denis Love.

Two more productions remain on the LAOC's 1962 schedule, "Tosca," March 30, and "Andrea Chenier," April 7.

Campus Recital Set by Cellist

Zara Nelsova, cellist, will appear in a recital on the Occidental College series in Thorne Hall at 8:15 p.m. Monday.

Miss Nelsova, whose father was a flutist with the Petrograd Conservatory and whose grandfather was an opera singer in Russia, was born in Canada and grew up in London. By the age of 10, she and her sisters were established musicians and Sir John Barbirolli introduced her to Pablo Casals, who became her teacher. She played with the London Symphony Orchestra under Sir Malcolm Sargent when she was 13. In 1943 she made her American debut at Town Hall in New York.

Her program includes Beethoven's Sonata in A Major, Opus 69, Sonata No. 2 by Martinu; and Variations on a Rococo Theme by Tschaikowsky.

LAWRENCE FOSTER ON PODIUM

Lawrence Foster, young Los Angeles conductor, will lead a chamber ocrhestra in two local premieres at the Monday Evening Concerts in Fiesta Hall, Plummer Park, Monday at 8:30.

The new works are "Tropi," by the young Italian composer, Niccolo Castiglioni, and Serenade, by the West Coast composer, Morton Subotnik. In addition, Leo Smit, pianist, will perform the "Diabelli" variations by Beethoven, and Robert Gross, violinist, will premiere here the Chaconne for violin solo by Roberto Gerhard. Gross, with Anita Priest, pianist, will also play two short Stravinsky works in violin-piano arrangements.

• Olga Coelho, soprano-guitarist, appearing Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in UCLA's Schoenberg Hall, was born in Brazil where she was first introduced to music by the laborers in the port of Manaus. Her grandmother's ex-slave taught her the mythology of the legendary figures of Brazilian folklore, and from the street vendors she adapted the exotic rhythms of her country. She mastered the classical guitar by studying for 15 years with Andres Segovia. In her recitals, she precedes each folk song with an English description.

• The Young Musicians Foundation will present the Bella Musica Quartet for its annual chamber music concert 8:30 p.m. Friday in Schoenberg Hall, UCLA. Winner of the 1961 Coleman Auditions, the quartet is composed of Ronald Patterson, 17, violinist; Marvin Chantry, 21, violist; Gayle Smith, 18, cellist, and Susan Hamilton, 17, pianist. The program includes Brahms' Piano Quartet Opus 25 in G Minor, Beethoven's Sonata for cello and piano Opus 69, and Faure's Piano Quartet, Opus 15, in C Minor.

• A summer festival, representative of Lincoln Center's "dynamic and creative force in the performing arts," will be held in 1966, according to an announcement by William Schuman, president of Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts. "'Lincoln Center: Festival '66," the first of an annual series, will differ from any other festival," Schuman said, "in the scope of the performing media involved and in the emphasis upon world premiere performances of new works." The annual festivals, which will also include works from the standard repertory, will encompass opera, drama, dance, operetta; orchestral, choral, and chamber music; vocal and instrumental recitals; motion pictures; folk music and creative jazz, as well as educational programs relating to the festival. All of the constituent organizations of Lincoln Center will be invited to participate. These now include the Metropolitan Opera Company, the New York Philharmonic, the new Lincoln Repertory Company, the Juilliard School, and the New York Public Library, which will operate Lincoln Center's Library-Museum of the Performing Arts.

'Oh Dad . . . So Sad,' Too Bad--and Egad!

BY WALTER KERR

I knew that the questioning spirit of our more experimental dramatists would eventually get out of hand. For five or six years we have been looking more or less steadily at plays, mostly off-Broadway but increasingly on, specifically designed to make us doubt the evidence of our eyes and ears. What is illusion, what is truth? Is logic lunacy, and lunacy the only real logic? Did that last line of dialogue make sense, or was I simply listening carelessly?

In all probability I don't have to cite examples of the sort of thing I mean, but the plays keep coming along and it behooves us to keep the record up to date. A young man is explaining to his girl friend why his mother put him in a cage shortly after he was born and why she has ever since locked him into his room whenever she was leaving the premises. "She doesn't lock the door to keep me in," he says. "That would be malicious. She locks the door so I can't get out."

Now this sort of dramaturgy results in some wonderful economies, and since we must all be economy-minded if we are to save the theater, let us give it its due. It wastes no words, for instance. Once it gets hold of a word it uses it. When the same young man tries to describe to his girl how he has watched her for a very long time from his bedroom window, the conversation goes like this:

Graceful Dialogue Sampled

"You want me to tell you how I watch you? You want me to tell you? I'll bet you'll never guess."

"How?"

"Guess."

"Through a telescope?"

"How did you guess?"

"I don't know. I was joking. I didn't really think that—"

"I'll bet everyone watches you through a telescope. I'll bet everyone you go out with watches you through a telescope. That's what I'll bet."

"No. Not at all."

"Well, that's how I watch you. Through a telescope."

"I never would have guessed that."

Our Money's Worth Here

Never mind the meaning of this sequence; some of you have to be back to work by Monday morning. But notice the words "telescope," "bet" and "guess." We are getting our money's worth here. A more prodigal playwright might have done all sorts of things. He might have thoughtlessly introduced "spyglass," say, into one of those sentences, squandering a term that is probably worth another whole play. He might have said "wager" once, leading us into devious semantic shadings. He might have described the telescope, which would have been irrelevant. He might have had the young man say right off that he saw the girl through a telescope (I am becoming fond of the word, it has a ring), in which case he would have got no mileage at all out of "guess." He might have cut the entire passage.

By being extremely prudent in his expenditure of terms, the author has accomplished something. He now has enough words left over for the title, which is "Oh, Dad, Poor Dad, Mamma's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feelin' So Sad." Of course, the producers, taking a hint from the playwright, have conservatively reduced this title to "Oh Dad . . ." in the advertising, possibly with the thought of dividing up the rest of it among four other productions, but the gain is real nonetheless.

The play is not foolishly padded, it is not pretentiously literary, it can scarcely be called overwritten, and no protesting actor is going to come up to the author during rehearsals to ask, "Are you crazy about this line?" I mean, which line would the actor pick? Pick one, and the whole thing comes tumbling down, it is all so organic.

There is a saving in the field of comedy, too. That is to say, there is no need to be spendthrift with the jokes you have been hoarding if, instead, you can simply play opposites. It is generally known or believed, for instance, that cats like to eat fish. Very well. Bring onto the stage a fish that likes to eat cats. It is, in fact, rather interesting to watch actress Jo Van Fleet reach into a fishbowl and extract from it the skeleton of a Siamese kitten. It isn't terribly interesting, or terribly amusing, but under what other circumstances could you get to see the skeleton of a Siamese cat?

Reality Goes Glimmering

Anyway, what I started to say was that this sort of theater has now succeeded in its fundamental purpose. When I go to the playhouse these nights I no longer know what is real, and what illusion. For example, on entering the Phoenix in New York one recent evening we were all handed programs listing the two plays we were to see that night. Two minutes before curtain-time ushers whisked down the aisles snatching the programs back from us and giving us new ones listing the one play we were to see that night. During the same week, at another adventurous exhibit, no programs were distributed. One minute before curtain-time an employee of the management arose before us to read the names of the five players. Immediately after which the curtain rose on a play containing only three players. (This was either a philosophic statement that five equals three, or else it was the fastest firing on record. But which?)

Just as we entered the lobby at intermission-time, one of those large, circular crockery ash-receptacles tipped giddily and crashed at our feet. Sand, cigarette butts, fragments of masonry everywhere. We stepped through it all, wondering. Upon returning after intermission, we watched young George Washington tear out onto the stage with his little hatchet and take a whack at the cherry tree. His parents appeared soon and cried out in dismay over its condition. Young George admitted to having chopped it down. But it hadn't been chopped down. It was still standing, in spite of the fact that the elder Washingtons were clearly trying to beat it into submission during their outcries.

How many plays did we see at the Phoenix? How many actors were in that play at the Maidman? Which was the drama, the shattering of the ash-crock or the population loss that had preceded it? (The lobby crash was more exciting, but is that a true norm?) Did the child actor simply miss with his hatchet, and get a clip on the ear from the director afterward, or should the tree have remained standing while all mourned the illusion of its loss?

Dire Consequences

I am beginning to have trouble with cab drivers on the way to the theater. I get into the cab, the driver says "Where to?", I do my best to explain to him that because reality is illusory, opposites equal and all places identical no real significance can be attached to the term "where," and he pulls over to the curb and waits until I get out again. If I don't show some night next week, you'll know that the best has happened.

THIS WEEK'S

—Movie Openings—

"A MAJORITY OF ONE" (Hillstreet and Pix theaters, Olympic and Century drive-ins; others). Opens Wednesday. Rosalind Russell and Alec Guinness star in the Mervyn LeRoy production for Warner Bros. The story revolves around a Jewish widow from Brooklyn and a Japanese businessman. The comedy was filmed in Technicolor.

"THE LOVE GAME" (Sunset theater). Opens Friday. This French comedy stars Jean-Pierre Cassel, Genevieve Cluny and Jean Louis Maury. Story involves three young, wacky characters on the Left Bank of Paris.

"BACHELOR TOM PEEPING" (Paris theater). Opens Friday. Brad Dorian is given star billing in this wide-screen, color film, billed as an adult comedy. For adults only.

SHOWING NOW & NOTABLE

"EL CID"—Charlton Heston living and dying for the greater glory of 11th-century Spain on a canvas spilling over with duels galore, a thrilling joust and armies advancing and clashing on a DeMille scale. A movie!

"FLOWER DRUM SONG"—The Rodgers-Hammerstein musical, with an all-Oriental cast, makes a tinsel-bright and harmless cinema confection. As larky as night on the (China) town.

"JUDGMENT AT NUREMBERG" plays like the three-hour transcription of a trial as presiding judge Spencer Tracy doggedly endeavors to get at the truth of Nazi guilt. Maximilian Schell outacts an all-star, all-acting cast in the production.

"THE FOUR HORSEMEN OF THE APOCALYPSE" riding again, high, wide and handsome, in a melodramatic retelling of the old-fashioned novel by Ibanez, updated (in time) from World War I to II.

"THE NIGHT"—Italy's Antonioni peers into the emptiness of modern living, using a young married couple of Milan for his sermon, in an even more doleful "Dolce Vita." For connoisseurs with time on their own hands.

"WEST SIDE STORY"—Ballet, opera, melodrama and social criticism, all rolled into the year's most pretentious package of color, sound and visual spectacle. Leonard Bernstein's music typifies the contrasts in crashing dissonances and sweet song.

ALSO NOTABLE: "King of Kings," "Splendor in the Grass," "A Majority of One," "A View From the Bridge," "Light in the Piazza."

BOOKS

by ROBERT R. KIRSCH

ERNEST HEMINGWAY: A BROTHER'S VIEW

• ". . . Baron," he said finally, "someday I'd like to have someone who really knew me write a book about me. Maybe you'll be the one. After all, the Huxleys made out all right, and the James brothers — Frank and Jesse especially."

The man who spoke was Ernest Hemingway. He addressed them to his brother, Leicester, whom he had nicknamed "Baron" and now that book has been written. MY BROTHER, ERNEST HEMINGWAY (World: $4.95; illustrated). While it does not claim to be a complete biography, it is a work which fills in gaps about the man who became the great, and perhaps the greatest, writer produced by 20th-century America.

Leicester Hemingway is a writer; naturally, he has been eclipsed by his older brother. That was to be expected. But what is unexpected is that Leicester is a writer in his own right, not merely because his brother was Ernest Hemingway. There is admiration here and gratitude, for Ernest taught Leicester how to be a writer, taught him about truth and honesty and respect for craft. These lessons are an essential part of this book. And every writer or aspiring writer ought to read them.

A 16-year gap separated Leicester and his brother. When the former was born, Ernest was already a high school junior. By the time Leicester was 10 years old, Ernest was well on the way to becoming a legendary figure. The years provide a perspective and a rather special quality to this narrative. It is to Leicester's credit that he is able to see beneath the myth to the flesh-and-blood man he describes.

Boyhood Picture

Ernest's childhood is told through family documents and memories, all of which took place before Leicester was born. But even in this second-hand way, we get a startling picture of the Oak Park boyhood, the musicales, the hunting and fishing at Lake Walloon, the beginnings of a code and creed which were to be part of Hemingway's life until the very end. In their many conversations, Hemingway filled Baron in on that past.

His own awareness began on Ernest's return from the Italian front where he had served with the Red Cross. Oak Park greeted him as a hero. His own parents were proud at first, then impatient with their talented son. Though it was not until much later that he could see these matters with insight, Leicester recognized that his brother had been deeply disturbed by his war experiences. "Not all of Ernest's wounds were physical," he writes. "Like hundreds of thousands of other soldiers, before and since, he had received some psychic shock." He was plagued by insomnia and couldn't sleep without a light on at night.

His parents could understand the physical wounds. The other trauma were beyond them. In a fascinating series of letters between his mother and father, Leicester shows the growth and development of a misunderstanding which ruptured the relationship between them and Ernest. From this vantage point, it all seems trivial. But with disturbing self-righteousness, Dr. and Mrs. Hemingway gave Ernest his walking papers just after the celebration of his 21st birthday.

Shown the Door

"While misunderstood artists and writers," says Leicester, "are the norm, Ernest is the only one who, having already shown talent, courage, humor and a genuine affection for his family, got formally drummed out of the home (on) his 21st birthday."

As those things often happen, it was for the best. "It was this break that enabled Ernest to write as truthfully as he could about what he knew, including our parents and their reactions to stress, in the years following. He could be indifferent to any criticism that he had violated the right of privacy. Without the break, he could not have done it." Lest you think that any great sins were involved. Mrs. Hemingway's letter boiled down to belaboring his lack of courtesy and his being out of work one summer!

By the time Leicester reached young manhood, the relationship between the brothers had become a deep friendship. The child could be impressed by watching his brother eat a raw snipe on a bet;

JAMES JONES ON LATEST NOVEL

BY MAURICE DOLBIER

• JAMES JONES: Author of "From Here to Eternity," "Some Came Running" and "The Pistol," whose new novel, "The Thin Red Line," will be published by Scribner's in September. Here is part of an interview recently conducted in New York.

Question—What is your new novel about?

Answer—An Army company in the fighting on Guadalcanal. The company is really the major character. I call it a comic novel of combat, but my wife says she doesn't think it's funny.

Q—What is its length, compared with "From Here to Eternity"?

A—"Eternity" was about 1,400 manuscript pages. This is about 900. I think the structure is interesting. The climax is right in the middle of the book. It's hard to keep the second half—the dropping-off from the high point—from being boring, but it's a method that lends itself very well to character exploration, to describe the changing effects that the moment of stress and danger has had on all these men.

Q—It's an all-male novel, then?

A—Yeah. Well, there is one man who thinks about his wife a lot.

Q—What would you say is the greatest difficulty you face as a writer?

A—The greatest difficulty any writer faces. Writing. It's an unnatural pursuit for human beings. We haven't evolved far enough to make it a really natural pursuit, like beating each other over the head with battle-axes.

Q—We've evolved beyond battle-axes, haven't we? There's the atomic bomb.

A—Yeah, but we still behave as though our bombs were battle-axes. After the next war, we'll be back to our old weapons. I've done some planning for it. I studied archery. Figured after the war I might get to be chief of the Illinois tribe.

Q—Have your ambitions as a writer changed?

A—Sure they've changed because I've changed.

Q—In what way?

A—I no longer believe in people as much as I did. We have this myth about ourselves, that humanity is basically decent and kind and good. I accepted that myth when I wrote "Eternity." That book, I think, was written out of a fearful loneliness—loneliness shouldn't be fearful, it ought to be an easy and a natural state. Mankind is really very close to its animal origins, as Ardery describes them in "African Genesis." But it loves its myth about being fundamentally good and honorable, and it gets away with all kinds of things under cover of that. Maybe some mutation will be necessary before it grows beyond it. But I'm dedicating myself as a writer to the breaking of that myth, not out of simple iconoclasm, but because of the terrible importance that we face the truth about ourselves.

Q—You've been living in Paris for four years.

A—Yes. When we went over there we didn't mean to stay. At first we didn't like it, felt that it was cold and unfriendly. Then a funny thing happened. We went away for a few weeks, and when we came back, it was just like coming home. It's been our home ever since. It's not that we're expatriates, or anything like that. But Paris is a great place to live and to work in.

Q—Is there a sizable colony of American writers there?

A—We know quite a few, but it's not really a colony. It's nothing like the 20s; there's no cohesive group.

Q—Do you plan any more war novels?

A—No. I think that with this one the war's finally done with me and I've done with it.

Q—Do you think that traveling and living abroad is good for American writers?

A—Very much so. One of our troubles is that we're too insular. We're too naive about everything in life. We need to get out and get around and learn what's happening—what's been happening—in the world.

(POSTSCRIPT: Readers may have noted that the only four-letter words in this interview have been innocent ones like "good" and "with" and "book." Others, of course, were uttered. "It's a sad state of affairs," said James Jones, "that you can't use one-third of this conversation. The flavor is lost.")

THE CRIME FILE

BY DOROTHY B. HUGHES

There are two such outstanding mysteries to introduce this week that neither can be given preference, but are considered in order of publication. UNDER THE SKIN by Dorothea Bennett (Mill-Morrow: $3.50) is the first this season to go immediately on this reviewer's best-of-year list. It is an exciting story of an interlocked group of people on ski holiday in the Swiss Alps. Two hired killers are there to do away with an arrogant British tycoon, unless their unknown employer changes his mind. Meantime, they rehearse varied plans for the assassination, all involving the special tourist attraction, The Bear, a local in masquerade. The subplots are moving; all characters are beautifully defined; and the book one for any reader's permanent shelf.

The second, DIED O'WEDNESDAY by Paul Townend (Walker: $2.95), is equally enthralling, with Hitchcockian - Carol Reed values of suspense all too rare in today's market. Again the scene is the Alps, Italian-Swiss, but the time is summer. A young Englishman on holiday in a fishing village unfortunately overhears plans for a murder. His greater misfortune is that the killers find this out. The pursuers are on his heels as he takes flight, with tension building in edge-of-chair fashion to the final pages. In capital letters: Don't Miss.

Donald E. Westlake is the writer who with his first book, "The Mercenaries," returned the so-called tough mystery to the folds of literacy. His latest, 361 (Random House: $3.50), again concerns itself with professional criminals. And again, despite the crimes which have been committed on page and screen in this vein, Westlake demonstrates that there are no tawdry subjects, only venal or no-talent writers. "361" takes off from a powerful opening scene when a young airman watches his father murdered at his side.

The oddity of the year just may be the sleeper of the year. And its readers may, as I did, return more than once to the book jacket of THE DAY KHRUSHCHEV PANICKED by George B. Mair (Random House: $3.50) to check those revealing words "a novel." Dr. Mair, Scotsman, surgeon, world traveler, lecturer and author, has spent considerable time in Russia and other Communist countries. When he writes of a Khrushchev plan for a surprise attack in September of 1960, just prior to the United Nations meeting, this may or may not be fiction. In the entire story only the unnecessary torture scenes have a fictional touch.

THE POCKET READER

BY WILLIAM S. MURPHY

Paperback publishers are planning to introduce nearly 4,000 new titles this year. Some will, of course, find only a limited audience. Others are destined to become runaways. Three recent releases in this category are THE CARPETBAGGERS, Harold Robbins' best-selling novel of an industrialist turned movie-maker (Pocket Books: 95 cents), TO KILL A MOCKINGBIRD by Harper Lee (Popular Library: 60 cents), a Pulitzer Prize-winning novel about the impact on a southern community of a girl's accusation of criminal assault, and THE DEEP by Mickey Spillane (New American Library).

This first book in nine years by the creator of the Mike Hammer series is typical Spillane. True, its literary excellence is a somewhat elusive quality, but the plot has a two-fisted tempo. This time a hard-boiled police lieutenant sets out to track down a mobster's slayer. NAL's initial press run for this book under its Signet imprint was 1.5 million copies, which should quickly disappear from the book racks.

Other new fiction noted: PROGRESS OF A CRIME by Julian Symons (Doubleday Dolphin: 95 cents). About the criminal activities of an English juvenile gang, this was voted the best mystery of 1960 by the Mystery Writers of America. THE INSPECTOR by Jan de Hartog (Bantam: 50 cents). A Dutch police inspector risks his career to aid a girl escapee from a concentration camp reach Palestine. SISTER CARRIE by Theodore Dreiser (New American Library: 75 cents). The story of a Midwestern girl who achieves success on the stage. Possibly one of the author's finest contributions. GERMINAL by Emile Zola (Doubleday Dolphin: $1.45). About a strike in an impoverished French mining community during the 1880s.

THE TIGHT WHITE COLLAR by Grace Metalious (Dell: 60 cents). More of the same if you liked "Peyton Place." FORCED MARCH by Morton Warnow (New American Library: 35 cents). A BURNT-OUT CASE by Graham Greene (Bantam: 60 cents). An architect with a vanquished spirit seeks asylum from the world in an African leper colony, THE LIGHT IN THE PIAZZA by Elizabeth Spencer (Giant Cardinal: 50 cents). The dilemma of an American woman in Rome, when a young Italian falls in love with her mentally retarded daughter.

Non-fiction selections worth noting: THE MAN WITH THE MIRACULOUS HANDS by Joseph Kessel (Dell: 50 cents), which is the record of a doctor who was able to save thousands of Jewish lives when he became a physiotherapist to the Nazi leader, Heinrich Himmler, exerting a powerful influence over him. SKYLINE by Gene Fowler (Macfadden: 60 cents). An autobiography of the late great newspaperman who moved in a colorful circle comprised of such personalities as John Barrymore, Damon Runyon, and others. And don't laugh at this title. You may buy it. STOP OVERPAYING YOUR TAXES by Ernest R. Field (Macfadden: 50 cents). Advice from an experienced accountant who should know the answers. For art enthusiasts there is ART TREASURES OF THE LOUVRE by Rene Huyghe (Dell: 95 cents).

THE AGONY AND THE ECSTASY

BY IRVING STONE

One year ago, The Agony and the Ecstasy took the literary world by storm. Even before publication, word-of-mouth reports, in and out of the book trade, were that this was Irving Stone's big one – a towering biographical novel by the author of Lust for Life, the man whose books over the years had earned him the accolade, "supreme master of biographical fiction."

Today, The Agony and the Ecstasy is a top-of-the-list best seller – going into its second year with more than 500,000 copies in print (including Book-of-the-Month Club editions) . . . honored by Publishers' Weekly as 1961's biggest fiction best seller in bookstores . . . with a record of having been America's #1 best seller for 38 weeks . . . with 11 big printings to its credit and more to come.

But sales figures tell only part of the story. Irving Stone has recently been named in an American Library Association survey as one of the five most popular novelists in this country. His book is making publishing history in a dozen countries and as many languages. In Italy itself, government bureaus report increased tourism and a tremendous revival of interest in the works of the great Florentine sculptor.

Tomorrow, and in the months to come, thousands of new readers will discover what the cheering is all about – will share one of the great reading experiences of the decade as they learn why The Agony and the Ecstasy has been called "a towering novel which brings an age, an art, and a man into brilliant, pulsing, and enduring focus."*

This year, this week,

THE AGONY AND THE ECSTASY

Irving Stone's novel of Michelangelo is a classic you must not miss.

Life in Home of the Braves

BY JOHN HARRIS

BLACKFEET AND BUFFALO: Memories of Life Among the Indians by James Willard Schultz, edited and with an introduction by Keith C. Steele (University of Oklahoma Press: $5.95).

No one has done more as a popular writer than James Willard Schultz to preserve the Indian from the ravages of the white man's television.

When he died in 1947, Schultz had published 36 books, products of nearly 60 years among the Blackfeet. From this last book, consisting largely of stories collected by his widow, the Indian again emerges as he most nearly was, and with Schultz he always emerges at his "uncivilized" best.

The Indian hunted for subsistence, stole horses for status, killed his enemies without remorse, and, because he was surrounded by hazard and hostility, worshiped his gods in a manner largely propitiatory.

Here we all are with the veneer of civilization rubbed off. Here is Many-Tail-Feathers leading a war party to kill White Dog, the Assiniboine defier and humbler of the Blackfeet. Here is the boy Big Brave sparing an enemy in his first fight and being counseled by his father, "If you pity your enemy, you can never become a real warrior." Here is Otahki deceiving her husband and being discouraged from further deception by having her nose cut off. Here is parable of our times in reverse, a way of life unfrustrating because it allows simple solutions.

Despite his long acquaintance with the Indian, even Schultz is occasionally guilty here of what seems to be romantic contrivance. Perhaps his sources were diminishing after a long career. Perhaps also, if his stories are melodramatic at times, it is because the Indian himself courted melodrama.

Gung Ho Story of a Marine

BY GLEN W. PETERS

MARINE, the Life of Chesty Puller by Burke Davis (Little, Brown and Co.: $5.95).

Lewis B. (Chesty) Puller rose from private to lieutenant general in the Marine Corps . . . awarded five Navy Crosses . . . more combat decorations than any Marine in history . . . from Haiti in 1919 to Korea in 1950 his exploits were the talk of the Corps. Whether on the front lines, mapping strategy, or inspiring his men he was the embodiment of every characteristic that is supposed to be found in great combat leaders.

As is often the case with battle-hardened, professional soldiers, Puller spoke his mind bluntly on a wide range of controversial matters — American prisoners of war in Korea, U.S. Army training methods, what he termed American failures in Korea. He was forced to retire at 57.

The reader will be shocked at some of the episodes in the book. (In Korea, Puller gave his tank commander orders to fire on an Army unit, if it started to withdraw from its position). Although incidents such as this must be placed within the proper context of time and circumstance, they give an idea of Puller's ruthless determination when under fire.

Burke Davis is a good writer. He has a subject that combines all of the qualities necessary to make an exciting book. He shouldn't miss, and he doesn't.

the man wanted something more. And Ernest delivered. He talked to Leicester, shared experiences with him, dispensed advice, but most of all thought out loud.

Of those who doubted the veracity of his material, Hemingway said: "They're the people who hear an echo and think they've originated the sound. They hear or read somewhere I'm a phony and it's suddenly a fact in their minds.

". . . Young man, the only way I'm a phony is in the sense that every writer of fiction is: I make things up so they'll seem real."

When Leicester reviewed a book of his for a Chicago newspaper, the old man was disturbed. "Sure it was good. And it was honest. But nobody would expect it to be honest. Because it was you doing it, they would have figured you were partial. So don't ever get conned into reviewing another book of mine. You're a pro now.

". . . A pro writes the stuff that will give himself a lift, and that expresses the truth as he knows it . . . But you've got to level with your audience or the readers won't respect you. If it's something you can't level on, you keep silent. It's either level or shut up whether it's reporting or fiction. The greater the truth, the greater its value."

This book passes the test. Ernest would have been proud of the Baron.

FICTION, NON-FICTION BRIEFS

A WILD SURMISE by Frederic Raphael (J. B. Lippincott: $3.95). Take an oil-rich South American country, a British owned oil monopoly, a tired dictator with a nymphomaniac daughter, a charm-school public relations man, two rival revolutionary parties, the U.S. Navy and a young Englishman seeking purpose in life and you may have the ingredients of a first rate novel. Frederic Raphael has with these elements compounded what may well be the year's worst published novel. It would be excusable if only a few Americans talked and acted British; it would be excusable, if only some of the key incidents were improbable; it would be excusable, if in only a few of the scenes it is impossible to tell who is talking or who is present. It is inexcusable that the book was published at all.
—G. E. T.

THE BAMBOO DANCERS, by N. V. M. Gonzalez (Alan Swallow: $3.95). Ernie Rama, a Filipino sculptor ending a scholarship in New York, visits a writer's conference in Vermont, then starts homeward. Three things haunt him: Helen, loved, and lost to an American fiance; the road-worker in Hiroshima dying so slowly; the monotonous eventuality of being identified with his country's main cultural export: the tinikling, or bamboo dance. Everywhere he finds his traditions and the West in an unhappy marriage. Gonzalez received the Philippine Republic Cultural Heritage Award for this novel. It is an admirable work of self-inquiry and world-questioning — funny, tragic and real.

BEFORE I SLEEP: The Last Days of Dr. Tom Dooley, edited by James Monahan (Farrar, Straus and Cudahy: $4.50). How Dr. Tom Dooley, medical missionary in Southeast Asia possessed of a strange sense of urgency, wound up his remarkable career and peacefully died of cancer, his work not finished but well begun. This is a story of his work by scores of people who knew and loved him.

ONCE ON A TIME by A. A. Milne (New York Graphic Society: $3.95). The author of "Winnie the Pooh," a classic which during the past year became a surprise best seller in a Latin translation, wrote 20 or so other books. One of them, first published in 1917, is now made available in a volume attractively illustrated by Susan Perl. But this fairy story of a king who was given a birthday present of some seven-league boots, in which he kept whooshing, most irritatingly, over a neighboring kingdom, and is full of characters with names like Princess Hyacinth and Wiggs and Prince Udo, may prove a little too "far out" for all but the most devoted fans of fairy tales, whimsy, and Milne. The Milne imagination is here (at times suggesting that of Lewis Carroll), but it lacks the nice element of control found in the author's best work.
—R. A.

THE ETHICAL MYSTICISM OF ALBERT SCHWEITZER by Henry Clark (Beacon: $4.95). It is generally recognized that Albert Schweitzer is a great man, but at the same time it is not widely understood just wherein he is great or what special message he has for our own day. This is the point that Henry Clark emphatically makes in his discussion of Schweitzer's "ethical mysticism" and in his effort to free Schweitzer's philosophy from the cloud that has settled about it in so many minds. The book, however, is more than an appreciation; it contains a critical analysis, in addition to an extensive bibliography and two of Schweitzer's own essays, of which the one on "The Ethics of Reverence for Life" is of special interest. In the course of his illuminating study, the author makes it plain that Schweitzer's philosophy represents something more than an exercise in passivity; it sounds a call to action, as in the statement that "if we choose to commit ourselves to a self-understanding that includes compassionate self-devotion in its definition of essential manhood, then like Schweitzer we must take up our share of the burden of suffering that lies upon the world."

Alabaman Wins Award

NEW YORK (Special to The Times) — Another southern writer came out of the pack to win fiction honors at the 13th Annual National Book Awards. Walker Percy's "The Moviegoer" was a longshot, the first published novel by this Alabaman who is the nephew of the late William Alexander Percy, author of "Lanterns on the Levee."

The non-fiction prize went to Lewis Mumford for his imposing study of the metropolis and its development, "The City in History." Alan Dugan, Brooklyn-born poet, was honored for his collection, "Poems."

This year's gathering brought the largest number of book editors, reviewers and columnists in the history of N.B.A. Leo Rosten, author of "Captain Newman, MD," was the keynote speaker.

Percy used the theme of moviegoing, in his own words, as a "device for illustrating the pathology of modern life." In this novel, the conventional view of films is reversed: The movies are real; life is a shadow.

Mumford criticized the unimaginative, mechanistic trends of planning which are strangling cities in a loop of highways and substituting parking lots for people. He urged putting the motor car in its place. What that place was, he did not say.
—ROBERT R. KIRSCH.

'Art of Assemblage'—the Power of Negative Thinking

BY HENRY J. SELDIS

"The need of certain artists to defy and obliterate accepted categories, to fabricate aggressive objects, to present subjects tabooed by accepted standards, to undermine the striving for permanency by using soiled, valueless, fragile materials, and even to present ordinary objects for examination unaltered—these manifestations are signs of vitality." William Seitz on "The Art of Assemblage."

• The very latest movement in contemporary art is focused on the art, non-art and anti-art of assemblage. This vogue is locally represented by exhibitions of objects by Jean Tinguely (at Ellin), Robert Rauschenberg (at Dwan) and Edward Kienholz (at Ferus). In San Francisco, a more comprehensive view of these manifestations can be had through April 15 by visiting the Museum of Modern Art exhibition organized by William Seitz, now at the San Francisco Museum of Art.

In all these exhibitions we are confronted with objects predominantly assembled entirely or in part from natural or manufactured materials not intended as art materials.

The Museum of Modern Art exhibition in itself is an assemblage as incongruous as any it contains, demonstrating the confusion and formlessness that can be wrought by the accidental or deliberate combination of paradoxical elements.

'Best' of Trend

Properly we are shown the best known works of this new trend's progenitors, the Cubists and the Dadaists. We are reminded that, "in May 1912, Picasso finished a small oval still life into which was pasted a fragment of oil cloth that simulated chair caning and around which, in lieu of a frame, he wrapped a length of hemp rope." But we are not told that although the Cubists invented collage as a means through which the artist incorporates reality into the picture without imitating it, they never allowed the real to overshadow the invented in their compositions. While these Cubist efforts aimed to remind us of objective reality within the subjective inventions that constitute art, today's assemblers allow the real-life object to take over entirely, deliberately abandoning every and all aesthetic considerations, in the tradition of Duchamp whose readymades, including a urinal first exhibited as "Fountain" in 1917, are part of the "Art of Assemblage" exhibition.

'Toy Smashers'

The main limitation of Neo-Dada — like that of Futurism or Dadaism or Surrealism — lies in its being basically a literary rather than a plastic movement. In its brutal way, Rauschenberg's combine painting "Black Market" is as rank and inconsequential a piece of illustration as the many insipid examples of social realism in the 30s.

The cruel, the inhuman and the psychotic dominate the San Francisco exhibition, though the collages of Kurt Schwitters with their great aesthetic subtlety; the ironic wit of Duchamps, so different from the toy-smashing anger of his idolators; the sense of exuberant celebration that inspired Sam Rodia to create our own Watts Towers and the exquisite enchantment of Joseph Cornell's boxes, prove that not all the assemblers wish the destructive to take over in their deliberate juxtaposition of construction and destruction.

Juxtaposition of art and reality was basis of early collage, as shown in 1917 Hannah Hoech composition at S. F. Museum.

Anti-art tendency of assemblage is demonstrated by Robert Rauschenberg's "combine" entitled "Coexistence," on exhibit at the Dwan Gallery to April 15.

Nowhere is the power of negative thinking more clearly and revoltingly found than in the violent compositions of Rauschenberg and the sardonic decompositions of Kienholz, though the latter's tableau is made somewhat more palatable by touches of raucous humor in viewing a brothel.

It is Tinguely who plunges most memorably, and with a humor just this side of tears, into the absurdities of junk culture. His demented machines rouse spectators to laughter with their constant abortive movements and their frenzied plunge toward self-destruction. But the laughter has a macabre echo, and the creator of these mechanical enigmas — now busy constructing an "End of the World Machine" in the Nevada desert — is dead serious, indeed.

Bland, Sterile

Since the total self-destruction of humanity became a possibility on other Nevada testing grounds, the emphasis on the absurdity of life, the impermanence of philosophic and artistic values, the protest against the suicidal materialism of our time, offer some valid explanations for the aim of today's assemblers to substitute a non-rational metaphysic of oppositions for a rational hierarchy of values. But in their impatience with the line that separates art from life most of the adherents to junk and accident have descended to a vernacular realism as bland as it is sterile.

The dream that was art is gone and we are told, quite explicitly, by these "artists" to limit ourselves to the nightmare that is life as they see it. No wonder that such concepts as craftsmanship and permanence—always the keystones of great art—had to be abandoned by them.

Positive Note

In their chosen state of negativism, only a sense of social criticism offers a positive element in some of their expressions. Perhaps these assemblers will be remembered only as polemicists.

To Seitz, the "Art of Assemblage" is "a manifestation of vitality," while to others, including myself, it is largely a manifestation of morbidity.

It seems that the assemblers almost gleefully anticipate the end of the world while creative artists, through their spiritual contributions, continue to strengthen the chances of mankind's survival. As yet there is no evidence that man's potential creativeness has been or will be entirely extinguished by his innate destructiveness. It seems likely that the end of Neo-Dadaism will precede the end of the world by several millenia.

Viking Party

The Royal Danish Guard staged its annual party at Scandia the other night honoring the King of Denmark's birthday. It's one of my never-miss parties, and as usual was a never-miss success. Was amused at the modest billing of some of the outstanding members—creamery owner Tom Knudsen, piano player Victor Borge, singer Lauritz Melchior, restaurant owner Kenneth Hansen, silversmith Philip Paval, president Charles Jones.

Exotic Food Festival

With the addition of a Food Festival to the 10th presentation of the California International Flower Show, which opened Saturday at Hollywood Park in Inglewood and will run through next Sunday, all sorts of ideas for combining food and flowers have been popping up . . . most of them glamorous, all of them beautiful. Everything from candied violets and nasturtium sandwiches to sweetheart rosebuds served in a champagne glass!

AROUND TOWN

Personality of the Week

Roger Williams' recordings have sold in greater numbers (5 million albums and 13 million single records) than any other instrumentalist who ever lived, we are told. The 34-year-old pianist could play 12 instruments by the time he was 8. The son of a Lutheran minister in Des Moines, Ia., he entered the Navy in 1944. Not only does he caress the keyboard of the Steinway but he is, as well, an exponent of the art of self-defense, having been a middleweight boxer in the Navy. Williams will make his motion picture debut in 20th Century-Fox's "Swinging Along" to be released this autumn. He appears in person Friday at UCLA and Saturday at Pasadena Civic Auditorium.

Lip Service

"Please tell your readers about the Golden Cup coffee shop at Wilshire and Westwood Blvds.," Lorraine Lipman writes us. Diners-out, wherever you are, food is worth the journey—and—La Lipman adds, "wonderful coffee in gold mugs!"

Solution to Last Week's Puzzle

AROUND TOWN

Celebs Dine Out

Lucille Ball (pictured) and friends enjoy the atmosphere and selected dishes at The Wild Goose in Sherman Oaks. Lucille is seen dining there frequently . . . A really cute couple, mucho in amor may we add, singer Ann-Margaret and fiance Burt Sugarman, constantly dine at both the Luau in B'Hills and at Fairchild's on Restaurant Row . . . P.R. partners Joe Hoenig and George Edwards frequently chat business with their clients at Lucey's on Melrose Ave. Top client is the beautiful actress Diane McBain (who should have received an Oscar nominee for her potent acting in "Claudelle Inglish").

Premiere Bargain

Remember when I mentioned the other day that I'll be MC-ing the "Black Tights" premiere with KTTV's Bill Welsh at the Four Star on March 27? Well, we just found out there's to be a champagne supper afterward at the new Cotillion Room at the new-look Beverly Wilshire Hotel. The supper dance and your premiere ticket only cost $12.50 a person. (There are still a few tickets left. Call OL. 7-1339 for information.)

Ah, So—O-Cha

The first sip holds a promise—the second delivers it. If O-Cha is a Japanese liqueur of ceremony, Su-Mi-Re is a Japanese liqueur of philosophy. Su-Mi-Re is piquant and potent. "It makes a cocktail look like a kitten but wakes it up to act like a wildcat . . ." It is a Mona Lisa of a libation and hep hostesses find it at the House of Koshu in Beverly Hills. Imported, but of course.

Bay Area Restaurants

Hear ye, hear ye, all 100-plus restaurateurs from Oxnard to Redondo Beach and Westwood to the coast. Your Bay Area Restaurant Assn. is staging its annual dinner-dance Saturday in the Crystal Room of the Beverly Hills Hotel. You'll have a ball comparing notes with your competitors, gourmet-ing and gourmanding and dance-dance-dancing. The whole package-deal meeting will only set you back $12.50 a person. Besides, I am MC-ing the program and would like to meet you all personally. Call George Bennett at EX. 3-7185 for reservations and do it now before they run out of space!)

Thinking Ahead

The new private dining room at the Three Lions Restaurant in Redondo Beach has been reserved for every Wednesday luncheon in 1964 by the Kingston Airspace Co., which will have 28 suites in a new 14-floor office building next door.

PLUMP?

Nothing but proper diet will take off pounds you don't want. Steaming and vibrating probably won't lighten you an ounce. But whirlpool massage should go right along with your weight reducing, slimming diet . . . and make the ordeal much more bearable. A light menu may cause frustration and edginess. A Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath adjusted for caressing gentleness will sooth the nervous system—keep you assured that life is worth living, even though dieting. Used both during and after the low calorie diet, the Jacuzzi transforms your mere bath into a thrilling experience of refreshment and revitalization . . . a beauty aid and conditioner. It tones the body . . . soothes and relaxes . . . perks up sagging spirits.

POOPED?

If the weather or the work is getting you down . . . if you come home feeling worn out from a hectic day on the job or shopping for family needs, don't head for the sofa to catnap, thereby spoiling your dinner and your evening. Head for the bathroom instead and take a Jacuzzi Whirlpool Bath. A vigorous, bubbly hydromassage will make you snap back, fast. You'll feel refreshed . . . revitalized despite your trying day.

And, if you're a slow starter in the morning . . . feel as pooped at sunrise as you did at sunset . . . begin the new day with an invigorating hydromassage. A zesty, tingling cool water whirlpool bath will wake up the bloodstream, the brain and the ambition.

COURT OF RECORDS

BY BOB SCOTT

Rarely do you encounter as delightful a duo as Columbia has teamed for "This Fling Called Love"—it pairs the delectable voice of Eileen Farrell with the artistry of Percy Faith. The result is wonderful listening as the two romp through "The Party's Over," "My Romance," "Where or When," "Hello, Young Lovers," eight others.

Another bit of teamwork is offered by pert Doris Day and jazzman Andre Previn in "Duet" (Columbia) in a finely executed production of "Give Me Time," "Fools Rush In," "Daydreaming," nine others.

And now comes the ultimate in sing-alongs — "Sing Along With Jonathan and Darlene Edwards" (Victor). If you haven't yet discovered this duo, you've been missing some hilarious happenings. J and D are joined by a "sing-along gang" in this, their latest . . . And while we're on the subject, the daddy of all sing-along enterprises, Mitch Miller, holds forth in "Rhythm Sing Along With Mitch" (Columbia). The gang wades into "Swanee," "Black Bottom," "Tea for Two" and several others . . . Then, if you're strapped for cash, there's the $1.69 special, "Sing Along With the Living Voices" (Camden), a cut-rate collection of 27 melodies.

How to develop your EARNING POWER!

by Bill Williams

Richard O. Montague, Executive Director of Sales Training of Los Angeles, Inc., who has devoted 25 years to the sales educational field. He states the opportunities for higher income and greater security in professional selling were never greater than today.

Almost everyone is endowed with some potential ability to earn their own livelihood, but this latent ability is influenced by many factors in the course of a lifetime, the most important of which is probably education.

Statistics from the records of American business and industry prove beyond doubt that the average college graduate has a much higher earnings potential than the person with only a high school diploma, and that the skilled workman who has improved his ability through specialized training can demand higher pay scales than the unskilled laborer.

Scientific studies by experts indicate that even the most successful person in any field of endeavor actually utilizes only about 10% of his potential ability! If this is true of a really successful individual, then how little of our real ability do most of us use during our own lifetime?

With the cost of living constantly going UP and with job security and future income being jeopardized by growing automation and technical encroachment, the big problem for the average man today is how to develop and increase your earning power!

Whatever your present work may be, if you're genuinely interested in increasing your income, getting into a dynamic field where your services will always be in great demand, then you can do something about it right now by investigating the professional sales training program offered by Sales Training of Los Angeles, Inc.

There has never been a period in American business when there were enough qualified sales people to fill the demand, and the need for such personnel was never greater than today.

Nor is this situation a temporary one. Since World War II, business has accomplished "seven league strides" in modernizing its manufacturing techniques, improving the quality and nature of products, and speeding them to consumers in advanced forms of transportation. The problem is not one of manufacturing or transportation . . . but rather of sales distribution. By 1970, it is estimated that 1,000,000 additional sales promotion men, sales managers and sales representatives will be required by Industry to maintain distribution to rapidly increasing numbers of American families.

Richard O. Montague, Executive Director of Sales Training of Los Angeles, points out that: "The reason for the rapid expansion of sales positions and the growing importance placed by industry on qualified sales people, results from the fact that we have entered the age of automation and new production techniques.

"Manufacturing is no longer a major problem. Today, the great challenge facing America is to move these goods from the warehouses and factories."

Montague emphasizes that while not everyone is fitted for a sales career there are many men who have never explored their sales potential and who may not realize that the true professional salesman is trained, not born.

So, if you're interested in greater success, financial independence and an all-around better way of life, you may be passing up the chance of a lifetime by not learning about the tremendous advantages of professional selling as a career!

At Sales Training of Los Angeles, Inc., men from every walk of life—bookkeepers, clerks, mechanics, industrial workers—all have received the scientific training that has enabled them to get out of their previous static condition and assume top sales positions with double and more their past incomes.

Even those STI students who have had a great deal of sales experience find the program so literally alive and charged with fresh, new ideas based on modern, practical techniques that many have stated they have learned more in a short time at STI than from many years in a sales job.

Since the continuing success of the school depends on the success of its graduates, Sales Training of L.A., Inc., prefers to accept only those student candidates who can show through an Aptitude Index that they have a potential in selling.

There is no cost or obligation for this aptitude testing service.

In qualifying, each candidate gets personal assistance from a Field Registrar, a highly experienced counselor who has been thoroughly trained by STI and is competent to advise the candidate as to his qualifications and potentials.

A perpetual Placement Service is available to all STI graduates, providing them with professional career counseling, assisting them with personalized resumes, helping them find the right sales position to fit their individual requirements. These services are available at no additional cost to STI graduates wherever and whenever they may need them.

You do not have to leave your present job while you are in training, for all phases of the STI program allow you to remain fully employed.

All classes are conducted on "off" hours and in turn you do not receive placement on your better job in the sales field until you are completely trained and qualified to do well on that job.

Sales Training of Los Angeles, Inc., provides ultra modern headquarters and classroom facilities at its central location in Los Angeles and for greater convenience and efficiency, provides both Registrar and instruction facilities in local areas throughout the Los Angeles trade zone. Each candidate may choose the facilities nearest and most convenient for him.

Applicants for STI training must be between the ages of 21 and 49, be high school graduates or have some college background. This requirement plus the sales aptitude index assures an unusually high degree of success for STI graduates.

Why not get your aptitude index test plus complete information about this dynamic STI program, without cost or obligation. Special operators are on duty 24 hours a day. You may phone right now! Just call HO. 6-6433 or HO. 6-5244 and STI will send you full information in the mail. Your action now may change your entire future!

STI maintains branches in principal cities; Denver, Detroit, Portland, Seattle, Tacoma.

Visual training aids and modern selling techniques are demonstrated to STI students. Considerable class participation shows candidates how to apply instruction to actual selling problems. Sales Training of L.A., Inc., maintains central headquarters at 6515 Sunset Blvd., and also provides local facilities in 10 areas throughout the Los Angeles trade area.

Don O'Connor Beats Old Billing Bugaboo

BY HAL HUMPHREY

When you're in show business and the first letter of your last name is as far down as "O" in the alphabet, you get billed on the program after Fink's Mules — even if Fink himself doesn't show up.

Donald O'Connor always finds himself in this predicament, but he didn't spend half of his life in vaudeville for nothing. Don has developed some cagey ways of licking the situation.

For example, he is one of the seven stars on NBC's "Arthur Freed's Hollywood Melody" special Monday. Alphabetically (which is the way the stars are listed to avoid bloodshed) Don would have wound up sixth between Yvette Mimieux and Juliet Prowse.

Richard (Dr. Kildare) Chamberlain, Nanette Fabray, Shirley Jones and Howard Keel all had the drop on Mrs. O'Connor's boy in the alphabetical billing derby. Being ahead of Juliet Prowse didn't help much, because her on-again-off-again romance with Frank Sinatra makes her the main attraction, even if her name were Minnie Zilch.

He Used Genius

What he did was sheer genius. Don told Arthur Freed he would only be on the show if he could play host. So now it's "... and host Donald O'Connor" in the credits. This not only sets Don off from being billed just a star, co-star or special added attraction, but it also gives him a chance to do more than sing and dance — which, as he says, everyone knows he can do anyway.

"To the public, I'm sure this business of billing seems silly," says Don, "but to the performer it is a very personal thing. He has to protect what he has built up over the years. Once he gets star stature, he has to do everything he can to keep there."

The "Arthur Freed's Hollywood Melody" show is a kind of salute to the old big Hollywood musicals which Freed practically invented at MGM. Eleanor Powell used to tap dance over the tops of 500 grand pianos, and later on we saw Don tap dancing across the decks of all the U.S. Navy's battleship fleet.

Next July, Don will try another different role, for him, when he goes on an eight-week concert tour to do his own show in as many cities.

"I want to try the concerts so I can see what an audience looks like sober," says Don. "Also, I love to get the feel of an audience. It's the only way I can keep my timing sharp.

A New Era

"I have a feeling," says Don, "that entertainment generally is about to break through into a new era. There are a lot of new things going on. Look at the movie, 'Fanny.' Now there is a musical without music. We're going to see lots of new changes."

We're also going to see Don as a host, and if I know Hollywood, the next job offer Don gets will be to host another TV show. He'll have to turn it down. Who wants to be typecast as a host, besides Ed Sullivan?

THE PURPOSE of this suggested trial membership is to demonstrate two things by your own experience: first, that you can really keep yourself from missing, through oversight or overbusyness, books you fully intend to read; second, the advantages of the Club's unique Book-Dividend system, through which members can regularly receive valuable library volumes—at a small fraction of their price—simply by buying books they would buy anyway. The offer described here really represents "advance" Book-Dividends earned by the purchase of the three books you engage to buy later.

✱ The three books you choose from those pictured on this page will be sent immediately and you will be billed one dollar for each volume (plus a small charge for postage and handling).

✱ If you continue after this trial membership you will receive, with every Club choice you buy, a Book-Dividend Certificate. Each certificate, together with a nominal sum—usually $1.00—can be redeemed for a valuable Book-Dividend which you may choose from a catalog which lists more than a hundred fine library volumes which now average $7.00 in retail value. Since the inauguration of the Book-Dividend system, more than $270,000,000 worth of books (retail value) has been earned and received by Book-of-the-Month Club members through this unique profit-sharing plan.

Bob Hope: Rating Is Nothing to Laugh At

by ALEENE MacMINN

• "My definition of TV?" Bob Hope repeated. "I have a line about that. TV," he said, "is a 21-in. casket that old movies are buried in."

Hope, presumably, was not talking about the hour his fourth special of the season will occupy Thursday night on NBC. And though as a comedian he can toss off a quip about TV, he does take television, its peaks and its pitfalls, seriously. Like ratings.

"Sure I pay attention to ratings," he said. "Ratings and time spots. We've been lucky in getting three Como slots this season, which means you inherit a built-in audience. You can publicize a bit and then if you're lucky you come in with a big rating." (By his own formula, then, Bob has been "lucky" this year. His first show of the season, for example, topped the ratings among entertainment specials.)

Has he ever considered doing a regular series? "Many times," he said. "In fact, a couple of years ago I was all set to do a series on comedians. We were going to talk about the techniques of comedians, the history of comedy, topics like that. Everything was all set. The agency even had a sponsor lined up. Finally I woke up and said 'What am I doing this for?' So I called up and canceled the whole thing. Imagine that! And I even had a sponsor!

"You know how it is, though. Once in a while you get inspired with an idea and you think, great! Yeah! I'll do this series. You forget you have other responsibilities, like a family you're supposed to sit around and talk to now and then. Even with the schedule I have now, I'm flying around all the time."

Bob's contract with NBC calls for six specials this season, then, as in the past, he'll appear on various other shows (including emceeing the Oscar awards in April) "and before you know it," he said, "I've done a dozen." In the meantime, he's also making motion pictures. How does this busy schedule affect his golf game, compared to Crosby's? "Bing's game," he admitted, "is a little better than mine. But then, Bing only does two TV shows a year."

'Freed's Hollywood Melody'

Every time I've run into Arthur Freed in the last couple of years, he's been worrying about a TV show he'd contracted to do. It was to be a show based around the fabulous Freed career as a songwriter and movie producer.

But then, Freed would wander back to MGM, back to producing wonderful movies like "Gigi," and nothing came of the TV idea. He was involved with television once each year—producing the movie Academy Award show (he'll do the one upcoming April 9). But his own show remained just a worry.

The show is finally a reality. It will occupy an hour of NBC's golden time in color Monday night as "Arthur Freed's Hollywood Melody."

There's quite a collection of stars to do justice to the Freed career—Juliet Prowse, the apple of Frank Sinatra's eye (who graces our cover), Donald O'Connor, Nanette Fabray, Shirley Jones, Steve Lawrence, Yvette Mimieux and a lad named Richard Chamberlain, who is ditching his Dr. Kildare medical kit to sing on the show.

Chamberlain's a little scared of the assignment. "I'm not singing alone," he said. He's been studying voice for three years but he's never sung professionally. "I'm not sure I'm ready."

But then Dick had never taken a medical lesson in his life, he knew no surgical instrument more complicated than a pair of nail scissors—and look what he's done with Dr. Kildare!

I'm glad that they're using the title "Hollywood Melody" for Arthur's show. Although he's done memorable work on Broadway, notably the unforgettable "Cabin in the Sky," and his songs have enriched stages and dancehalls throughout the world (the haunting "I Cried for You" and "Temptation" and "Pagan Love Song" and "Singin' in the Rain"), still the great Freed contribution is the movie musical.

He's made most of the great ones—"An American in Paris" and "The Harvey Girls," "On the Town" and "Gigi." He made "Easter Parade" and "Bells Are Ringing" and "Meet Me in St. Louis." He was even involved in the first movie musical of any stature, "The Broadway Melody."

Occasionally, he's shifted to producing drama, such as the current "Light in the Piazza." But mostly, the Freed touch is musical.

Arthur has certain solid precepts for the success of a musical show. He feels it must be in color—color is essential to a musical. And it must touch that mass arbiter of any show—the audience. He has always had a deep and profound respect for the audience.

A favorite Freed story concerns a friend who saw a movie preview and cried: "This picture is the epitome of stupidity. It's the zenith of stink." Arthur asked how the audience reacted, and his friend said: "The fools sat there and roared with laughter."

"Disgraceful," said Arthur Freed. "We shouldn't let an audience get away with that kind of conduct."

Richard (Dr. Kildare) Chamberlain lays down scalpel to sing on "Arthur Freed's Hollywood Melody."

Don Knotts isn't always nervous as shown in quiet moment away from set.

All tied up in Knotts

When Don Knotts first appeared on Steve Allen's old variety show as the nervous man-on-the-street, viewers were positive they had seen the birth of the twist—without music. The shakey little man became an overnight sensation. He shook for several years on the show — and the audience shook with laughter. Knotts was typed, as they say. Then came the real twist. He subsequently became a co-star on the Andy Griffith show (Mondays on CBS) and proved that he could not only "twist" but act as well. In the spring of 1961, Don Knotts won an Emmy for best supporting actor as Barney Fife, the still-nervous deputy sheriff on the Griffith show.

Here's the Hall of Frame

Television's hectic schedule is never too busy to make room for one more new show, so ABC has come up with a Warner Bros. situation comedy on Saturday nights, appropriately titled Room for One More. It deals with a young couple, their two children and two more foster children to whom they have opened their hearts and home. Andrew Duggan and Peggy McCay, top, portray the parents. Timothy Rooney, Ronnie Dapo, Anna Capri, center, and Carol Nicholson, front, play the children. And since every good television family has to have a lovable mutt, Tramp is seen as Tramp.

Los Angeles Times

ON ALMOST ANY CLEAR NIGHT, you can now watch man-made stars moving slowly across the sky. This earliest achievement of the Space Age would have seemed beyond belief, only a decade ago. Yet in a few more years we will see a greater marvel, as the beacon lights of the first lunar explorers shine in the darkness of the crescent Moon.

Tsiolkovski's prophecy, written half a century ago, is about to come true. Not everyone will welcome this, for it is hard to leave the pampered security of the cradle, and to face the harsh realities of the adult world. But this is what we must now do, leaving behind our infant illusions — above all, the illusion that we are the lords of creation, whom the Universe has labored five billion years to produce.

For as we reach out into space, sooner or later we will discover that we are not alone. It may well be that our civilization is one of the most primitive now existing — that on other stars there are races which were old when Earth was young. Even if we find only the ruins of their cities, or merely recapture their radio signals ages after they have passed away, the discovery will have a shattering impact upon our philosophies and our faiths.

"Earth is the cradle of the mind; but one cannot live in the cradle forever."

K. E. TSIOLKOVSKI
(1857-1935)

So it was three centuries ago, in the days when men believed passionately that the Earth was the center of the Universe, round which the whole heavens revolved. The telescope destroyed this pious fantasy, to reveal a cosmos infinitely more wonderful than any imagined by the seers and prophets of the past.

Are we ready now to face the still more awesome truths that the rocket will bring us? As the news from the stars comes in, we must be prepared to abandon the myths of our childhood, however beautiful and comforting they may be. And we will be the better for it; because the end of superstition marks the beginning of true reverence.

By ARTHUR C. CLARKE

Noted British science-fiction and non-fiction writer Arthur C. Clarke finds himself "in the disconcerting position of an unemployed prophet . . . seeing things I predicted in my twenties and thirties coming true in my forties." A Clarke omnibus, "From The Ocean, From The Stars," was published last month.

How To Succeed In Writing Very Long Titles Without Even Trying

IF THE THEATRICAL SEASON of 1961-62 accomplishes nothing else, it will be noteworthy for producing several of the longest titles within memory of man. The first is, of course, the smash musical, How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying — for which one cannot succeed in buying a seat without really trying.

And on the horizon there is a challenger: A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum, an upcoming musical with Zero Mostel.

Zero Mostel

And if you want to count off-Broadway productions, the season has also given us a little gem with an almost continuous title: Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mamma's Hung You In The Closet And I'm Feelin' So Sad. Apparently the author began running out of steam at that point, because the play itself was so short that the evening had to be filled out with a curtain raiser.

Only once in history, as far as I know, has a writer succeeded in turning out a title longer than the work itself. That was Strickland Gillilan, whose famed classic read:

Lines Upon The Antiquity Of Fleas Adam had 'em.

At the rate Broadway is going, Mr. Gillilan's laurels are in peril.

The book world is lagging behind Broadway in titles. Outside of the book called How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying upon which the musical was based, there has been only one real bang-up title in recent years: How I Turned $1,000 Into A Million In Real Estate In My Spare Time.

Books have done much better on short titles, though. Rudyard Kipling's Kim was not only a model of thrift, but inspired the christening of many of our present-day actresses. Rider Haggard's She shared the short-title record for many years, until Charles Lindbergh wrote his famous We.

The movies have had their triumphs too. In 1927 Elinor Glyn wrote a frisky picture for Clara Bow, called It. Many readers will remember that IT meant sex-appeal. Those were the good old days — if you wanted to produce the picture now, you'd have to get into a real long title, like Oomph.

We are also indebted to the movies for the only known title without a vowel — Pssst! It was also PSSSST! at the box office.

Apart from long titles, what makes a good title? I asked a number of publisher friends and they all said a good title is any title that sells.

Lowell Pratt, of Thomas Nelson & Sons, reminded me of an old publishing-industry gag, based on the fact that books about Abraham Lincoln, medicine or dogs always sell. So the perfect book title must be:

Lincoln's Doctor's Dog

Bill Morris, of Grolier, reminded me that cookbooks were also surefire, so the title might be improved:

Lincoln's Doctor's Dog's Favorite Recipes

And Joe Vergara, of Harper & Brothers, pointed out that books on dieting were big, so it should be:

Lincoln's Doctor's Dog's Favorite Low-Calorie Recipes

At this point I stopped my research. I was getting too close to How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying.

CANADIANS FIND A New

Here's the answer to the Sedentary Age — a remarkable, yet simple concept of exercises developed by the Royal Canadian Air Force to help you feel better and look better now!

By ADRI BOUDEWYN

OTTAWA

AT A TIME when everyone is talking about physical fitness, here is the amazing success story of a new exercise program which is making world news.

Two little booklets with the cryptic titles of "5 B X" and "X B X," issued by the Queen's Printer, Canada, with no fanfare, have sold a record-breaking 400,000 copies in Canada alone, and are heading for world sales in the millions.

The two books are, respectively, an exercise book for men and one for women, produced by the Royal Canadian Air Force. Each is an illustrated do-it-yourself fitness course. Designed to sharpen up the silhouettes of armchair personnel in the RCAF, the booklets have burst out of Canada's armed forces into civilian life, spread all the way to Australia.

The explanation of their phenomenal success in Canada may be found in a comment one of them contains: "Mechanization, automation and work-saving devices to make life easy are depriving us of desirable physical activity. Canadians, as a result, are in danger of deteriorating physically despite a high standard of living."

Does that sound familiar? Compare it with what President Kennedy said recently:

"There is an increasingly large number of young Americans who are neglecting their bodies — whose physical fitness is not what it should be — who are getting soft." The hard truth of the President's words is underlined by a sobering statistic: one young American in two today is rejected by Selective Service.

Generals like it

Both the President's Council on Youth Fitness and his special consultant, Charles B. (Bud) Wilkinson, are well aware of the RCAF booklets and have strongly indorsed them. So has General Curtis LeMay, Commander of the U.S. Air Force. Lieutenant General Garrison H. Davidson, commander of the U.S. Seventh Army in Germany, tried it himself and promptly ordered copies for personnel over 40. But even more remarkable, thousands of U.S. civilians, hearing of the plan, have gone to the trouble of ordering booklets from Canada.

Because of the importance of the booklets and to make the fitness method readily available to Americans, THIS WEEK has published the two booklets in one volume for U.S. distribution.

The authors of the two booklets, RCAF Wing Commander John K. Tett and his staff of experts, started work in 1952. Nine physical-education professors were brought in as consultants; using RCAF men as guinea pigs, they experimented with over a hundred exercises in a search for the most useful. What was wanted were exercises that require no equipment and little time — things a man with a desk job could do without reporting to a gym, without using machinery or weights and without costing himself or the RCAF any money. By the end of 1955 the 100-plus exercises had been cut down to a dozen. Trials extending over the following year brought the number down to Five Basic Exercises — whence the booklet's title, "5 B X."

Under the Canadian government system all departmental publications come under the jurisdiction of the Queen's Printer. When "5 B X" came out, his office gave it no publicity beyond printing the standard folder that goes out with every staid report and government document. But word got out with amazing speed, and requests began flooding in. So successful was the men's booklet that Wing Commander Tett and his colleagues decided to do another one for women.

"PHYSICAL FITNESS makes us work better, look better, and feel better. All of us should have enough self-discipline to spend a few minutes each day exercising. The RCAF program is an excellent method of attaining and maintaining fitness."

Bud Wilkinson

CHARLES B. WILKINSON
Consultant to the President on Youth Fitness

Experimentation showed that women would profit from a greater number of less rigorous exercises — so the women's booklet became "X B X," or Ten Basic Exercises. Like the men's booklet, it does its stuff without expensive equipment and without cutting into a busy housewife's time.

The program, as shown on Page 28, is based on a very gradually graded system of daily exercises. As you work up, you completely master one level before moving on to the next.

Just 11 minutes a day

The key to your progress is repeating a given exercise more often in the same allotted time. On the first day, for example, a man does a toe-touch twice within a two-minute period; after a week, he may be repeating it six times in the same two minutes.

Every day you run through all the exercises — the five types for men and the ten for women. But never does a man spend more than 11, or a woman more than 12 minutes on one day's exercise period.

You complete your course in physical fitness when you reach the limit designated for your age level — after roughly six weeks to six months. Once you have reached your goal, you can maintain fitness in three exercise periods a week.

The booklets are full of additional helpful tips on diet, weight control and general health. There are also tips on how you can get exercise value out of the plain, ordinary things you do every day (see below).

It's all delivered in a good-humored, but straight-from-the-shoulder style. The RCAF doesn't think women are overweight; they're overfat. And men aren't fat; they're flabby. This refreshing frankness may help explain why the Queen's Printer, Roger Duhamel, finds himself in the unusual position of having an all-time Canadian bestseller on his hands.

When the women's version — "XBX" — came

EVERY MOVE YOU MAKE CAN BE A "HIDDEN EXERCISE"

THERE ARE "hidden" exercises in our everyday activities, the RCAF booklets point out. Instead of doing everything the easy way, the booklets urge us to utilize routine activities to maintain muscle tone:

★ Balance on one foot without support while pulling on your shoes or socks.

out in November of 1960, teachers, businesswomen, civil servants and desk-bound women of the armed forces clamored for it. Very important to most was the fact that it could be done privately, without embarrassment, and with nobody checking up. Housewives, worried by thickening midriffs, greeted the plan with feminine hope — and weren't disappointed. Many a coffee klatsch became an "XBX" session.

Before publication, when Wing Commander Tett predicted a distribution of five million copies in 10 years, people laughed at him. Now his estimate is 10 million in five years, and nobody's laughing.

Today, "5BX" has been adopted by the majority of Canadian schools, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Canada's Army and Navy. The government of Thailand is reportedly translating it into Thai for use in all schools and government departments. Like the U.S. Air Force and the U.S. Seventh Army in Germany, the Royal New Zealand Air Force, the Royal Australian Air Force and the U.S. Navy are taking it up. In Australia, where people learned about it from Canadian diplomats, businessmen were soon walking to work instead of driving, and running upstairs, disdaining elevators.

The answer to "spectatoritis"

In Canada alone, outside of armed services distribution, 242,000 men and 180,000 women have bought the booklets in less than three years. Canadian health authorities, like those in the United States, were concerned about the fitness of their people. Federal Health Minister Jay Waldo Monteith was worried after surveys showed European children were outscoring Canadians and Americans in physical-fitness tests. He saw the BX plan as the answer.

"I've been doing 5BX myself," Mr. Monteith said in an interview. He recommends the programs as the answer to "spectatoritis" to "TV bottom" and even to Communism. "A simple, do-it-yourself physical fitness program may be one of the West's mightiest weapons."

Reports one doctor: "You don't have to kill yourself; you can get fit taking it easy." He prescribes it for his heart patients. Tett, however, cautions people concerned about their health, and especially those with heart trouble, to consult their doctors before starting any type of exercise.

President Kennedy says each individual citizen has an obligation to his country to maintain himself in a state of top physical condition. "5BX" and "XBX" show how to meet that challenge.

For how the plan works — and how to get the booklet — see Page 28

Why I Traded Lives...

Every year more and more tension-ridden executives are dreaming of getting out of the "rat race" and finding an ulcer-proof manual job. Meet a man who had the nerve to make the big change

ANONYMOUS...as told to JHAN AND JUNE ROBBINS

Paul Sherer

ABOUT THIS STORY: More and more American men are wrenched by the desperate feeling: "I wasn't cut out for the job I'm in." They want to know: "What kind of work that I'll enjoy can I best fitted for? Is it too late to change?"

Many are paying as much as $250 for psychological and vocational aptitude tests which they hope will tell them what to do with the working portion of their lives. Today, workers from late 30's to early 50's are turning up at job clinics. They have been earning good livings for years. But now they crave a change.

"There is no doubt," says Paul Sherer, executive director of the YMCA's New York Vocational Service Center, "that a considerable number of people change their occupational fields each year. More and more people are curious to learn what happens to a man — and his family — when he switches fields."

Here is the story of a man we'll call Roger X, a rising executive who quit his white-collar job at 42 and became an auto mechanic. His experience will interest every man who has ever said to himself, "I've got to get out of this rat race!"

Roger X made a radical change in his work and his income. He gained personal contentment at the high cost of a material step backward to his family. Do you consider his action selfish and cowardly — or does it blaze a trail for you? At the end of his story you'll find a box, prepared by an expert to help you answer the question, "When should I leave my job?" Now listen to Roger X...

My father and his brother owned three drugstores. They were not pharmacists. My father used to say, "I hire and fire them." I was the first member of my family to go to college. I was enrolled in business administration, but I took side courses in the engineering school. I've always been fascinated by what makes things work.

In my teens I was one of the first hot-rodders. I earned enough money to buy a car of my own — a 1929 Ford.

At college I wasn't a top student. The most successful thing I did was a practical joke. A rich kid who was in some of my classes was insufferably proud of his custom-built sports car. He drove it fast but not well. And though I did most of his repairs, he never thanked me.

Once when he was away, some fraternity brothers came to me and said, "Let's hand that creep a good jolt. Take his car apart and reassemble it in the bell tower of the chapel." I did it. I was suspended for three weeks, but the joke was a great success.

Not long after that we got the news of Pearl Harbor. I was in the R.O.T.C. and I was sent to the Pacific. After the war I married Donna and settled down to help run the drugstores. We had two daughters in short order.

"I moved up fast"

In 1948 my father and his brother were killed in an auto accident. The drugstores had to be sold to settle the estate. My mother and aunt got the money and I was out of work. So I took a job with a plant that made cardboard boxes and cartons. My salary was $45 per week.

"Keep your nose clean and you'll be a vice-president in ten years," they told me. I moved around to every job in the plant. Then they sent me to Chicago as assistant to the manager of the Midwest division.

The plant manager tried to help me. He said I was paying too much attention to the machinery and the product and not enough to sales techniques. I kept on working and learning. Three years later we were moved East again, with a $2,200 raise.

I was made superintendent of the purchasing division. We lived in a $30,000 house in the best school district in the county. Donna drove a station wagon. We belonged to a country club. I was elected to the school board. I guess I was a successful man. I should have been happy. Instead I got absent-minded about my business commitments. I was irritable with my family. I ate a lot. I put on weight and felt sluggish.

"The boss's car broke down"

One night at a dinner party the boss's car broke down. I could tell from the way the motor sounded that it hadn't had proper care. The local garage sent out a kid who barely knew a piston from a spark plug.

"This car has a beautiful body," I explained to my boss, "but they've never learned how to make the right motor for it."

Working with a packet of pipe cleaners I swabbed out some of the clogged lines and got it going. When the motor finally turned over and began to throb, I suddenly felt swell — better than I had in years. Then someone said, "Now you've really queered yourself!"

Startled, I asked, "Why?"

"The boss swears by that car," was the answer. "Even though you started it, you criticized it. I could see he didn't like that!"

"The heck with it!" I said. "If I have to apologize for honest criticism, I quit!"

We drove home and Donna went right to bed. I went into the bathroom and started to clean the grease out of my nails. But I threw down the nail file, ran up to our bed- — continued on page 27

Treasury of Recipes From America's Best Cooks

From her fabulous collection of 6,000 recipes, our Food Editor picks 13 "absolutely perfect dishes"

A TREASURY OF RECIPES! Here is a baker's dozen of favorite recipes from my collection of over 6,000 — all home-kitchen borrowed. They are from the finest cooks I have met in 15 years of travel crisscrossing the United States. These 13 chefs have starred before in the "How America Eats" pages, but their "treasury" recipes which follow are making their debut in print.

I am a recipe hunter searching rare local dishes. I ask the question interminably, "Who is the best cook in these parts?" I ask filling-station attendants, grocers, butchers, ministers, the social leader of the town.

List of tips in hand, I go knocking on kitchen doors. Long ago I discovered that to come into a home by way of the kitchen is to enter into the heart of the family. Chatting at a kitchen table both interviewer and interviewed are at ease. There is woman's talk about almost everything, but food takes first place.

The dishes presented here are from kitchens great and small, modern and old-fashioned. But good food is good food, wherever you find it.

Easter just around the corner, first out of the treasure bag is this old Southern recipe for Molded Chicken Salad. A party favorite and the recipe is party-sized — after fasting, feast!

1. Chicken Salad Mold

1 4 to 5-pound stewing chicken, cut-up
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups water
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 cup finely chopped celery
1 cup tiny peas
1 cup chopped, salted, blanched almonds
5 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1½ tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup mayonnaise

OVER RED MOUNTAIN to the outskirts of Birmingham, Ala., to the Frazer Banks' cottage, snug — tucked into a ridge. I had gone to meet Beryl Banks whose buffet suppers were the envy of her friends. "Her molded chicken salad — divine!" Would she give me the recipe? She did, suggesting it be served with a green salad, a hot-vegetable casserole and hot biscuits to pass.

DIRECTIONS: Rub chicken pieces with 1 teaspoon salt. Place in Dutch oven or large saucepan. Add the 2 cups water. Simmer, covered, about 2 hours, or until tender. Add water during cooking so that there is always 2 cups liquid. Remove chicken. Keep broth hot. Cool chicken pieces. Remove meat from bones. Discard skin. Finely chop meat. Soften gelatin in the ½ cup water. Add to 2 cups of the hot broth; stir until dissolved. Add remaining ingredients, except mayonnaise. Cool. Fold in mayonnaise. Pour into a 12x8x2-inch shallow pan. Chill until firm. Cut into squares and serve with additional mayonnaise, if desired. Yield: 20 portions.

2. Cucumber Ring

1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
1 package lime-flavored gelatin
2 cups boiling water
½ cup cold water
1½ tablespoons vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups finely chopped, seeded, unpared cucumber

DOWN JACK RABBIT ROAD in Scottsdale, Ariz., I came to the Raymond Rubicams' home. Here to meet Mrs. Rubicam, the former Bettina Holt of the American Opera Company and known locally in the area as the hostess who serves the finest party food that goes to any table thereabouts.

We had tea in the living room facing the garden. Recipe cards were on the table. This cucumber ring is one, said Bettina, that is almost always included when a buffet luncheon is served by the pool. Cool and shivery looking, a fine thing with a hot main dish — to serve on a hot day.

DIRECTIONS: Dissolve lemon and lime gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water, vinegar and salt; mix well. Chill until just slightly thickened. Stir in the cucumber. Pour into a 1½-quart mold. Chill until firm. Yield: 8 to 10 portions.

Mrs. Rubicam

3. Buttermilk Corn Sticks

1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup yellow corn meal

BUTTERMILK CORN STICKS is a recipe given to me by an artist, Mrs. Mortimer Cook of Portland, Ore. The buffet luncheon, she said, was her favorite way of entertaining a crowd. Buttermilk corn sticks invariably were a go-along with the hot dishes. These she baked in a greased corn-shaped iron pan to come ten hot sticks at a time.

This bread loves butter; lay on plenty of it. It's good with almost everything!

DIRECTIONS: Combine buttermilk and soda. Stir in egg, sugar and salt. Add corn meal, a little at a time, mixing well after each addition. Fill greased corn-stick pans three-fourths full with batter. Bake at 450°F. for 12 to 15 minutes, or until golden brown. Yield: 10 corn sticks.

4. Jellied Ham Loaf

4 envelopes unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
2 cups hot tomato juice
2 tablespoons onion juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Paprika
1 cup mayonnaise
4 cups ground cooked ham
1 green pepper, shredded

IN THE FINGER LAKE COUNTRY of west central New York I went to see the grape harvest. But my great adventure was meeting Mrs. Greyton Taylor of Hammondsport. Her husband is one of the three brothers who run the Taylor Wine Company, a family firm now in the third generation. My idea in visiting Muriel was to borrow some of her wine-flavored hors d'oeuvres. She gave me a fistful of recipes to choose from, all neatly typed on cards. In among them I found this excellent jellied ham loaf which I copied off for my own use. A lovely recipe for buffet party entertaining.

DIRECTIONS: Soften gelatin in cold water. Add tomato juice; stir until dissolved. Stir in onion juice, lemon juice and paprika. Chill the mixture until the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Mix in the mayonnaise, ham and green pepper. Pour into a 2-quart loaf pan or mold. Chill until firm. Yield: 8 to 10 portions.

Mrs. Taylor

5. Baked Crispy Pears

1 can (1 pound, 14 ounces) pear halves, drained
1½ cups corn flakes, crushed
6 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup pear juice
½ teaspoon nutmeg

OUT OF SEATTLE over the Chinook Pass to Yakima, Wash., 138 miles to keep a luncheon date. The menu — canned pears. Mrs. Alva Strausz, wife of a leading pear grower of the region, had invited me for "a canned pear dish sampling." I can't remember all the dishes — one a pear salad that was a picture, pear pie, pear fritters... But my happiest memory is of these Baked Crispy Pears, served warm with cream.

DIRECTIONS: Roll pear halves in corn flakes. Place pears, hollow side up, in baking dish. Fill centers with sugar; dot with butter. Pour juice over pears; sprinkle with nutmeg. Bake at 375°F. for 25 minutes, or until browned. Serve warm with cream. Yield: 4 portions.

Hot mashed potatoes

I SHALL REMEMBER ALWAYS, meeting the Corbetts, Lucy and Sid. Out of Detroit to Grosse Ile early on a Sunday morning in time for breakfast. I came in by the back door of their century-old house just as everyone does, into a kitchen which then was the heart of their world. Sid commanded from his wheel chair. Lucy did the cooking. Sid did the writing for the books and columns. Here is one of Lucy's finest recipes, handed down from her Grandma from Prince Edward Island way down in the Canadian Maritime, a place as English as London's Tower, as Hyde Park.

DIRECTIONS: Soak kidneys for 2 hours in lightly salted water to cover. Remove outer membrane. Cut kidneys into ½-inch thick slices. Remove fat and white veins. Wash; dry. Melt butter in skillet. Add slices and saute very slowly until kidneys turn white. Add salt and pepper; dust with flour. Add wine slowly, stirring over low heat, until sauce comes to a boil and thickens. Simmer 10 minutes. Serve with hot mashed potatoes or rice. Yield: 6 portions.

7. Lemon Icebox Pie

1½ cups vanilla wafer crumbs (about 28 wafers)
1 can (14 ounces) sweetened condensed milk
3 eggs, separated
Juice of 3 lemons
6 tablespoons sugar

I VISITED VICKSBURG, MISS., to see the ante-bellum houses, the historic churches, the military memorial park for our heroes, both the blue and gray. After the two-hour sight-seeing trip, where for dinner? Such good fortune. The Old Southern Tea Room was suggested and there to meet Mary McKay, born and raised "a piece" out of town at Millbrook, the family plantation since 1840. A wonderful meal, cooked by Aunt Elvira, then presiding over Mary's kitchen, just as her ancestors did during the lavish days of the Old South. Elvira can't give a recipe, she cooks by inspiration. I watched this lemon icebox pie made, then had my notes translated by THIS WEEK's kitchen. Would I could send good cook Elvira along with this recipe.

DIRECTIONS: Butter a 9-inch pie plate. Line bottom and sides with crumbs. Combine condensed milk, egg yolks and lemon juice; mix thoroughly. Pour into pie plate. Beat egg whites until foamy. Add sugar, a tablespoon at a time, and beat until stiff peaks are formed. Spread over lemon mixture. Bake at 350°F. for about 12 minutes, or until meringue is light golden brown. Chill before serving. Yield: one 9-inch pie.

8. Veal or Beef Paprika

2 pounds boneless veal shoulder or beef chuck
¼ cup oil
1 clove garlic, cut in half
4 cups sliced onions
1½ cups water
½ green pepper, sliced
2 tablespoons minced parsley
3 tablespoons paprika
Salt to taste
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons water
1 cup dairy sour cream
Hot cooked noodles

I MET ROY BOONE in California at the Di Giorgios' Sierra Vista Ranch, 5,000 acres, where Roy was manager. Then Roy and his wife Hazel lived in the one-story ranch house, a big rambling place set in a green oasis. In the air-conditioned kitchen was a six-stool lunch counter where Chef Boone (he could have been a great chef) found expression for his culinary talent. Roy did most of the day-by-day cooking except at harvest time when he hadn't a minute to spare. I went to see the grape harvest but Roy took time to prepare a little supper, featuring this Veal Paprika.

DIRECTIONS: Cut meat into 1½-inch cubes. Heat oil in heavy skillet or Dutch oven which has been rubbed with cut side of garlic halves. Add onions and cook slowly until tender but not brown. Add meat, the 1½ cups water, green pepper, parsley, paprika and salt. Cover. Simmer gently for about 1½ hours, or until meat is tender. Blend cornstarch with the 2 tablespoons water; stir into meat mixture. Cook until thickened, stirring. Blend in sour cream. Heat but do not boil. Serve with hot noodles. Garnish with green pepper rings, if desired. Yield: 6 portions.

9. Mixed Vegetables Mornay

2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen mixed vegetables
¼ cup water
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
Mornay Sauce (recipe below)
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs

MORNAY SAUCE

⅛ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon garlic salt
Pinch of nutmeg and thyme
2 cups reserved vegetable liquid plus milk
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

MRS. CLAYTON LOOSLI of South Pasadena, Calif., claims to be "just a home cook, cooking to please my men." Her men are a distinguished scientist husband, Dean of the University of Southern California's School of Medicine, and twin sons, Alvin and Edward, 20. "They like simplicity, with emphasis on taste and heartiness.

"And my men like vegetables when I dress them up." Here is one of her recipes for vegetables all "gussied up" with Mornay Sauce. Try it with barbecued meats.

DIRECTIONS: Cook vegetables until almost tender in water. Drain; reserve liquid for sauce. Add salt, garlic salt and 2 tablespoons of the butter to vegetables; mix lightly. Turn into greased 1-quart baking dish. Top with Mornay Sauce. Combine bread crumbs and remaining tablespoon of butter; sprinkle over sauce. Bake at 350°F. for 30 minutes. Yield: 6 to 8 portions.

SAUCE: Melt butter. Blend in flour, salt, garlic salt and spices until smooth. Add liquid and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil and thickens. Add cheese; stir until melted.

1 cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese
Salt and pepper to taste
Recipe for rich baking-powder biscuit dough using 1 cup flour

IT WAS A MILE DOWN the road out of Monroe, Wis., to Mrs. Elsie Gerber's farm. A Swiss dinner party had been planned for a group of editors visiting Green County, the "Little Switzerland of the New World."

Mrs. Gerber was known as one of the best cooks in the area and since her husband's death catered on occasion, preparing Swiss meals to serve in her big dining room by arrangement. Always abundance on the table, the foods dished up and passed country style. I remember Elsie Gerber smiling from her kitchen door, saying "Help yourself please, there's plenty more." And the dishes went 'round. Here is one of the many we sampled three times.

DIRECTIONS: Combine tomatoes, onion, green pepper, parsley, Worcestershire sauce, cheese, salt and pepper; mix well. Turn into greased 2-quart casserole. Prepare biscuit dough. Roll out ½-inch thick and cut into 2-inch rounds. Place on top of tomato mixture. Brush with melted butter. Bake at 425°F. 20 to 25 minutes or until biscuits are light golden brown. Yield: 6 portions.

11. Spareribs Indonesian

½ cup dried apricots
2 cups cold water
3 tablespoons shortening
3 medium onions, chopped
1 clove garlic, crushed
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon curry powder
3 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons liquid flavor enhancer
1 cup water
3 pounds spareribs
Freshly ground black pepper
Salt
Seasoned salt

MRS. CURT SCHAEFER, White Plains, N. Y., is both home and away. She spends many months of the year traveling with her husband whose business takes him around the world — five years in the Orient. There Mrs. Schaefer experimented with Far Eastern dishes. These she likes to serve to friends when back home in White Plains. Spareribs Indonesian is one of her successes. This can be made the day before serving and kept in the refrigerator. It is served with steamed rice or baked white or sweet potatoes and pan gravy. Rich, rich!

DIRECTIONS: Soak apricots in the 2 cups cold water for 4 hours. Simmer covered until soft. Mash fruit in water. Melt shortening in skillet. Add onions and garlic and saute until onion is transparent. Combine in large bowl with mashed apricots, brown sugar, curry powder, vinegar, liquid flavor enhancer and remaining 1 cup water; mix well. Cut spareribs into serving pieces and rub with pepper and salt. Add to apricot marinade, covering ribs with mixture. Let stand 5 to 6 hours, turning the meat frequently. Place ribs and marinade in a heavy baking pan. Cover. Bake at 300°F. for 1½ to 2 hours. Yield: 6 portions.

Mrs. Schaefer

12. Corn Meal Soufflé

2 cups milk
½ cup corn meal
1 tablespoon sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
3 eggs, separated
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

IT SEEMS SUCH A LONG TIME AGO that we had supper with the late John Howard Benson and his Quaker wife Esther in their Newport, R. I., home. John was a well-known sculptor, a calligrapher and cutter of commemorative stones and memorial plaques. To their house came an endless procession of guests. They stopped by to call and invariably stayed on for supper. Esther Fisher Benson always managed to have enough food. Often John had to go out and bring in a fish for Thomas Tew's Chowder, this given in our "How America Eats" cookbook. This corn meal soufflé was one of Esther's most borrowed recipes.

DIRECTIONS: Scald milk in top of double boiler over boiling water. Sprinkle in corn meal, stirring. Mix in sugar and salt. Cook over hot water, stirring frequently, until thick, about 20 minutes. Beat egg yolks well. Stir a little of the hot corn meal into yolks, then stir into remaining hot mixture. Add butter; blend. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into corn meal mixture. Turn into greased 1½-quart casserole. Bake at 375°F. for 30 to 35 minutes or until golden brown. Serve at once. Yield: 4 portions.

13. Chocolate Pudding Cake

1 cup sifted flour
¾ cup granulated sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2½ tablespoons cocoa
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
½ cup chopped pecans
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup light brown sugar, firmly packed
2 tablespoons cocoa
1 cup boiling water
Whipped cream

IN MY HOME TOWN, Manhattan, Kan., a group of five friends organized a gourmet-dinner club. These women had made cooking and recipe collecting a hobby over the years. At their dinner parties they cook their favorite dishes. A dessert that has had innumerable curtain calls is Mrs. Hal Harlan's Chocolate Pudding Cake.

DIRECTIONS: Sift together flour, ¾ cup granulated sugar, baking powder, salt and 2½ tablespoons cocoa. Add milk, vanilla and butter; blend thoroughly. Stir in nuts. Turn batter into greased 8x8x2-inch pan. Combine remaining ½ cup granulated sugar, brown sugar, remaining 2 tablespoons cocoa and boiling water; pour over batter. Bake at 350°F. for 40 to 45 minutes. When cool turn upside down onto serving dish. Garnish with whipped cream. Yield: 8 portions. Serve in slim slivers.

How To Enjoy 11 Children

TOLUCA LAKE, CALIF.

BETTY MCCARTHY has ten girls, one boy and eleven different theories on how to raise them. "I don't feel highly polished, little white shoes are necessarily the mark of a perfect mother," she says.

The McCarthys (father is a lawyer in North Hollywood) live in a many-bedroomed house here in Toluca Lake. We talked about the importance of families doing things together and Mrs. McCarthy heartily concurred. But she pointed out that with a large family it is also important to do things separately. "I'm trying to raise eleven individual children," she says. This is the McCarthys' secret for raising a big family (and it's not a bad one for small families either).

Both parents concentrate on giving each child a private time. A bike ride with five-year-old Elizabeth in the basket; a swim with Jennifer, six; a trip to a play with the 12-year-old twins and Maureen, 14; a wildflower hunt with nine-year-old Sheila and 11-year-old Colleen.

Big families are great — but not for dinner!

Hollywood Hills, with the older children helping carry the smalls. And on Sunday mornings when they're off to church they look like a beautiful, gaily-colored, moving staircase.

But Betty says that it isn't really too easy for the family to do social things together. "If each of our children brought just one friend in for the afternoon, we'd have twenty-two kids in the house." The McCarthys don't get too many blanket invitations either. Says Betty: "Our mothers are the only people we know who don't mind having all thirteen of us to dinner — at the same time."

At home, the senior McCarthys dine late, but often have a few of the children with them. But "when you live in a house with eleven youngsters, it's also important occasionally to light the candles, close the dining-room door and have dinner as though you were just married and had no children."

"Talk to teachers"

Robert, Sr., enjoys the children more as they grow older, and begin to do things with their minds. He likes to help with the homework, especially his favorite subject, history. He believes that children should develop inquiring minds and not simply accept what parents or teachers say. Betty adds, "I think it's very important to talk to teachers about your children — they have a more objective view than you can have."

The youngsters seem to get on fairly well together although they are frequently critical of each other. Betty thinks this is all to the good as "you don't develop egocentric children this way." The older girls practice hair styles on the little ones, and recently Betty discovered them back-combing two-year-old Cathleen's hair to see if the process really does make your hair fluffy.

Scramble for roommates

Eight-year-old Robbie has his own room, but the girls all share bedrooms. Each time any two have a squabble they change roommates. This involves moving the bed, all their clothes and one pair of curtains. Betty says she doesn't mind, even though it does end up with wildly mixed decor.

We wondered if Robbie and his father minded being the only men in the family. Betty says they don't seem to, and besides the girls bring plenty of boys to the house. If things get too rough the men go off fishing by themselves. It's sort of their own special masculine version of togetherness. —THE END room and woke Donna up. I shook her.

Midnight crisis for a white-collar man

"I'm getting out of the box business," I told her. "It's not for me. I want to work with my hands. I want to fix cars. We'll have to take a big cut in income. We can't keep this house. But I promise I'll take care of you and the kids. Is it okay?"

I knew it was like saying, "I want all of us to hold hands and jump off the Empire State Building. Do you mind?"

Donna blinked a couple of times and then burst into tears.

"I knew something was wrong!" she sobbed. "But I thought it was another woman!"

The owner of a small, neighborhood garage hired me. Most people didn't believe I had left my job voluntarily. They suspected I had been fired. I was accused by rumor of everything from drug addiction to padding expense accounts.

My mother wept. "Your dead father worked hard to send you to college," she cried. "I'm glad he doesn't have to see you in dirty overalls."

Selling the house

We sold our house and moved into a small, rented cottage. The neighborhood was quiet, clean and comfortable, but no one else on that block had been to college.

"Can you find friends here, Donna?" I asked anxiously.

"Of course I can!" she said. "The competition's a little different, that's all. Instead of worrying about my bridge score and my flower arrangements, I think about how white my wash is."

My new job was no pushover. I made mistakes. Once I forgot to put oil in a car I had just overhauled. The customer drove it 40 miles and the engine burned up. He threatened to sue the garage. I fixed it free on my own time and paid for the engine parts.

It takes time to become a really good mechanic. I think I'm a good one now. I went to night school and took a course at one of the major auto assembly plants. During that time, Donna got a job clerking at a department store to make Christmas money.

She had to work until 10 p.m. Christmas Eve. We had always decorated our tree and wrapped packages together. When she walked in the living room and saw that I had finished the job, she burst into tears.

But my wife has rarely nagged me about my job switch. It has paid off for her, too. Since I like myself better, I somehow love her more. We're having more good laughs and real companionship than we ever had before. We spend more time together. We go camping at a state park instead of a private vacation resort.

"My new job was no pushover."

When my term on the school board was ended, they didn't ask me to run again. Donna heard one woman tell another in the supermarket, "Who wants a grease monkey deciding what our children should learn?"

What's ahead now?

But on the other hand, I have time to serve as a Little League coach and I've joined the volunteer fire department. We play pinochle and drink beer.

I don't think I'll spend the rest of my life full-time in a grease pit. Our garage is opening a sports-car division. I think I'll be made manager. But I always want a job where I can get my hands on an engine.

My wife and I aren't sorry I made the change, but we're still learning how to live with it. Yesterday our older daughter, Ellen, who is 15, had a date with a boy she'd never gone out with before. I'd seen him around. He owns a rebuilt Jag. He drives it well. I wanted to meet him. He eased the car into the station. I went out to handle the pumps. He didn't know who I was. He said, "Fill it, please."

I said, "Hi, Ellen."

She said, "Hi." She didn't introduce me.

One man I used to work with tells me I've betrayed the American dream, which is to move onward and upward. But I think I've defended it. Isn't one of our greatest freedoms the right to do the kind of work we want to?

SHOULD YOU CHANGE YOUR JOB? HERE ARE FIVE POINTS TO CONSIDER

"ROGER X'S" change of jobs was an unusually dramatic one. The decision to accept a major change in his social environment as well as a reduced income produced many anxious and unhappy moments before he and his wife said, "We're glad we did it."

Many a man, however, can profit from Roger X's experience by taking a new analytical look at his job.

"Not every job shift means a reduction in status or an escape from pressure," Dr. Arthur A. Hitchcock, executive Director of the American Personnel and Guidance Association, told us. "Lots of men are anxious to accept more responsibility, shoulder more risks and assume more leadership. It requires just as much nerve to step up as to step down." Dr. Hitchcock's test at right will help you make a decision and perhaps avoid a bump.

1. Money aside, do I find my work boring? Is there still enough challenge? Am I yawning, watching the clock?

2. Is my prospect for advancement poor? What's the seniority situation? Do higher jobs often open up? How well qualified am I for them?

3. Has my job lost importance? Has automation or reorganization caused a shift in my job status?

4. Is it really the job that's making me dissatisfied? Or is trouble elsewhere — at home, for instance?

5. Most important — is this the work I really want to spend my life doing? Even though I'm using my skills and education, and making a good salary, is it consistent with the pattern of living to which I want to commit myself?

THE "exercise booklets that swept Canada" are compact, with graphic silhouette pictures to make the exercises easy to follow. At right is Chart I for men — the five basic exercises in their first form. The other five charts are the same basic exercises, but gradually introduce slightly more difficult variations. The time limit is 11 minutes throughout.

Chart I for women — in next week's issue — is similar, except that there are ten basic exercises, somewhat easier to do.

Every chart has 12 levels, each increasing the number of times the exercises are done. How rapidly you pass from one to the next depends on your age and physical condition. For Chart I at least one day at each level is recommended for men 20 and younger, two days for 20-29 age group; four days for 30-39; seven days for 40-49; eight days for 50-59, and at least 10 days for over-60's.

The booklet shows how you can aim for a definite "fitness level," achieve it, and then maintain it by only three exercise periods a week.

For how to get the combined booklet, showing both the men's and women's exercises, see below.

DO YOU TAKE VITAMINS AND STILL FEEL TIRED?

If you take vitamins, get enough rest, yet still feel tired —you may need more than ordinary vitamins to restore your normal strength and energy. Your worn-out feeling may be due to iron-poor, Tired Blood.

Vitamins alone can't build up iron-poor blood. But GERITOL can! Because GERITOL contains 7 important vitamins and, in addition, supplies the therapeutic amount of iron needed to build iron-rich red blood. Just 2 GERITOL tablets, or 2 tablespoons of GERITOL liquid, contain twice the iron in a pound of calves' liver! It is this rich source of iron, combined with high-potency vitamins, including essential B vitamins in 3 to 5 times the minimum daily requirements, that make GERITOL such an effective strength-building tonic. In only one day, GERITOL-iron is working in your bloodstream, carrying strength and energy to every part of your body!

Proved By Medical Tests!

Patients diagnosed with iron-deficiency anemia frequently were pale, nervous, irritable and easily tired. After patients took GERITOL daily, doctors reported definite clinical improvement—further confirmed by laboratory tests. Remember, ordinary maintenance vitamins can't do it! But the high-potency combination of vitamins plus iron in GERITOL can help you regain your strength and energy.

So when you feel tired, check with your doctor and if this is your problem, take fast-acting GERITOL every day. You must feel a noticeable difference in the first seven days . . . or your money back from the maker.

"We're looking for others who like to draw"... says Norman Rockwell

The people pictured above have changed their lives through art—so can you

IF YOU LIKE TO DRAW OR PAINT—you must have toyed with the idea of "doing something" in art.

Why not explore the idea further? If you show talent—a group of America's most famous artists stand ready to give you the art training you need.

These distinguished men (listed below) own and run the Famous Artists Schools. They spent years pouring all they know about drawing and painting . . . all their priceless trade secrets . . . all their professional know-how . . . into a monumental series of art lessons. As one of their students, you can share this vast knowledge and experience—no matter where you live. You study at home, in your spare time.

America's 12 Most Famous Artists

NORMAN ROCKWELL	FRED LUDEKENS
JON WHITCOMB	BEN STAHL
AL PARKER	ROBERT FAWCETT
STEVAN DOHANOS	AUSTIN BRIGGS
GEORGE GIUSTI	HAROLD VON SCHMIDT
PETER HELCK	ALBERT DORNE

You Are a Class of One

Your instructors—who are themselves practicing professional artists—correspond directly with you. For each assignment you send in, they spend as much as two or three hours showing you ways to improve your work. They make separate drawings and paintings especially for you. They write you personal letters of advice and guidance. Eventually, they become your friends, eager to hear news of your success, eager to help in any way they can.

Find Out If You Have Talent

To find others with talent worth developing, the famous artists created a special talent test. Formerly, the School charged for the test, but now they offer it free and grade it free. If you show talent on the test, you are eligible for Famous Artists training. But there is no obligation at all. To get a copy of the test, simply mail the coupon. It could be your first step to seeing your picture on this page.
